DORMITORY MEN FAVOR EXTRA FEE

Dormitory Residents Vote in Favor of Dollar Assessment

Final results on the dormitory social fee referendum showed 76.3 percent of the dormitory residents petitioning in favor of the one dollar assessment.

According to figures presented last night by Albert Ellis, dormitory supervisor, 842 of the 1103 residents of the 12 dormitories favored the fee.

Steele dormitory took high honors in the voting, 68 out of the 70 residents of the hall, (or 97.1 percent), signing the petition.

Graham, the other dormitory whose voting results were not available yesterday, had 65 out of 88 signatures on the petition.

The majority of the residents in each dormitory, with the sole exception of the New Dorms, went on record as approving the one dollar fee. Only 32 percent of Battle-Vance-Pettigrew favored the assessment.

Dormitory officials pointed out last night that the value of the one dollar social fee lay in the fact that it would do away with the need for constantly assessing dormitory residents for various entertainments and dormitory activities.

The petition will be presented to the University administration and the board of trustees for approval.

Flying Squadron

(Continued from page three) Only 29 passes out of 91 tries have been completed against Carolina this season. No less than 23 have been intercepted. But, oddly enough, all three touchdowns tallied against Carolina have been via passes. The Tar Heel line is rated by many as the best in Dixie. It has allowed an average of only 10 yards gained per quarter this season.

DUKE MEN SPEAK ON CO-OPERATION

Duke Student Leaders Address Freshmen On Friendship Between Two Rival Schools

Duke University is anxious to build up a spirit of friendly rivalry with Carolina and eliminate all antagonism according to the delegation from Duke which addressed the Freshman assembly yesterday morning.

The speakers were introduced by Jack Pool who pointed out that the two schools are among the greatest in the South and that by mutual co-operation they can materially aid each other.

Frank Sizmore, president of the senior class at Duke then spoke on the relations between the two universities and brought out the fact that both have much the same interests and aims and that most of the antagonism between them has been fostered by outsiders. He said that Duke students are entering into the football game on November 16 in a spirit of friendship and good will and asked that Carolina students do the same.

Student Head

Zack Thomas, president of the student body at Duke, emphasized the same ideas in his talk and pointed out that competition if friendly and sportsmanlike is very beneficial but if bitter and antagonistic is highly detrimental. He promised that the Duke team would play a clean but hard game and expressed the hope that the feeling between the two sets of rooters would also be clean.

Sizmore made an announcement asking all Carolina fans to be in the stadium by 1:15 on the day of the game to avoid congestion. Music will be broadcast from the amplifiers he said.

This is the second year that good will delegations have visited between the two universities. Next Saturday Jack Pool and Trip Rand president of the senior class will call on Duke.

Football Contest

All descendants of Peter Pickem who have not deposited their guesses of Saturday's football scores in the ballot box at the Book "X" are advised to do so at once for the contest closes Saturday at 1 p. m.

W. S. Kutz, Book "X" manager, said that many prognosticators have already predicted a slew of exact guesses for the forth-coming battles. The two games that are specified are Carolina vs. V. M. I. and Duke vs. Davidson.

The students whose guesses are nearest correct will receive the following prizes donated by Old Gold cigarettes: first prize, $10 in cash; second prize, $5; third place will receive 400 cigarettes. Should there be a tie, the student depositing the greatest number of guesses will be declared the winner.

Small Group Listens To Chamber Recital

Slocum, Haydon, and Hazelmann Appear on Musical Program

A highly pleased, although small, audience heard the chamber music recital in the Hill Music hall Wednesday night.

The musicians, playing the flute, clarinet, oboe, and piano, gave a worthy performance. The first number was "Flute Sonata in B Minor" for the flute and piano, played by Earl Slocum, accompanied by Peter Hansen.

Glen Haydon played "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano in F Minor-Opus 120, no. 1" by Brahms, accompanied by Peter Hansen.

A flute, oboe, and clarinet trio, composed of Earl Slocum, Herbert Hazelman and Dr. Haydon played Beethoven's "Trio in C Major Opus 87" in a manner which was well received by the audience.

Mass Meeting

Harper Barnes, who is district chairman of the National Student Federation of America, will speak on the peace work of students as exemplified by that organization.

Bob Russell, live wire of the peace organizers, although not making a formal talk, will explain the issues in the TAR HEEL ballot to be voted on. He will urge all students to vote on these issues in order that the campus opinion may be registered through the Washington delegate whom it is expected will be received at the White House along with representatives from other colleges.

Nation-Wide Support

The nation-wide mobilization of students for peace which swings into action this morning is supported by such National organizations as the Y. M. C. A., National Student Federation of America, Inter-Seminary Movement, Student League for Industrial Democracy, and Committee on Militarism in Education.

These national organizations have not banded together merely in order to arrange a coast to coast net-work of symposia; what seemed important to all participating groups was the need for emergency protest action on the part of American students in view of the momentary danger of another world war.

year. They are scheduled to run three meets within eight days. The first being the V. M. I. meet this Saturday, Duke University on Tuesday November 12, over the five mile course, and then a long trip to Annapolis, Maryland, where they meet the Middies in the final run before the Southern Conference championships.

Due to this tedious task, Dale Ranson stated that he will probably run the varsity reserves against V. M. I. this weekend, in order to retain the full strength of the team for Duke and Navy. It is possible, however, that a few members of the squad will compete in both the V. M. I. and Duke meets, but Coach Ranson is withholding his list of entrants until the day of the meet.
