TUITION DIFFERENTIAL

Earlier in the year, there was editorial mention made of the benefits that might ensue from a re-adjustment of tuition rates which would make some co-operative inter-change possible between the state of North Carolina and other southern states as regards tuition fees in their respective state universities.

The objective of the plan would be to increase the number of students attending the University from the south. In connection with this, the project of increasing out-of-state tuition was also discussed, from the idea of increasing income rather than cutting down northern student representation.

In other words, there were two problems: one was to increase in some manner the number of students enrolled from adjacent southern states and the other was to increase the financial contributions of out-of-state students in general, particularly of northern students, insofar as out-of-state students even with the tuition differential of $100 are a drain on the state.

It is not a wild guess to hazard that should the out-of-state tuition be raised, the falling off in income from northern students (we except the southerners on the basis of the proposed reciprocity agreements) would more than equal the expected additional income from this class of student.

As to the idea of making reciprocity agreements with other states whereby North Carolinians could get reduced rates at the other state institutions and their students could get similar benefits at Chapel Hill, it would be well to remember that the University here enjoys the reputation of being "number one in the South." It is very probable that the influx of students from the state with which we may have co-operative plans would more than equal the number of North Carolina students desiring to at-WGN.

tend other southern universities. The result: we have more southern students, but, with the tuition differential as to states WGN.

with whom we have no agreements going up, the state as a California WJZ; whole would financially suffer, as so many in the latter class WABC, WBT. would be precluded enrollment.

10:00: Archie Bleyer orch., The reason that reciprocal agreements cannot be made with the northern seaboard states is that none of them have true WABC, WHAS, WBT; Joe state-supported jinstitutions which could do this. By raising Rines orch., WJZ; Earl Burtnett our tuition differential enough to make any difference to us, we orch., WGN.

10:30: Ray Noble orch., WJZ, would force them to pass us by (the bulk of northern students choose North Carolina for financial reasons) and consequently we KDKA; Claude Hopkins orch., WABC, WBT, WHAS; Wayne would suffer.

There is another element to the problem. At Duke University, King orch., WGN. 11:00: Ben Bernie where the costs are higher, the number of students from adjacent orch., southern states is considerably more than at Carolina. Reason: WABC, WHAS, WBT. tremendous publicity. Now this University cannot afford, even 11:30: Ray Herbeck orch., with the reciprocity agreements, to publicize much more than WABC, WHAS, WBT. 11:45: Joe Sanders orch., at present, and we believe that the results would prove rather discouraging and below expectations. here and if the object is more fundamentally to get an increased WENR. southern quota, it is possible that good strides in that direction 12:15: Earl Burtnett orch., could be taken. WGN.

It, then, it is southern students we want and not finances, we 12:30: Jess Hawkins orch., should try to make these reciprocal agreements and raise the WENR; Johnny Burkhardt differential for those states where such an agreement can not orch., WLW. be made. If it is finances, we must go slow on raising the differ-1:00: Joe Sanders orch., ential at all, because of the ability of present differential-pay- WGN; Jimmie Garrigan orch., ing students to pay and because of the increased necessity for WENR. The problem is an exceedingly complicated one and not imminently important. But it's interesting.
