

STUDENT CREDIT PLAN UNDERGOES REORGANIZATION

Enables University to Keep Accurate Record of Incurred Debts by Concentration

EVANS TO HANDLE LOANS

Reorganization of the principles behind the extension of student credit has destroyed the old, indefinite system of direct lending through University agencies in favor of an indirect method through the cashier's office, according to a report yesterday by Student Loan Chief J. A. Williams.

The new system will, claimed Mr. Williams, enable the University cashier, T. H. Evans, to keep a more accurate record of debts incurred by the students on various local auxiliaries, and will by its limitation prevent a student from compiling too many debts that cannot be paid, thus losing scholastic credit.

Direct Credit

The plan prohibits credit to be extended by the Book Exchange or any University agency and gives as an alternative, if a student needs books at once, a credit memorandum, checked on the student's University bill, which is extended by the student loan office. This loan will be extended or refused in accordance with his potential ability to pay the debt.

The credit, which is extended according to the same regulations regarding the payment of tuitions and fees, is recorded in the cashier's office with the amount loaned and the date payment is due.

This form of concentrated student credit was decided on this past summer and is now in operation, according to Mr. Williams.

Alumni Arriving For Homecoming Event Tomorrow

Expect 4,000 University Graduates to be on Hand for Gala Homecoming Day Program

Four thousand Carolina alumni will come home tomorrow.

And home will be waiting for them, with a big game tension in the air—main street a long dizzy arch of "Welcome" signs; the atmosphere heavy with gasoline fumes and the urgent honking of automobile horns; everywhere depictions of triumphant Tar Heels and uncomfortable Yellow Jackets and Rambling Wrecks; loud cries of "Program, program for the game," small colorfully clad groups of old grads, collegiate young hopefuls, pretty girls, flustered mammas, all hustling about in loud careless joy—Homecoming Day at Chapel Hill.

Many alumni will pause tonight in their preparations for the trek to the Village and listen to Carolina cheers, songs, and pep talks coming over the radio, as WPTF in Raleigh broadcasts the rally on Emerson field.

Prizes

For dormitories, fraternity houses, and "upstreet" business establishments, the high spot of tomorrow's program will be the judges' inspection of decorations. On their decisions will depend, for the dormitories, a Graham Memorial smoker; for the Greek lodges, the cup now held by the S. A. E.'s; for the merchants, two tickets to the game; and for the special division of Carr, the men's Graduate Club, the women's Graduate Club, and Spencer hall, free tickets to the Carolina Theatre for all residents.

NEW EFFICIENCY PROGRAM AIDING DORMITORY PLAN

Service Readjustments Eliminating Red-Tape by Improvement of Physical Set-up

WEAVER REPORTS CHANGE

The operation efficiency of University dormitories has been greatly increased by recent reorganization measures according to a report by Fred Weaver, student assistant, to Assistant Controller L. B. Rogerson.

The readjustments of dormitory service has reduced the activities of two store men, a laundry agent, and a service man, each reporting individually to their respective departments, to a dormitory manager and two assistants, performing the same functions but reporting to only one University representative, Herman Schnell.

New System

Under the new system, the total number of employees in the dormitory system has been reduced from 50 to 39, a decrease of 11 members. This was made possible by the increased efficiency of the new set-up, Weaver stated. The average compensation of these men has been increased from $246 to $385, a difference of $89.

ELLIS ANNOUNCES DISPLAY DEADLINE

Dormitories Must Have Decorations Up by 8 o'clock Tomorrow Morning

To be eligible for the decorations prize, dormitories must have their displays up by 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was announced last night by Albert Ellis, dormitory supervisor.

The deadline for displays had been originally set at 6 o'clock to-night. Dormitories will be allowed more time, however, because the nature of some projects prevents their being left up overnight, according to Ellis.

Contest Judges

Judges in the dormitory decoration contest are Miss Mable Mallett, secretary to Dean Bradshaw; Dr. Ernest L. Mackie; H. F. Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; and W. L. Wiley, freshman advisor.

A special release from the University Club last night stressed the fact that the Georgia Tech's colors are gold and white, and not yellow and black. From the Book Exchange came the welcome news that the campus text book center would compete with the Franklin street merchants in decorating.

Decorating in the fraternities and other special rooming houses of the campus are also well underway.

Graham to Lecture

Dr. Frank P. Graham will address the International Relations Club at Campbell College Sunday morning, November 10, as a feature of the Armistice celebration. Dr. N. L. Skaggs faculty sponsor of the club announced today.

His subject will be "Seventeen Years After." Dr. Edgar Knight and Paul Green were speakers at the club last month.

Gala Pep Rally Scheduled Tonight

SOPHOMORES PICK LEADERS FOR HOP

Four Fraternities Share in Victory; Selections Tentative

An extremely small group of sophomores, approximately one-sixth of the current class, met last night in Memorial hall to select additional dance leaders, Bill Jordan, Bob Ellison, Newton Craig, Gene Simmons, Haughton Ehringhaus, and David Allen. These men will participate in the sophomore hop dance figure with class officers and members of the dance committee unless subsequent votes tendered to Class President Ramsay Potts change the results.

In view of the fact that the last minute change in place of meeting was unknown to many sophomores, President Potts has agreed to accept votes of those

AYCOCK INMATES PLAN OPEN HOUSE

Aycock Dormitory to Hold Homecoming Day Open House Saturday from 4 to 6

The proposal to hold open house in Aycock dormitory during Homecoming Day was approved last night by the administration and will be put in effect Saturday from 4 to 6 o'clock by Aycock's energetic president, Bill Cochran.

Originally suggested by James Svendsen and Joe Barnett, the open house program has as its purpose to acquaint parents intimately with student life at Carolina.

The social room on the first floor will be open to the residents' dates, and parents will be welcomed on every floor of the building.

According to President Cochran, the open house idea will be a regular feature of the dormitory's program for the year.

The plan is receiving full cooperation from the freshmen advisers and the administrative officials.

Aycock's open house idea, Dormitory Supervisor Albert Ellis announced last night, has nothing to do with the Homecoming Day display contest among the dormitories. The prize for the dormitory with the best decoration-display is a social to be given by Graham Memorial, a free show at the Carolina, and a night's use of the campus game room.

Photo Deadline

Due to the tremendous rush last week end, Woulton-Moulton photographers were unable to see all of the juniors and seniors who were supposed to have had their pictures made.

Ned McAllister, business manager of the Yackety Yack, herefore announced last night that the deadline for juniors and seniors will be extended until Saturday week. All students concerned should go down immediately, even if they have no dates, and avoid the last minute rush.

Those who have not yet obtained their last year's Yackety Yacks may do so by seeing McAllister in Graham Memorial any afternoon from 2 to 3 p. m., except Wednesday.

Raleigh Radio Station WPTF To Relay Affair From Emerson

Art Exhibit Featured As Homecoming Event

Display First of Season, to be Held in Hill Music Hall

The first art exhibit of the season will open in Hill music hall on October 26, as a feature of Homecoming Day, and will continue through November 16. The public is cordially invited to attend the exhibit which opens each day at 8 o'clock, and continues until 10:30 at night.

Ten of the foremost print-makers of the country are represented in the 40 etchings, woodcuts and lithographs of this display. Among them are the popular artists Wanda Gag and Rockwell Kent, with Benton Spruance, whose football prints, in keeping with the season, form an interesting contrast to the usual subjects of such works.

These prints are being shown through courtesy of E. Weyhe, of New York City, who has loaned them to the University art extension division.

GRAIL DANCE SET TO OPEN TONIGHT

Freddy Johnson and Band will be on Hand for Series of Two Dances in Tin Can

The first of a series of two dances to be sponsored by the Grail over the weekend will be held tonight in the Tin Can.

The dance will be a benefit, the proceeds of which will be divided equally among the University Club, the University Band, and the Monogram Club. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock and will last, due to the fact that it is a week night, until 1 o'clock. Music for the benefit dance will be donated by Freddy Johnson.

No Smoking

Since the specifications of the buildings department have to be filled, there will be no smoking inside the building. Decorations will be made of fire proof paper, and the well known pine trees, which are usually very much in

Parade Will March From Post Office To Emerson Field

Fifty-five Gallons of Oil Obtained For Torches and Bon Fire

HENDERSON WILL SPEAK

In preparation for tomorrow's critical battle with the invading Yellow Jackets, the University Club will sponsor tonight what promises to be the hugest pep rally of recent years.

A glamorous parade will start from the post office on Franklin street at 7:45 and will march to Emerson field, where at 8:30 the lusty voices of energetic Les Ostrow's rooters will be broadcast all over the South through a special radio hook-up with station WPTF, Raleigh.

Prominent Speakers

Mathematical Archibald Henderson and Coach Snavely will be the featured speakers at the pep rally. President Jack Pool will also talk, along with Harry Montgomery and Herman Snyder, co-captains of Carolina's undefeated team.

Lester Ostrow will preside at the affair and lead yells. The cheer leaders will sport new suits which are being displayed for the first time. The University band will also be on hand.

A gigantic bon fire will be lighted and firecrackers and sky rockets will help illuminate the field. A special band stand will be constructed and amplifiers in

Dance Committee

Since the Dormitory Council has come to represent a large part of the University student body, Tom Hicks of Rocky Mount has been appointed as representative of that body on the University dance committee.

The other members of the committee are Tom Hawthorne, chairman, Trip Rand, Billy Yandell, Peck Hart, Crist Blackwell, Henry Valk, Ben Willis, Charlie Edwards, Jim McCachren, and Van Webb.

DANCE REGULATIONS

Since the rules and regulations of the University dance committee governing student conduct on the dance floor have never been published heretofore, they are now being presented to the campus in order that no misunderstandings nor embarrassing situations shall arise during the Grail dances here this weekend or at any other campus dances during the year.

The main rules governing student dances as set forth last night by Tom Hawthorne, chairman of the dance committee, are:

1. The dance committee has complete supervision of the dances.

2. The committee is empowered to suspend from all dances given under the auspices of the University, for a period at the discretion of the committee, any student, visitor or alumnus for any misconduct whatsoever in any period during which the dance or dances are being held, regardless of whether the misconduct is before, during or after the dance.

3. The following rules govern conduct on the dance floor:

(a) No one showing signs of drinking will be permitted to remain on the floor.

(b) No girls will be allowed to leave the hall during an evening dance unless accompanied by a chaperone.

(c) No one will be allowed to go behind the decorations.

4. The leaders of each dance will act as temporary members of the dance committee.

A strict observance of the above regulations by everyone attending dances on the campus is urgently requested by the dance committee.

Since dances now given in the Tin Can are under restrictions imposed by the state insurance officer, members of the committee also urge that there be no smoking on the dance floor.

For any organization or individuals wishing to give a dance, the method of procedure is as follows: Application is made to the chairman of the faculty committee on dancing several days beforehand, stating time, place and character of dance; giving names of the committee in charge of the dance, names of chaperones, two members of the dance committee they wish to invite and the name of the door keeper. On the Monday after the dance the applicants meet with the dance committee and make a full report of the dance.

Rules governing dances of any organization may be obtained at the time of application.

The office of the chairman of the faculty committee on dances, Dr. W. S. Bernard, is 106 Murphy hall. He may be reached there any day during chapel period.
