Unbeaten Elevens

 Stanford Indians, by a 6-0 margin, leaving California and U. C. L. A. as the only unbeaten on the West coast. Another "Monk"—Moscrip—proved to be the deciding factor in the game, by booting two field goals in the initial period.
 After a hesitant start, the University of Alabama put on a belated rally to knock Georgia off by a 17-7 count, thereby leaving Carl Snavelly's Carolina Tar Heels the only undefeated and untied team in Dixie.

Georgia Scores

Minot gained the lead for the Bulldogs in the opening quarter when he scored on a 43-yard pass from Bond. Bama came back and tied the score in the second, as Young Boozer snake-hipped his way over the goal line. In the fourth both teams fought desperately, but Riley's field goal and Smith's touchdown brought Georgia's downfall.

Two other games that proved to be upsets in view of their results were the Notre Dame-Navy and Colgate-Holy Cross battles. At Annapolis, the Middies received a 14-0 setback before 65,000 fans. The Irish scored a clean-cut victory as Francis Gaul and Mike Layden were the touchdown makers.

Rex Kidd's 25-yard placement in the third quarter was enough to hand Andy Kerr's Colgate team a set-back at Worcester, Mass. Both teams played bang-up ball and were unable to penetrate either's defense, so Kidd, playing quarterback, called for a placement attempt by himself. It went end-over-end between the uprights.

Intramural

 lies for Z. B. T.—in the first period on a 10-yard run, and later in the last half on a 55-yard touchdown jaunt after receiving a 10-yard forward pass.

Battle-Vance-Pettigrew was forced to forfeit to Grimes because of lack of sufficient players. This leaves New Dorms with an unspotted record in intramural competition—five losses out of five games—no touchdowns, no extra points, no field goals, and no safeties.

Off the record, however, a scrappy New Dorms septet gave the Grimes eleven a brisk scrap before bowing to them by a 13-7 score.

Dr. Johnson Attends Tuskegee Ceremony

University Professor Present at Institute's Inaugural Program

Dr. Guy B. Johnson, of the University's institute for research in social science, attended the inauguration of Tuskegee Institute's new president yesterday at Tuskegee, Alabama. Just before the inauguration, Dr. Johnson was present at a conference on "The Negro in Agriculture."

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, long associated with the Negro Institute, is the new Tuskegee president, succeeding Dr. R. R. Moton. Dr. Moton, the school's second president, retired several months ago. Booker T. Washington was the first Tuskegee leader and served from the time of the Institute's origin, in 1881, until 1915, when he died.

Team Praised

"The entire line gave encouragement to the belief that North Carolina will go through this season undefeated. Tech never got closer than the 25-yard line today and such was the magnificence of the Tar Heel line, it is doubtful if any team in the South could have penetrated that steel-lined defense. Bershak was the best player on the field today. And the rest of the Carolina line backed him up superbly. Snyder, Jackson, Montgomery, and Hutchins were four outstanding backs. Little, in that one mad spurt, showed the makings of an outstanding star."

Saturday the Tar Heels meet the biggest test of the year, so far, when they encounter the growling Wolfpack of N. C. State. The Technicians walloped Manhattan, one of the East's leaders, last week, and will be ready for the important Southern Conference and Big Five battle with the Tar Heels.

Cake Race

and 5th prizes, Intramural Silver Medal; 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th prizes, Intramural Bronze Medal; 11th to 25th inclusive, theatre passes.

To the five teams making the lowest scores, cakes will be given; and to the team with the highest amount of Intramural points, a cake will be awarded.

In order for a fraternity, dormitory, or other team being represented in the race, three men representing that team must finish among the first fifty, for that team to be eligible.

Any one who is in doubt as to his eligibility concerning the Cake Race, can obtain the necessary information by reporting to Marvin Allen or Coach Ranston on Emerson field at 3 p. m.

J. C. Lyons Injured

Dr. J. C. Lyons of the French department, suffered severe cuts when he was blinded by an approaching car, causing Dr. Lyons to lose control of his own car. Dr. Lyons was released from the hospital a few hours after the accident and is reported to be recuperating nicely.

Library Prize

authoritative judgment on books relating to their work. After examining carefully the lists submitted by the contestants, the judges will visit a number of the best libraries and interview the students owning them.

Asked whether it was required that the contestants read each book, Miss Beust replied that this was not necessary, but that evidence must be produced that the books were used profitably. "Some books we would not expect a student to read entirely; only parts of them may be of particular value or interest to the student," Miss Beust added.

Although textbooks are excluded from the books considered eligible for judgment, works of a technical nature which follow up the student's interest, are as worthy of consideration as a broader selection, the committee chairman explained.

"Neither the total number of books, nor their money values shall be a determining factor," continued Miss Beust. "Rather the emphasis is placed on the discriminating judgment shown in the selection."

"Here is a fine point of the plan," enthused Miss Beust. "All sorts of bargains can be discovered in a bookshop and our award will test the student's judgment. One can buy a poor translation of the Odyssey at high cost or a very good translation in a cheap edition. The Georgia society which selects the 50 outstanding books of the year often chooses a cheap book in preference to a more expensive one."

The library science teacher spoke with conviction, conviction that has come through years of intimate experience with library work. "It is not the student who spends the most money on his library, but he who spends his money most wisely in the light of his interests and aims, who will win award."

"It is not likely that the award will go to some one who will not need the award as much as some student who, though a great reader, has not the money to equip his own library?" Miss Beust was asked. "Yes," she replied in her quiet convincing way, "it may not go to the boy who has no money to spend on books, but I believe too often in the field of education we are thinking of the student who has n't any money to spend, while we encourage those more fortunate financially to spend their money in the most profitable way and awaken them to what they can do with it. It's like neglecting to develop the potentialities of the bright school boy to spend a disproportionate amount of time in helping the dumb pupil." All apparent impracticalities of the plan appeared to have been thought out and converted by

Miss Beust into advantages.

The idea of giving awards for the best student library is not an experiment, the library science teacher pointed out. Swanthmore College first established a contest of this kind five years ago and it has proved very successful there. The University of California, Wesleyan University, the University of Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Wellesley, Vassar, and Haverford are some of the colleges and universities where the plan has been adopted.

The colleges report that the awards have created new interest among students in the discriminating choice of books worth owning. Discussions of the competition at group meetings on the campus and in the bookshops serve as a stimulus to fresh appraisal of the continuing, cultural value of personal libraries.

The donor of the award here desired to remain anonymous, and Miss Beust said that she did not know whether the prize will be offered next year or not.

For the time being the skies are bright for campus book lovers, however.

tanglement of the United States in war—no loans, credits, munitions or secondary war materials to belligerents."

The proclamation also exhorted students to "refuse to support the government of the United States in any war it may undertake." This item incited considerable criticism by cabinet members.

Partial explanation for the drastic character of some of the proclamation's features may be drawn from the fact that the following organizations are among those sponsoring it: The Student League for Industrial Democracy, The Committee on Militarism in Education, The American League against War and Fascism, and others.

The joint-cabinet Halloween social was definitely set for next Thursday night at 6:15 o'clock. Dwight Brown conducted the devotionals at last night's session.

BIOLOGY CLASS MAKES TRIP TO WHITE LAKE

A class in advanced biology, conducted by Dr. Coker of that department, on last Sunday made an all-day field trip to White Lake, near Elizabethtown, N. C., for the purpose of studying both aquatic specimens and the lake itself.

White Lake is a geological freak. It has neither outlet nor inlet, and the grouping of animal life in it is unique.

Quite the reverse is true in North Carolina and Dr. Graham is in Toronto to prove it. Furthermore, the council's statement given as a reason for the recommendation, that there is not enough correlation between clinical and laboratory work in the case of two-year schools, will be refuted by Graham in the case of North Carolina and by Kitchin for Wake Forest.

clash with Anderson's charges will be the highest barrier for Carolina to hurdle on her way to national honors.

State's powerful team seems to have quite a few rooters who back up their predictions with cold cash. Foremost of these is Dick Reynolds, who has stopped riding his Camel to string along with Heartley "Hunk" Anderson and his Jerseyites. Dick has wagered the small sum of $10,000 on the Red Terrors, hoping that they will wallop the Tar out of Carolina's Heels. So let this be a lesson to you rabid Carolina rooters, and make sure that there are no Rolls Royce's hanging around when you start winning the game before it begins.

edge he had yesterday he, undoubtedly, will be crowned champ of the tournament. For some unknown reason Podesta had lost the knack of placing the ball. He may come back today a new man and blast Farrell over the court for he is capable of much better tennis than that which he displayed yesterday.

Farrell in Shape

Farrell had a comparatively easy time with Podesta in the first set, blasting away with all his power to completely overwhelm Podesta.

Podesta came back in the next two sets to show his true worth by trimming Farrell 6-3 and 6-4.

Long Fourth Set

The fourth set was a long nightmare lasting well over an hour and going 24 games before Farrell emerged the victor. Podesta seemed very tired while Farrell appeared to have found the vital spark necessary for his game. For eight games they tilled Farrell, taking the offensive, held to lead 5-4.

Podesta serving had one set point against him but rallied to square the set 5 all. From the non the lead was exchanged until they came up to the 22nd game. Farrell put on a burst of speed that left Podesta bewildered, to tie the match.
