

FAIRLEY WILL BE BUSINESS OFFICE ADJUSTMENT MAN

Position Is Created for Better Understanding Between Students, Administration.

POST UNIQUE IN AMERICA

Francis Fairley of Monroe, rising senior, has been appointed student assistant to Assistant Controller L. B. Rogerson, it was announced by the administration office yesterday.

Fairley's appointment to the position newly incorporated in the administrative set-up will serve to create an official liaison in the business office between the business administration of the University and the Student Advisory Committee.

Contact Man

Since the advisory committee represents the Carolina student body, Fairley will act as a connecting link between the administration and the students in the matter of business relations and service enterprises.

The appointment, which is for the balance of the present school year, is in line with the policy of the business office in promoting mutual understanding between students and the University administration.

To Seek Improvements

Fairley's immediate duties will be a follow-up in the business departments of the University of the recommendations outlined in the DAILY TAR HEEL by the Student Advisory Committee last month.

The creation of the position of student assistant at Carolina is considered unique in college and university business administrations throughout the country.

GLOBE TROTTERS TO DEBATE HERE

Seawell and Kellar Meet World Touring Bates College Team Tonight on Medicine.

International debaters from Bates College will meet Carolinians Donald Seawell and Norman Kellar tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall.

Seawell and Kellar will uphold the affirmative of the query: Resolved, that the several states should adopt legislation providing to the citizens at nominal costs general medical care and the services of hospitals and clinics.

March Through South

On their round-the-world debate trip, the Maine "arguers" left their college in March and have already appeared at Rutgers, N. C. State, Wake Forest, Winthrop, University of South Carolina, University of Florida, Rollins, Universities of Miami, Tampa, and Georgia, and Emory University.

Although the Bates teams have been three times to England and once completely around the world, this is the first time that they have debated south of Washington.

The Bates team, in supporting the negative, is taking the side least preferred by their opponents.

Entertainment Passbooks

Student entertainment passbooks may be obtained at the cashier's window in the business office of South building today from 9 to 1 and from 2 to 5 o'clock.

CCC SWELLS ROLL WITH ADDED FUND

Administration Wants Future Enrollment of 600,000.

Washington, April 15.—(UP)—The government today began a new attack on unemployment under a work relief fund starting with the enrollment of 110,000 young men for Civilian Conservation Camps.

Armed with $30,000,000, the corps offered jobs on soil erosion, reforestation, and other public works projects, replacing men whose terms ended this month and restoring the CCC to an average strength of 353,000.

After new camps are constructed, the corps will be raised to 600,000 men, the administration hopes.

ALUMNI ATTEND BANQUET IN N. Y.

President Graham Speaks, Former President Chase Is Guest At Annual Celebration.

New York alumni of the University held their annual banquet last Friday at the Town Hall Club in New York City with an attendance of more than 150 graduates.

President Graham and J. Bayard Clark, Congressman from the seventh North Carolina district, were the principal speakers. J. Marvon Saunders, alumni secretary, and F. A. Grisette, director of the Alumni Loyalty Fund, were present as guests from Chapel Hill.

Chase Present

An honor guest was Chancellor Harry W. Chase of New York University, formerly president of the University of North Carolina.

John Motley Morehead, former United States Minister to Sweden, as president of the New York Alumni Club, was toastmaster. For the new year, Rufus L. Patterson, co-donor with Mr. Morehead of the Morehead-Patterson bell tower on the Chapel Hill campus, was named president.

Graham Speaks

President Graham, in his address, outlined to the New York alumni the development of projects in the fine arts at Chapel Hill and the contemplated organization of a fine arts center at the University.

Other officers were: E. F. Hartley, first vice-president; George Carmichael, second vice-president; George V. Denny, Jr., secretary; Charles T. Lipscombe, assistant secretary; and C. B. Sparger, treasurer.

Among alumni who attended the meeting were George Gordon Battle, W. D. Carmichael, Sr., Junius Parker, L. Ames Brown, Dr. J. E. Pogue, Alexander J. Field, James L. Harrison, Alfred W. Haywood, Charles H. Keel, Dr. Howard A. Patterson, W. D. Carmichael, Jr., William A. Whitaker, and Dr. Holland Thompson.

The New York Alumni Club holds weekly dinner meetings on Friday nights at the Town Hall Club, climaxing the year's program at the annual banquet.

TAU BETA PI

Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in 214 Phillips hall.

Professor J. P. Harland of the classics department addressed the society at its last meeting, Saturday night.

RUSSIAN SINGERS APPEAR TONIGHT

Original Symphonic Choir Will Present Program on Student Entertainment Series.

The Russian Symphonic Choir, which will sing in Memorial hall at 8:30 tonight under the direction of Basile Kibalchich, is credited with revolutionizing the American idea of choral singing.

It is a choir built up, not along the ordinary lines of an ensemble of voices, but on the principle of a symphony orchestra. Kibalchich has assembled 20 voices with the technique of organizing an instrumental ensemble.

Adapt Classics

Director Kibalchich will introduce a new kind of choral music, never before heard on such a program. In addition to church music and folk songs, the choir will offer arrangements of popular light classics, originally written for the piano. These arrangements have been made possible by the director's original ideas applied to choral singing and thus a "Prelude" by Chopin or a "Song without Words" by Schumann finds a place on a choral program.

The Russian Symphonic Choir will include in its program a number of compositions which are considered classic, but are popular in appeal. "The Volga Boatman," one of the world's best known folk songs, is on the program. Among other attractions are several Bohemian chants, which this unique company will render.

Psychologists Examine High School Tests

Find Nine-Month State Schools Average Higher Than Others.

Many thousand standard achievement tests have recently been sent to high schools over the state through the North Carolina College Conference. Over 20,000 high school seniors have taken these tests, and the results are now being examined.

These tests provide an excellent sampling of the North Carolina high school average, according to Dr. A. M. Jordan of the college conference.

The scholastic standing of schools located in widely differing environments may be easily determined. The nine high schools in the state that have been able to retain the nine-month school year have shown a much higher standing than the schools with the shorter terms.

Di Senate

The Dialectic Senate will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in Old West.

Bills for discussion are: Resolved, that a law be enacted in the state legislature providing for the construction of a lethal gas chamber in the state prison at Raleigh in the place of the electric chair; Resolved, that Death Row in the state prison be abolished.

Senators Henderson and Weaver will lead discussion groups on the lethal gas chamber bill.

There will be a special meeting of the ways and means committee after the meeting, which will adjourn in time for the members to attend the Student Entertainment program.

Students Okay Birth Control, Razz Prohibition In Survey Of Attitudes

Carolina Campus, Alleged Hot-Bed of Radicals, Registers Only Slightly Liberal on Political and Social Questions.

The campus of the University of North Carolina, long spoken of as a hot-bed of radicalism, appears through a "Social and Political Attitude" survey made by Virgil Lee of the psychology department to lean only slightly in the direction of liberalism.

This survey, made last spring among 214 representative students, includes questions of economic, political, social, sex, racial, and religious significance. From this it was possible to determine that the average Carolina student would have taken a neutral stand on 12 of the 36 questions, conservative on nine, reactionary on two, liberal on 11, and radical on only two questions.

In comparison with two other schools that have recently conducted a similar survey, the University takes a rather conspicuous position. As would be expected, it was shown to be more liberal than N. C. State but only slightly so. When measured by the standard of New York University it seems a stronghold of hide-bound Toryism.

It is interesting to note the type of questions in which the students showed marked deviation from the neutral answer. Concerning the matter of political parties, the average student took a liberal stand and indicated that he believed, "it is the duty of every citizen to vote upon issues as they arise irrespective of party affiliation."

The heart of Miss Sanger would swell with satisfaction to learn that the Carolina students' attitude was liberal when he answered the question of birth control. He believes that the government should either "adopt an attitude of complete laissez faire and remove all present restrictions or laws in regard to contraceptive information," or else supply people with information concerning birth control.

The students contend that social improvement can and should be made in our society. They think prohibition has been wholly unsuccessful. They were decidedly liberal in their attitude toward the question on the

EVERETT SYSTEM MAY BE ADOPTED BY OTHER DORMS

Student Welfare Board Approves Suggestion to Extend Plan to Entire Lower Quadrangle.

EVERETT BOYS APPROVE

After a year's successful trial, the Everett dormitory plan may be extended next year to other campus rooming houses, yesterday's developments bring out.

The Student Welfare Board unanimously approved the recommendation drawn up by present Everett inmates that the plan be extended to include the three other dormitories in the lower quadrangle: Aycock, Graham, and Lewis.

Action Expected Soon

President Graham has received the report of the board, and is expected to act on the recommendation before May 1, when applications for rooms next year will begin coming in.

Anxious about the reaction of the plan on Everett boys, Dean Bradshaw had a questionnaire circulated among them about three weeks ago inquiring about the degree of quiet in the dormitory, the cleanliness and general atmosphere, complaints, suggested improvements and changes, efficacy of placing advisors in the dormitory, the differences between Everett and other dorms, and the advisability of extending the plan.

Plan Upheld

Answers to this questionnaire reflected a decidedly favorable reaction to the plan. The questionnaire was followed up by a smoker where the recommendation was formulated.

Besides the questionnaire, the board also considered in making their decision two other dean of students' office findings that the Everett plan has caused little demonstrated improvement in scholarship, yet has improved stability of residence.

During the year, Mayne Albright has acted as manager of Everett and has had as advisers, two to each floor, Emmet Willis, Tom Leath, Tom Hawthorne, Ed Waldrop, Ed McRae, and H. G. Connor.

LITERARY REVIEW SPRING ISSUE OUT

New Studies in Philology Devoted to Elizabethan Period.

The release of the Elizabethan issue of Studies in Philology, a quarterly literary review published by the departments of language and literature, has been announced by G. R. Coffman, editor of the review and head of the English department of the University.

The April issue of this review, the twentieth of the series, is devoted annually to Renaissance literature, a practice which was initiated by Dr. Edwin Greenlaw, formerly a member of the University faculty.

Contained in the review is the bibliography of "Recent Literature of the English Renaissance," by Hardin Craig, former visiting professor in the English department here.

Other articles contributed by members of the local faculty include a variorium on Spenser by Professor W. F. Thrall and an article entitled "Mottoes on the Title Pages on Some of the Elizabethan Plays," by Professor Robert B. Sharpe.
