When the group of UNDER liberals met recently Pi. PAID and set a program, the members launched first on a fight for "better working conditions and wages for the self-help students of Carolina."

Instances were cited, according to the liberals' report, where students were getting as low as 121/2 cents per hour.

Nowhere on the campus where regularly assigned self-help students work are the wages below 25 cents, by official University order. If the 121/2 cent wages is really paid to others—and we believe we have an idea where they are - then the matter should be prosecuted.

But students who secure jobs through the self-help office must be paid 25 cents per hour. The University went to a great sacrifice to see that this wage was maintained in the 32 per cent cut days of early slashing.

We repeat, however, that students getting jobs without the self-help committee's aid should be treated as fairly as the others. We must protect the student who must work for his education.

STUDENT STRAW VOTE

Yesterday's balloting in the DAILY TAR HEEL straw vote went almost 20-1 against the adoption of the semester system and 3-1 against the proposed class-hour change.

Ballot boxes will be collected this afternoon at 5 o'clock, when all voting must end. Boxes are located in the lobbies of Graham Memorial, the Y. M. C. A., and Spencer hall, and in the stores of Everett and Grimes dormitories.

Both questions under consideration are or have been before the University administration, with the possibility of the adoption of either or both next fall.

The names of voting students will not be used in tabulating the results of this poll. Ballots must be signed, however, in order to count in the results."

Press Release

W. T. Couch, director of the University Press, announced yesterday the release of "Early Negro American Writers," by Benjamin Brawly, professor of English at Howard University.

The book covers the period from 1761 until the close of the Civil War. Biographical and critical introductions accompany the selections from the works of the foremost Negro writers of that period.

Most of the selections deal with religion, politics, or the social condition of the Negro.

MADE LAST NIGHT Students to Elect Officers Today:

Make Take Offices Without Opposition.

STUDENTS' DUTY TO VOTE

Students of the nine dormitories of the campus met last night to nominate their respective officers for next year. Elections will be held sometime today, according to individual dormitory regulations.

Albert Ellis, president of the Inter-dormitory Council, urged dormitory members to "be as conscientious as possible in the selection of your officers, so that the dorm councils may function efficiently next year. It is just as much your duty to vote for dorm officers as it is to vote in campus elections."

Nominees

The following were nominated for 1935-36 dormitory officers: In Mangum, president, Allen Knott; vice-president, Of the 70 students who held Willis Sensenbach; athletic manager, Bunn Hearn; councilmen: first floor, Forest Kee and Charlie Daniel; second floor, Turlington and Dick Gabori; fourth floor, Don Leeper and George Smally.
