OPINION ON PLAN
It is quite interesting to notice the varying tenor marking the answers of the various departmental heads to our letters concerning the proposed class extension plan.

The language departments show a sharp contrast of opinion. The classical gentlemen are decidedly against the idea; the Romance professors are very favorably impressed and receptive.

Very likely it is in the peculiar characteristics of the subjects taught. At least, that may be the argument presented. Then again, it may be personal opinion. We can see no reason, however, why Greek or Latin would differ from Spanish or French in the application of the plan.

On the contrary, it would seem that lectures of programs on Livy or Homer would offer more interest than modern French or Spanish celebrities. The situation reflects different interpretations and points of view, it would seem, rather than innate departmental differences. Which is all very well, but a definite drag on the plan's progress.

BEHIND A NAME
The preliminary skirmishes in the fight to re-christen the humor magazine as the "Buccaneer" instead of allowing it to bear the present title of "Finjan" are particularly amusing.

Incoming-president Pool is close-mouthed about the whole thing. Francis Fairley, unsuccessful candidate against Pool and hold-over member of the Student Council, which will decide the question, is pro-Buccaneer. Marvin Allen, another hold-over member, has reversed his stand from pro-Buccaneer to pro-Finjan. It will be a jolly fight when the boys get together and all reverse and proceed at the same time.

We hope there is less foolish dickered this time than last fall. The name "Finjan" is the most asinine title we could possibly think of. Why Chapel Hill boarding houses should be used as a source of information for the humor magazine's title campaign can be answered only by Gaskins, who was on the poop deck as the Buccaneer rose and fell.

FREE FOR ALL
Yesterday afternoon one of our guest Scoutmasters reported the theft of valuable personal property from a "Kenan Valley tent," where the visitor was encamped.

The night watchman, on being asked for information, said he couldn't afford to stop everyone with a suitcase, because he'd get written up in the paper and lose his job. The local police were more sublimely oblivious.

We, as well as Boy Scouts, must "Be Prepared" in Chapel Hill. It looks like it's every man for himself, even Pansy Chandler.

FESTIVAL TODAY TO INCLUDE GAME, MUSIC AND PLAYS

Indians to Play Ancestral Ball Game; Scout Pageant, Folk Plays End Program.

FOLK MUSIC BEGINS DAY

The Dogwood Festival program today will include a folk music concert, Cherokee Indian ball game, Boy Scout Jubilee pageant, and a production of the new Carolina folk plays.

At 10:30 in Memorial hall the Folk Music program under the direction of Richard Chase will feature the old time fiddlers, dulcimer players, string bands, old hymns, ballads, square dances, and Cherokee Indian music.

Dulcimer Music
Probably the most unique part of this program will be the selections played on the dulcimer by Franklin Scott, Mrs. Artemus Ward, and Turner Brown, all of Jugtown.

Youth will be represented at this demonstration of old-time music by a group of students from Crossnore school, which is situated in the mountains of North Carolina.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock two teams from the Cherokee reservation will demonstrate their own brand of ball game. This game, which is usually played with 10 men on each side, has the appearance of a free-for-all; there are few rules for the game and none whatsoever to prevent extreme roughness.

The ball game, which is one of the oldest games of Indian origin, will be played in its primitive form. When played on the

Cash Winner Gets Horse Laugh But Takes Off Prizes

Hollingsworth Stops Show to Collect $15, Lucky Strikes.

Although he had to suffer several moments of acute embarrassment and self-consciousness in order to collect, Willard Revelle Hollingsworth firmly grasped his $15 in cash and the carton of Lucky Strikes, which he won at E. Carrington Smith's weekly drawing at the Carolina theatre last night, and trod the clouds back to the Sigma Nu house.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Herr Smith toted his box of numbers down to the front of the theatre and pounced on Eben Alexander, S. A. E., to draw forth one of them. Eben up and picked number 304; Smith called it out three times; no Hollingsworth stepped forth; Smith announced the contest closed and doubled the prize for next week.

Interrupts Movie
After that little flurry of excitement, the audience settled back to enjoy the new "March of Time." Hardly had more than two scenes been flashed upon the screen when the lights came on once more and the screen became blank. Smith was once more holding forth in front and was accompanied by a rather ill-at-ease and sheepish young man.

The manager hurriedly apologized and begged to explain that Mr. Hollingsworth had been outside in front of the theatre at the time of the drawing but had to shove his way through the crowd and had become so excited at hearing his name called that he couldn't explain coherently to the

SCOUTS TO HEAR EHRLINGHAUS TALK TODAY IN STADIUM

Governor Will Inspect Camp; Chief Scout Executive West Also to Address Scouts.

PAGEANT IS TONIGHT AT 7

With two days filled with activity, the 1,500 Boy Scouts here looked forward today to the visit of their two distinguished guests, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Chief Scout Executive of America, Dr. James E. West.

Governor Ehringhaus and Chief West will arrive this morning at 10:30 o'clock, and following a tour of inspection of the camps, Governor Ehringhaus will address the Scouts at 11:45 in Kenan stadium.

Guests of Grahams
The Governor and Scout Chief will be luncheon guests of President and Mrs. Graham.

Yesterday's program was devoted chiefly to campcraft events by individual Scouts, games directed by Camp Chief Wessel, demonstration events by patrols, a tour of the University and the Dogwood Festival, and a campfire session at night, with all Scouts and former Scouts of the University as guests.

Pageant Tonight
The high light of the program, the Scout Pageant, will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in Kenan stadium. Administrative Dean R. B. House will express the University's welcome and Chief Scout Executive West will deliver the principal address.

Paul Schenck of Greensboro, regional Scout chairman, will preside.

The 11 councils of the state will participate in the pageant which is expected to be the most colorful affair of the Jubilee.

Another event keenly anticipated is the Cherokee Indian ball game this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ENGLISH EXHIBIT

A unique exhibit has been prepared in connection with the Dogwood Festival by Drs. Harry K. Russell and J. O. Bailey of the University English department, and is now being shown in 112 Saunders.

Included in the exhibit are themes and various other kinds of work done in freshman English. The exhibit clearly points out the difficulties that the students have in writing, and the trouble the instructors face in teaching them.

MEMORIAL FUND CAMPAIGN BEGUN

Charlotte Group Inaugurates Drive for Fund to Honor Dr. Graham's Father.

The campaign to raise ten thousand dollars in Charlotte and Mecklenburg county for the Alexander Graham Memorial fund was officially begun Wednesday evening at a banquet held by the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce.

This fund, which will aid North Carolina students in obtaining their education at their state university will be a memorial to the late Dr. Alexander Graham, a leading educator in the state and the father of Dr. Frank Graham.

The money will be collected in Charlotte and in Mecklenburg county and turned over to the University for administration. This decision was made by the committee appointed for handling the fund, in view of the outstanding success with which the University has met in the administration of similar sums.

Grisette Speaks

Felix A. Grisette, director of the Alumni Loyalty Fund, attended the meeting and spoke about the remarkable work accomplished by education loan funds in the state. Speeches were also made by former Senator Cameron Morrison, and Dr. Lingle, president of Davidson, extolling the memory of Dr. Graham and discussing the proposed fund and its purposes.

The banquet was attended by 75 citizens of Mecklenburg county, and the plan met with their hearty approval.

Pageant Head

Paul W. Schenck of Greensboro, regional chairman of this region of the Boy Scouts of America, who will preside at the Scout pageant at Kenan stadium tonight at 7 o'clock.

Law Officers Elected

Robert R. Reynolds, Jr., of Asheville, was elected president of the Law School Association yesterday.

Other officers for next year are Dan B. Bryan of Wake Forest, vice-president; John Taylor Manning of Chapel Hill, secretary-treasurer; and Francis Irving Anderson of Leaksville, member to the Student Council.

Rotary Hears Hudson

Dr. A. P. Hudson of the English department spoke before the Chapel Hill Rotary Club at its regular meeting this week on "The Bell Witch of Tennessee and Mississippi," one of his pet stories in the field of southern folk-lore.

Scout Leader

Dr. James E. West of New York, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will be the principal speaker at the Scout pageant in Kenan stadium tonight at 7 o'clock.

THIEF ROBS TENT OF SCOUTMASTER

Leader of Goldsboro Troop Returns from Camp-Fire to Find Tent Ransacked.

Apparently someone unfortunately missed his Boy Scout training in his more youthful days because one of the chief Scout rules was smashed to pieces Thursday night when one of the neatly-erected tents was entered and ransacked between 8 and 9 o'clock.

M. L. Smoot, Scoutmaster of Troop four from Goldsboro, returned to his tent between the Tin Can and the intramural field Thursday night after attending the camp-fire celebration to find that someone had artistically plundered his temporary abode and made off with a new black alligator Gladstone bag, containing two army blankets, another black blanket, a pair of Oxford grey trousers, a belt, a sterling silver key chain and a bunch of keys, an Eastman folding kodak and case, other wearing apparel, and toilet articles.

Mr. Smoot was forced to return to Goldsboro yesterday but has offered a liberal reward to anyone giving any information concerning the stolen articles or returning them to him at Box 448, Goldsboro, or to the DAILY TAR HEEL office.

Sophomore "Y" Group

Monday evening there will be a combination meeting and social gathering of the "Y" committee of the rising sophomore class and all rising sophomores who care to attend. The group will meet in front of the "Y" at 6:00 to go on a weiner roast near the Forest theatre.

The eating over, Mr. Comer, Drew Martin, and Nick Read will speak on the program of the "Y" next year.

Students who were in any way connected with the cabinet when it was the Freshman Friendship Council are especially urged to attend. Those wishing to accept this invitation will please call Miss Hodges at the "Y" before noon Monday.

Leavitt Attends Meeting

Dr. Sturgis E. Leviatt of the romance language department, attended a joint meeting in New York of the Latin-American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council.

LAWYERS DEVOTE DINNER TO PRAISE OF A. C. MCINTOSH

Zeb Long and Dr. Breckenridge Present Gifts on Part of Law Students and Faculty.

DEAN ANNOUNCES AWARDS

With sparkling energy Carolina law students and faculty members last night paid tribute to Kenan Professor of Law Emeritus Atwell C. McIntosh at the ninth annual dinner of the Law School Association in the Carolina Inn.

"In affectionate recognition of 25 years of devoted teaching," the entire evening affair was dedicated to "Dr. Mac," the "old gentleman" of the law school.

"The Man Himself"

Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell, representing the state of North Carolina, praised the splendid service that Dr. McIntosh had rendered the state, the school and the students. "His greatest service to the state of North Carolina," declared Seawell, "is an unconscious one . . . it is the man himself."

Resounding to the praise of "Dr. Mac's" intimate, inspiring association with the Carolina students, Zeb Long and Professor M. S. Breckenridge gave the greetings for the occasion from the students and the faculty, respectively.

Receives Watch

Long presented the honor guest with a watch from the students—"To serve and remind him of their continued devotion." From the faculty of the law school, Professor Breckenridge gave the law school a photographic portrait of Mr. McIntosh.

Concluding the program, Dr.

Hero Harmon Finds Ravenous Scouts Hard On His Food Supply

Dining Hall Manager Buys Out Chapel Hill Meat Dealers in Search for Veal.

One of the biggest problems ever to face a dining hall manager has been disposed of by J. Obie Harmon, manager of Swain hall. That problem was to feed 1,500 Boy Scouts at the Jubilee here this week-end.

Manager Harmon has worked out a system whereby the Scouts eat breakfast early, are fed lunch in Kenan stadium, and are served ahead of the regular group of student diners.

His figures as to the quality of food required for the 1,500 boys is rather amazing. For their breakfasts over a three-day period they will eat 600 dozens of eggs, drink 1,400 gallons of milk, and consume 1,000 pounds of potato chips, in addition to eating around 200 dozens of rolls at each meal.

In buying veal for the Scouts, Manager Harmon purchased all the available stocks in Chapel Hill and Durham warehouses—and still didn't have enough. Other articles were of corresponding enormity.

For lunch the boys are fed in Kenan stadium. In cafeteria style they line up for their rations, which are dished out by lines of self-help students working with the dining hall forces.

The boys generally concede that Manager Harmon should be listed as one of the heroes of the Scout convention.
