TICKETS RESERVED The junior-senior boys aren't selling extra bids to their functions this week-end, thereby depriving many underclassmen of the opportunity of helping to jam more completely the spacious capacity of the Tin Can.

President Pool and President Eutsler and all the rest are using their heads. Why junior-senior committees ever submitted to pressure and sold their bids other than to members of the two classes is rather puzzling. Heaven knows the Tin Can cracks its hoary old ribs enough without a few extra kidney punches from visitors.

If in the past it has been finances which has caused the additional selling, then these classes stand for censure in that they couldn't make their budgets stand the strain. An economically-priced orchestra and fewer broken backs and crushed souls are far more to be desired than Harry Hotstuff's Collegians at 2000 bucks and a mortality list to boot.

TAR HEELS ON JOBS Even the New Deal with its many employment opportunities is not alleviating the problem of what to do after the four-year residence at Chapel Hill.

We understand that the Tar Heel quota in Washington has long been filled, so that enterprising ex-Carolina University men can't rely any longer on the Rooseveltian pork barrel for their bread-and-butter after college.

On the other hand, there has been an increase of applications for graduate employment by private concerns. Maybe it is the result of a Farley-New Deal policy we know nothing about, or else we must be getting into prosperity again.

WE'LL TRY ANYTHING The recent success of Williams College students in boycotting the local Walden theatre for showing Red-Baiter Hearst's Metrotone News shows that collegians have hit upon an effective method of making the influence of their opinions felt.

The Williamstown boys rose up in arms against the Hearstian propaganda, with its troops and guns making noises "for the glory of the empire" and promptly set about through the columns of Editor McConnell's Williams Record to tell the Walden management that Hearst wasn't desired by them.

Finding this means ineffective, they simply banded together and stopped patronizing the theatre. It was only a question of a few days before Walden announced that the Metrotone would shine no more on the local screen. Attendance bounded back to normal.

A similar method might be used here as regards boarding houses. After a careful investigation, we are going to sponsor boycotts of eating places which don't come up to scratch. It ought to work.

Hopes For Class Extension Plan Rise As Faculty Acts Favorably

Professors Vote Group To Report Next Fall

Dr. Wiley, Others Favor Plan Not So Broad as That Advocated by Daily Tar Heel.

NEW APPEAL PROCEDURE

Climaxing a long and heated discussion evidencing intense interest, the faculty in general session yesterday voted to appoint a committee to work out in full a class extension plan, in co-operation with a student committee, to be presented next fall.

According to T. J. Wilson, Jr., secretary of the faculty, a great deal of sincere interest was shown in the plan offered by the DAILY TAR HEEL, much time being consumed with motions galore, which were finally summed up in one conclusive resolution.

Plan Too Broad

General opinion among the professors seemed to be that the plan should not be so extensive as set forth by the DAILY TAR HEEL. Dr. W. L. Wiley, originator of the idea, gave the impression that he had not conceived it to be quite so ambitious as Editor Hammer would have it.

The plan as originally set forth, provided that "every week professors and instructors submit to the department heads a list of lectures which they will give during the week," and "every day a bulletin would be run in the DAILY TAR HEEL announcing the various lectures to be delivered that day."

With Dean Hobbs presiding, the faculty also decided on a new procedure to be followed on a grade appeal from a student. In the future all appeals will be presented to the college dean of the respective student in writing within 30 college days after conference with the professor on the question.

Formerly the appeal was presented to the president of the University, who appointed a committee to decide upon it. Under the new plan the appeal will then be turned over to the administrative board of the school, whose decision will be final.

New Student Forum

A local branch of the Christian Fellowship Movement will be organized at the United church Sunday night at 7 o'clock and will take the place of the student forum which has been operating regularly at that time, it was announced yesterday.

The series will continue tonight with the Junior Prom from 10 to 1 o'clock. The dance leaders of the junior class, who will present the figure tonight, are: Ernie Eutsler, chief, with Miss Betty Felton of Goldsboro; Harry Montgomery, first assistant, with Miss Betty Fugitt of Atlanta, Ga.; Johnny Bost, second assistant, with Miss Pickette Kendall of Raleigh; Claude Rankin, third assistant, with Miss Ethel Highsmith of Fayetteville.

Student Accounts

The administration of the University wishes to remind all seniors and other candidates for degrees that before they can receive their diplomas it is necessary that they settle all amounts owed to the University, including accounts with the business office, Swain hall, the library, the laundry, the Book Exchange, Spencer hall, the student loan fund, and also all laboratory fees.

In addition each candidate for a degree is reminded that he must pay $5 diploma fee and must make arrangements with the Book Exchange for the rental of a cap and gown.

DORMITORY GROUP SEEKS TO IMPROVE LIVING CONDITIONS

Council Decides to Take Action On Plan Instigated by Daily Tar Heel.

UNIVERSITY BEHIND MOVE

The newly formed Dormitory Council, composed of the presidents of the individual dormitories, unanimously agreed last night on two points of action: to reduce the noises and disturbances prevalent in their respective dorms, and to take up the agitation, recently started by the DAILY TAR HEEL, for an improvement in the general condition existing in the dormitories.

Dean Bradshaw stated that President Graham and the school officials were showing tremendous interest in the drive for better dormitory conditions which was recently instigated by the DAILY TAR HEEL, and that definite action, in the form of a new budget and survey, was being taken in preparation for the ensuing year.

Said Dean Bradshaw: "The University has decided that the only way to fill the dormitories is by making improvements rather than by compulsion." It was decided that each dormitory should make a complete study of it, finding their greatest needs and then presenting a list of these needs to the school officials, this being in preparation for next year.

Mayne Albright, coming to the rescue of his much derogated, Everett dormitory, stated that regardless of what anyone says to the contrary, they have really accomplished something; he was promptly seconded in this remark by Dean Bradshaw who gave proofs in the form of comparisons of grades and the tendency of students to remain in Everett.

Don K. McKee was appointed editor of the Carolina Freshman Handbook yesterday by a committee from the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A.

McKee, who is a rising junior, was appointed after the committee had interviewed four applicants for the position. The committee on the appointment was composed of J. M. Saunders, alumni secretary, and Drs. E. L. Mackie and C. P. Spruill of the University faculty.

The new Handbook editor is a member of the Student Advisory Committee, an assistant editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, and manager of the new DAILY TAR HEEL weekly high school news service. ## Freshmen Plan Smoker To Climax Activity

Mullis, President, Appoints Committee to Select Date.

A freshman class smoker will be held sometime next week, according to Pete Mullis, president of the class, who met with the class executive committee last night.

Mullis appointed a committee composed of Warren Haddaway, Bill Seawell, Stuart Leake, Jack Tate, and Drew Martin to draw up plans for the smoker, the definite date of which will be set in the next few days.

"The committee will be working hard," stated Mullis, "toward putting on a successful smoker which will bring the activities of the class to a climax, and we hope that all members of the class will co-operate by being present."

World Needs Real Men, Hoey Declares in Talk

Evins, Rand, Poe, Montgomery, Eutsler, McCachren, Taylor, Pool, Hammer Tapped.

TAPPING RITES IMPRESSIVE

Membership into the Order of Golden Fleece, considered the highest honorary organization on the campus, was bestowed last night upon nine student leaders and Clyde Hoey, who delivered the address of the evening.

Men taken into the organization, in the order tapped, are: Clyde Hoey of Shelby; Thomas Moore Evins, Oxford; Hubert H. Rand, Garner; Charles Aycock Poe, Raleigh; Harry N. Montgomery, Tarentum, Pa.; Eugene Ernest Eutsler, Jr., Goldsboro; James Roland McCachren, Charlotte; Herbert Hamilton Taylor, Jr., Tarboro; Rufus Adolphus Pool, Raleigh, and Philip Gibbon Hammer, Wilmington.

Hoey's Address

Preceding the tapping ceremony, Clyde Hoey, regarded as a certain candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, delivered an address on the subject, "The Citizen and His Government."

"The supreme need of this hour is a man—a real, downright, upright, all right man," declared Hoey, stressing the fact that no government is better than its citizenship.

A real citizen, Mr. Hoey said, needs: (1) an open mind; (2) to be linked up with the everlasting realities of life; (3) loyalty for ideals; (4) a reverent soul.

"An open mind is a mind willing to accept and investigate new truths," Hoey stated, pointing out that one who closed his eyes to truth was doomed.

Mr. Hoey said the citizen needs to be linked with the realities of life in order "to keep his feet on the ground." One must be able to "give it, take it, and laugh at it," he declared.

"In the reverent spirit we feel we are akin to all around us and linked up with everlasting power," he declared.

Dr. Williams Speaks

Mr. Hoey was introduced by Dr. Henry Horace Williams, who deplored the fact that there is "a shortage of adequate men today." The philosophy professor, one of the founders of the Golden Fleece, also sketched a brief history of the organization.

Dr. Williams was introduced by Frank Abernethy, Jason.

Following the tapping ceremony, old and new Fleece men were entertained at a supper in Graham Memorial.
