N. C. ASSOCIATION OF PHILOSOPHERS ASSEMBLES HERE

Dr. Knight Says This the Most Confused Period in Education.

The North Carolina Philosophical Society held its annual spring meeting here yesterday.

An open discussion on the methods of teaching philosophy was conducted by Dean Bradshaw yesterday morning, followed by a University luncheon.

At a symposium on "The Philosopher and Education" yesterday afternoon, talks were made by President Clyde A. Miller of Guilford College; Dr. Edgar W. Knight, director of the consolidated summer schools of the University, and Dr. Alban G. Widgery of Duke.

"Philosophers of education have been misinterpreted and we have made a fad of curriculum," declared Dr. Knight, giving a summary of the development of educational system. "This is the most confused period of educational history."

"America has more education than any other country and it has made a fetish out of the materials and methods. The philosophy of education is as dangerous as the standardized test movement of experimental psychology which may become a fetish if not handled properly. As it is, we're turning out mechanics—not educated personalities."

The legislature, which concluded a five-day session at noon today, handed Huey the complete control of the state's selection of machinery and municipal affairs and placed a stamp of approval on his "quarrel" with the Federal government.

Party Chairmen Indorse N. C. Plan to Educate for Office-Holding.

Raleigh, April 20.—The state chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties have joined in endorsing the institute of government's non-partisan program of governmental study and education, it was disclosed here today, and in recommending it to local officials and party workers for support.

The two party leaders, Wallace Winborne (D) of Marion and W. C. Meekins (R) of Hendersonville, it was learned, have written to their executive committeemen and county chairmen throughout the state, commending the program, pointing out its potential value to the state, and urging them to aid in the membership drive now under way.

Is State Project

The institute of government is a joint organization of North Carolina officials, citizens and students of government, non-partisan and non-profit in nature, whose purpose is the comparative study of state and local government, with a view to lifting the poorest practices to the level of the best.

Political observers and commentators in the capital city, pointing out that the government of the state and nation is in the last analysis government by parties, regarded the action of the two state chairmen as a significant manifestation of party responsibility.

"It is a fine thing to have both Democrats and Republicans interested, as parties, in such a movement," said one ranking state official.

BURLINGTON CASE GAINS PUBLICITY IN LATEST NATION

Editor Soule Reprints Carolina
Magazine Article by W. T.
Couch and J. O. Bailey.

PRINTS ERICSON'S LETTER

The publication in this week's issue of The Nation of "Dynamite in Burlington," by W. T. Couch and J. O. Bailey, gives the seven Burlington textile workers convicted of dynamiting the E. M. Holt mill their first widespread publicity since the beginning of their case.

Slightly revised and accompanied by a letter to the editors from Dr. E. E. Ericson, the same article as that carried in the April issue of the Carolina Magazine appears in The Nation under the section "Labor and Industry."

Ericson Appeals

Dr. Ericson's letter, headed "Friends of Labor to the Rescue!", is a request for funds to help finance the appeal that the convicted men are attempting to obtain.

The only editorial comment far different from that enjoyed by the case in a recent issue of David Clark's Textile Bulletin is in the form of a note appended to Dr. Ericson's letter.

The note reads: "The story of the arrest and conviction of these seven men, showing the flimsy character of the evidence against them, is related at greater length by W. T. Couch and J. O. Bailey on page 483 of this issue.—Editors the Nation."

Who's Who

Mr. Couch, director of the University Press, Dr. Bailey, instructor in the English department, and Dr. Ericson, professor in the same department, are three faculty members who have

PUBLICISTS CLOSE CONVENTION HERE

Wilkinson of Duke Elected as
New President; Next Meeting
Place Undecided.

The annual convention of the directors of Southern News Bureaus came to a close here yesterday.

Albert A. Wilkinson of Duke University was elected southern district director for next year, succeeding Ralph Clark of Rollins College. The selection of next year's meeting place was left with the executive committee.

Yesterday's session was addressed by Edward V. Mitchell, sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News; Ted Mann, sports publicist of Duke University; Dallas Millison, director of the Atlantic Christian College News Bureau, and Miss Virginia Garner, professor of journalism and publicity director of Wesleyan College.

"North Carolina newspapers are fortunate in having such well organized and efficient college news bureaus," Mr. Mitchell told the publicists. "Nowhere in the south are newspapers as well serviced by college bureaus as in North Carolina."

He advised that news stories as a general rule always be told as briefly as possible.

Newspapers are not interested in printing stories that have been broadcast previously in the identical form, he said.
