

SIGMA XI'S MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Bancroft, Cornell Professor, to Talk on "Color Changes in Leaves"

Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry at Cornell University, will address the North Carolina chapter of Sigma Xi at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in Phillips hall.

His subject will be "The Chemistry and Physics of Color Changes in Leaves," and the address will be illustrated with colored slides.

Science Academy

Before coming here Dr. Bancroft will speak at the National Academy of Science at Charlottesville. Dr. F. K. Cameron of the University's chemistry department is also invited to attend this meeting and will bring Dr. and Mrs. Bancroft to Chapel Hill.

The meeting here will be held jointly with the North Carolina Physics Colloquium, and the Sigma Xi club of State College, and the Duke chapter of Sigma Xi. The meeting will be followed by an informal smoker in the Graduate Club.

FIRST-YEAR MEN WILL HAVE FEWER CHAPEL PERIODS

Bradshaw Reduces Freshman Assemblies to Three a Week

Beginning this week freshman assembly will be held only on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Dean Bradshaw announced yesterday.

The school authorities feel that the freshmen have become sufficiently adjusted to life at the University to make more than three meetings a week unnecessary, he said.

At the assembly hour tomorrow the freshmen will meet with the individual advisors in the following places: Mr. Emery, Di hall; Mr. Hill, Memorial hall; Dr. Mackie, 206 Phillips hall; Dr. Russell, Phi hall; Mr. Spruill, 111 Murphey; Dr. Totten, Davie hall; Dr. Wiley, 103

English Debaters Entertain Group At "Bull Session" In Carolina Inn

Alport Discusses Probability of England's Entrance in War to Support League Sanctions; Royle Chooses As Topic Student Life at Cambridge University

"If the League of Nations fails it means war. England, supported by France and other League members, would go to war to support the sanctions," declared J. M. Alport, genial blond-haired English debater Monday night in a "parlor trick" speech at the informal reception given the Cambridge orators at the Carolina Inn.

The Englishman's parlor trick was not aimed to provoke amusement, and contrasted sharply to the general tenor of the party which was enlivened by the never-falling wit of Dr. W. A. Olsen, master-of-ceremonies, by songs around the piano, and even a tap dance for the Englishmen's benefit by Nan Norman.

Seriousness

Alport was speaking in all seriousness. "England," he went on, "is one of the 'have' powers. We realize that the time must come when we must relinquish some of our sources of raw materials to certain of

Cosmopolitans Hold Open Forum Tonight

Phillip Cummings to Preside at Round Table Discussion

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold another of its open forums in the Carolina Inn tonight at 8 o'clock.

Phillip Cummings, who has lived abroad most of his life, will preside as host. The program for tonight will consist of a round table discussion.

Membership in the Cosmopolitan Club is permitted only to those students and townspeople who have been born abroad of foreign or American parents or have lived in a foreign country for at least two years.

TUNIS GIVES TALK ON SPORT TRENDS

Sports Writer Addresses Students at Woman's College; Calls Olympics Racket

John R. Tunis, nationally known sports writer, in an address Friday before the students at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in regular chapel assembly, stated that he hoped America would not participate in the next Olympic games, "because," as he said, "I think they are a big commercial racket and because there is precious little sports left in them."

"Sports," said the speaker, "comes from an old French word meaning to amuse one's self," and in this light he described sports as games which interest those who can attend them with a spiritual quality and who have an amateur spirit.

Giving as evidence of the fact that Americans are swinging from attendance sports to games in which they may themselves participate, the speaker mentioned the fact that twenty million ping pong bats were sold last year.

In the brief open forum following his talk, Tunis said that "American women have no more place in the Olympics than has a Jew in Hitler's bathtub."

the 'have not' nations, such as restoring certain mandates taken from Germany at the close of the war."

Mentioning what Sir Samuel Hoare had said about a fairer distribution of resources, the speaker went on to state with emphasis "If we do succeed in getting over this crisis we will do our best to try and see if we can't get a fairer distribution of the resources which lie in our crown colonies for the countries who are without these supplies."

Dangerous Fascism

Then turning to the Italian-Ethiopian problem, the Britisher declared that though Italy is a better nation under Fascism today than she was before Mussolini came to power, Fascism is nevertheless very dangerous. "Signor Mussolini," he said, "will try to get Egypt for economic, political, strategic, and even sentimental reasons. Neither we nor the other powers

The Bitterest Pill

Last Minute Version

Cumulative evidence that Duke University athletic officials willfully used moving pictures of Carolina plays as a part of their scouting procedure in preparation for Saturday's game has come to our attention.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Football Coaches' Association, both of which Duke and Carolina are members, have taken definite stands outlawing such a procedure.

The Southeastern Conference has a rule forbidding the practice; the Southern Conference has a sort of gentlemen's agreement outlawing the use of movies for scouting purposes; and no respectable collegiate institution goes in for such a practice.

This is no sour grapes. In Sunday's issue of the Daily Tar Heel, the editor took this post-game stand:

"The Duke victory was the bitterest pill that Carolina has had to swallow for many years. But if we have to swallow pills, we are glad that Duke is the one to administer them. Their team was unbeatable and the spirit of the student body was undeniably sportsmanlike and whole-hearted."

That was sincere. We were ragged by some members of the student body, but we had the same reply: we meant it.

So it is not sour grapes when we register rightful indignation at tactics which are ungentlemanly and universally regarded as illicit. Any coach will tell you that slow-motion moving pictures tell the whole story. If this were not important, such organizations as the NCAA, foster-parent of intercollegiate football, the AFCA, and virtually every other football league in the nation would not have banned movies for scouting purposes.

There are two purposes for the expression of our indignant opinion on the subject. The first is that these tactics are a slap in the face of those who like ourselves gave Duke credit for winning a CLEAN game. In the second place, it might serve as an explanation of the 25-point disparity in the teams' Saturday strength. How we gained any first downs is still something of a mystery.

We need no further corroboration of evidence. Our sources are reliable. Our coaching staff knew that Duke had pictures, three weeks ago. They could have gone to the same measures. But they are gentlemen.

Alumni all over the state, upon hearing rumors of the Duke practice, have become somewhat incensed. It is not the defeat, but the way it came about.

The game is over and we're satisfied that Duke won Saturday. They outplayed the Tar Heels. No wonder.

ENGINEERS HEAR FIELD TOMORROW

Electrical Student to Address Meeting in Raleigh

Dan B. Field, senior electrical engineering student, will address the North Carolina section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at its fall meeting tomorrow in Raleigh.

The one-day congress will begin at 2 p. m. in the electrical building of State College. After Field's talk on "Railway Electrification" and other afternoon business, the assembly will adjourn to a banquet at the Sir Walter Hotel.

Dudley Bagley, federal rural electrification administrator and future speaker of the convention, will speak on "The Rural Electrification Program" following the banquet.

Professors Miller, Lear, Winkler, and Stainback of the University's electrical department plan to attend the meeting, accompanied by many local electrical students.

CHI OMEGA DANCE

The annual Chi Omega pledge dance will be given Friday night from 9 until 1 o'clock in the ballroom of the Carolina Inn. Freddy Johnson will play for the dance.

Holidays

It was announced at the Registrar's office today that the Thanksgiving holidays will begin at 1 p. m. on Wednesday, November 27. The recess will close the following Monday at 8:30.

The usual rules for attendance will be carried out.

Spencerites Dance In Shack Saturday

Freddy Johnson and Peggy Wood to Provide Music and Vocals

Freddy Johnson and his Carolina orchestra will furnish the music for the Spencer hall dance Saturday evening from 9 until 12 o'clock. Johnson will feature as vocalist, Miss Peggy Wood, former Carolina co-ed.

Since the affair will be a card dance all guests are asked to be on time.

Invitations to the more prominent members of the student body are being issued through the University Club, the Grail, the Y. M. C. A., and the Interfraternity Council.

GRILL WILL OPEN IN STUDENT UNION

Management States That It Intends to Serve Best Quality Food in Town

Graham Memorial grill will open Friday night with the facilities for serving meals daily, preparing short orders at any time of the day, and serving banquets. All the services of a modern restaurant and sandwich shop will be available.

The student grill is located in the basement of Graham Memorial in the end facing Franklin street. It connects with the game room and has an entrance facing Spencer hall. The furnishings are dark stained wooden tables and booths.

The management states that it intends to serve the best quality food in town, rather than the cheapest.

Staff

Mrs. R. L. Hughes, hostess, will employ a staff of four students for the sandwich counter, two cooks, and two colored waiters. Fred Ogburn, Jesse Parker, Winston Barnes, and Sam Morton are the student assistants. Jack Pool will distribute the meal tickets.

The grill is especially fitted to serve small banquets, although 50 or 75 can be accommodated in the large banquet room.

CAMPUS KEYBOARD

WE had occasion to see some very interesting facts yesterday which throw the curriculum revisions in somewhat of a different light.

In the first place, we found out that only slightly over 16 per cent of the students entering the University graduate on schedule. In the second place, we found that about five per cent more students graduate a year late, making about one out of every five students entering graduating at all.

The new curriculum bases its whole philosophy on a four-year schedule of which the first two years are standardized for all and the last two years offer specialization. Obviously it has anything like efficient operation only on the one student out of five who completes his work.

In one sense, however, the curriculum is a great improvement over the old set-up even in light of the above figures. Half of our students complete only two years. The new curriculum emphasizes required studies for those two years and this means that the 50 per cent who drop out have advantage of whatever thought and preparation

PHI DISAPPROVES 'MERCY KILLING'

Assemblymen Defeat Bill Favoring Euthanasia; Heated Controversy Aroused

A pall of darkness fell on the Phi assembly last night as it voted against a bill favoring the practice by the State of euthanasia—the so-called "mercy killing" of the hopelessly ill and insane. Even as the final vote was taken, a cry of "self-defense" went up. The unfavorable verdict on the bill means that the Phi will uphold the negative side of the same question when its freshmen debaters meet those of the Di in the near future.

The assembly voted in favor of a bill asking that current magazines and newspapers in Graham Memorial be provided with binders and that files of these publications be kept.

Fag Question

Wooten-Moulton was on hand last night to make action photos of the assembly. The assembly interrupted a vote on the troublesome smoking issue to pose for Yucky Yack pictures. Return-
