

CAMPUS KEYBOARD

by the Editor

DREAMY CHILDREN The Vanderbilt agrarianism is a logical reaction of thinking persons, young in mind and body, to the topsy-turvy monstrosity known as America today.

Perhaps in the hearts of all of us, at one time or another, there arises some sort of resentfulness at all this high-pressure existence, at all the present-day isms and movements and high-speed activity. Most of us picture a desert island where we can take our best friends and eat bananas and grapefruit, read light books and play around for the rest of our days. But the islands all happen to be coaling-stations for militant armadas, so we snap back to normal and try to make the best of Uncle Sam and modernity.

Maybe after some more lawyers get through with the NRA, everybody will give a big sigh and settle back into good old agrarianism. We'll forget Japan, dish the Chamber of Commerce, shackle the munitions makers, and begin anew on mint-juleps.

Or maybe we'll have a revolution.

UP INTO SMOKE They tell us that the Rock Inn, where the most recent campus conflagration stirred up the old fire department, has been previously attacked by the demon flames about seven times.

Obviously, the house is a fire-trap. If it were the only one on the campus, we might fix things up in short order. But it seems that there are a dozen or so more buildings on local grounds which would be duck soup for a hungry fire, with resulting losses of property and perhaps life.

Along with the administration's move to clean up kitchens in some of our eating places should run a drive to condemn or rehabilitate our fire-traps. We can't have brick buildings all over the place, but we can do better than run wires along the floors, allow rubbish in closets, and stick eight lights to a socket.

Like some newspaper policies, the fire-traps need a little insulation. Else they're liable to go up into smoke.

PERUSING FIGURES The annual reports for member organizations of the student audit system will appear in tomorrow's issue of this newspaper. We beg several of our "campus leaders" who have found wrong in everything to go through the reports carefully, so that the next time they yell about graft they will have some sort of a basis to work on. That is, if they can find the basis.

It does absolutely no good to run the set-up of the system because nobody bothers to read it. We've tried. The student audit board is still under fire as to function and activity, but we promise you you'll get that.

We reiterate. Read the audit report for your organization. If you have a kick, let us know. We love to fight, too, if we have something to fight about.

CUPS AND MEDALS WILL BE AWARDED IN ANNUAL AFFAIR

Jimmy Fuller to Play for Awards
Night Program in Memorial
Hall at 8 O'clock.

POOL WILL HEAD PROGRAM

Reaping the intrinsic rewards for their campus careers, those University students who have done outstanding work in scholarship, athletics, and other extra-curricular activities will receive their glittering trophies at the annual Awards Night program this evening at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall.

The cups and medals will be presented to the tune of Jimmy Fuller's orchestra, which has been engaged by Program Director Harper Barnes for tonight's event. Dr. Archibald Henderson, University mathematics professor, will make the awards address, and Jack Pool will act as the master of ceremonies.

Patterson Award

As the feature of the occasion, Dr. Charles S. Mangum will make the presentation of the Patterson Memorial medal to this year's outstanding athlete. Given in honor of John Durant Patterson of New Bern by his brothers, the gold medal award was established in 1924 and is considered one of the highest honors that can come to a University athlete. It was awarded last year to Virgil Weathers, ex-president of the student body.

While the occasion does not lack in seriousness, several skits and songs will inject a note of levity. Secretive, reticent Program Director Harper Barnes, while denying all, is buzzing about industrially gathering together a cast of celebrities that will be inflicted on the audience tonight. House's harmonica and that silver voice of Jule Medynski are probably in the offing.

However, it was learned

Dormitory Improvement Program To Close Before Summer Session

Major Renovating Work Already Completed Says Buildings Department Head P. L. Burch; Painting, Screening, Lighting Improvements Compose Repairs on Dormitories.

The improvement program for the dormitories is in full swing.

Begun less than a month ago, the program to renovate the dormitories is rapidly nearing completion. P. L. Burch, head of the buildings department, said that he expected most of the work to be finished before summer school begins.

One of the major improvements is the painting of all rooms. Already the painting in Old East, Old West, and Steele dormitories is almost completed. Work was begun on these three buildings first because summer school students are expected to room in them. The other dormitories are to be painted soon.

Another important improvement is the screening of all dormitories. Screens are being installed this week in Old East, Old West, and Steele. Every dormitory is to have screens by the beginning of summer school.

Further Repairs

In the upper quadrangle showers and other bathroom fixtures are being repaired or re-

NEW UNION BOARD ASSUMES DUTIES

Directors Consider Re-allocation of Room; Ellis Is Elected
Hold-over Member.

New members of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors met last night, jumped right into the swing of things by considering several important matters, and engaged in the regular after-dinner bull-session which is so much a part of local committee gatherings.

After granting the University Club a sum of $100 for use in the second annual freshman smoker next fall, the board discussed plans for improving the student union janitor service, re-allocating Graham Memorial rooms, and other routine matters.

Women Win

The controversy between the Woman's Association and the Carolina Magazine regarding use of the former's room on the first floor of the union was finally settled. The board decided that the magazine's office should be returned again to the office of the Carolina Buccaneer, leaving the women free to use their room exclusively.

Albert Ellis was elected as hold-over member to the board for next year. Other members who will serve are Jack Pool, chairman, Phil Hammer, Jane Ross, L. C. Bruce, Trip Rand, Ramsay Potts, J. Maryon Saunders, Harry F. Comer, and Deans R. B. House and F. F. Bradshaw.

Outgoing members are Betty Durham, Frank Abernethy, Dave Mosier, Ernest Eutsler, Harold Bennett, and Lonnie Dill.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Certificates of membership in Phi Beta Kappa are ready for those who were initiated on May 16, and may be secured by calling at 105 South building any morning. Those who were initiated last fall or last spring may also secure certificates now.

MARRIAGE COURSE TO BE CONTINUED IN SUMMER CLASS

Dr. Groves to Hold Conference on Teaching of Family Problems.

The second conference on the teaching of marriage and the family, headed by Ernest R. Groves, University sociology professor, will be held in Chapel Hill July 8-12. The first conference which met last summer grew out of the interest of college teachers in the methodology of the instruction in preparation for marriage that has been developed here.

Although the program of the conference features the problems of teaching, it also includes topics relating to the conservation of marriage and the family and is broader in its appeal than last year's conference. Teachers in high school, adult education, and in college; physicians, ministers, husbands, wives, and parents are invited to attend the session.

Addresses and round-table meetings are designed to offer opportunity for a discussion of the problems of teachers of marriage and family courses and some of the important problems of marriage and family experiences. Specialists whose fields of knowledge are directly related to these problems will address the conference.

UNIVERSITY CLUB RELIEVED BY GIFT

Student Union Directors Vote to Donate $100 for Club's Freshman Smoker Next Fall.

The Graham Memorial Board of Directors considerably lightened the financial troubles of the University Club last night by voting to donate $100 to help pay the expenses of the freshman smoker which will be sponsored by the University Club next fall.

The action of the Student Union board followed an ardent plea for the funds, made by Julien Warren, president of the University Club.

Still $50 Short

The club still lacks $50 to pay for the freshman smoker, as the affair will cost approximately $150.

Asked how he would raise the remainder of the smoker expenses, President Warren declared, "That's my trouble, but I'll get it."

Still in its regular session when the announcement was made, the members of the University Club broke into loud cheering.

While Warren appeared before the Graham Memorial board, Joe W. Grier, treasurer of the University Club, presided at the meeting and led a discussion on raising the funds for the organization's work next year.

SUMMER ADDRESSES

All Yackety Yack addresses will be sent in tomorrow. No addresses will be accepted after today at 5 o'clock. Please write address on a card and drop it in the slot in the Yackety Yack door in Graham Memorial.

SAUNDERS IS SPEAKER

J. Maryon Saunders, secretary of the University Alumni Association, spoke in Raleigh Monday at a luncheon of the Alumnae Association of Saint Mary's. Mrs. Saunders also attended.

Faculty Voices Approval Of Class Lecture Calendar

Degree Recipients

Dean House and Dr. Dey request every student who expects to receive a degree this commencement to meet in Gerrard hall at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

It is absolutely essential that all those who participate in the commencement ceremonies be present for an explanation of the organization of that program, and just what part each individual and group will have.

This applies not only to those expecting to receive bachelor's degrees, but candidates for the master's and doctor's degrees as well.

MALCOLM TAYLOR PUBLISHES PAPER IN MARKET REVIEW

Professor Joins Publication Staff of Marketing Teachers.

Professor Malcolm Dean Taylor, associate professor of marketing in the University school of commerce, has been placed on the editorial board of the "National Marketing Review," a new quarterly journal published by the National Association of Marketing Teachers.

In the first issue of the "Review," released Wednesday, Dr. Taylor is author of the section entitled "Progress in Marketing Research." Managing editor of the publication is Dr. Nathanael H. Engle, assistant director of the National Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The leading article for this issue, "The Teaching of Marketing," was contributed by Dr. W. L. White, professor of marketing at the University of Texas. Dr. Howard T. Lewis, professor of marketing at Harvard University, writes on "The Industrial Buyer," and D. E. Montgomery of the federal trade commission has an article on "Basing Point Prices." Injecting a cosmopolitan note, Dr. Paul F. Lazarfeld, of the department of psychology at the University of Vienna, and director of the psychological institute for field investigation in Vienna, contributes an article on the principles underlying the formulation of questionnaires in marketing.

Federal 'G' Men Will Head Staff In Law Institute

Federal Investigator Hoover Will Send Ace Men to School of Law Enforcement.

Three of the famous "G" men, who have taken leading parts in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's war on gangsters and kidnapers, head the instructional staff for North Carolina's fourth annual school of law enforcing officers, which will be held under the auspices of the Institute of Government here June 11-14.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau, has promised to send three of his best men down from Washington. They are H. H. Clegg, assistant director and head of the federal training school; L. C. Schilder, chief of the fingerprint bureau, and E. P. Coffey, chief of the scientific laboratories.

Justice W. J. Brogden and Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell are among the ranking state officials listed on the program, just announced, for special lectures. Others are Capus Waynick, chairman of the highway commission; Edwin Gill, commissioner of pardon and parole; L. S. Harris, director of the motor vehicle bureau, and Capt. Chas. D. Farmer of the state highway patrol.
