

MONOGRAM CLUB RESOLVES TO END 'UNDUE RUMORS'

Adopt Resolution Planned to Eliminate Unsanctioned Statements Concerning Athletics

GRAIL THANKED FOR GIFT

The Monogram Club took steps last night to minimize the effects of unsanctioned opinions regarding athletics at the University, as a result of alleged adverse publicity which has recently been given to athletics here as a result of unqualified and unauthorized statements from "irresponsible sources."

Acting with dispatch, the letter-writers unanimously passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That in view of the first hand knowledge, the character, and experience of the director of athletics, Coach R. A. Fetzer, and the chairman of the athletic committee, Dean A. W. Hobbs, any statements concerning athletics will be given through them, and the Monogram Club will not sanction any statements given by school editors, school administrators, or

PLAYMAKERS GIVE PLAYS TOMORROW

Second Bill of Experimentals Composed of Works by Koch's Playwrights

The second bill of experimental plays will be given in the Playmakers Theatre tomorrow night at 7:30.

The six plays which were selected for production were written in Professor Koch's class in playwriting. The plays are student-written, student-acted, and student-directed.

"Take Your Choice"

George Starks' "Take Your Choice" is directed by Kenneth Bartlett. It is a play of college liberalism, with the setting in the meeting room of the student league for peace at the University of Barchester, a small conservative university, located in a northern city.

Marjorie Usher's "Black Sheep," a tragedy of the color line, is directed by Ralph Burgin. The setting is on the college campus of Harrisville School for Girls in the Piedmont section of North Carolina.

"Elections"

"Election," a play of Texan small-town politics, by Mary Delaney, is directed by William Wang. A large cast has been chosen for this play, representative of the usual type of politicians underfoot before an election.

Barbara Hilton's "A Most Lamentable Story" is directed by Mary Fowler Spencer.

Waymire's Death

Richard Waymire, well-known local writer whose Cheltenham Papers have been a feature of the Carolina Magazine this fall, died yesterday in Chapel Hill after a lingering illness.

Waymire was generally regarded as one of the most brilliant contributors to the magazine. During his stay in Chapel Hill he had made many friends among the undergraduate student body, as well as among the faculty.

VOTE!

The following six questions concerning athletic policy in our colleges and universities are placed on the following straw ballot without editorial comment for or against.

Numbers 1, 2 and 6 were among the recommendations of President Frank Graham which received the approval of college representatives at a meeting of the Association of American Universities.

Numbers 3, 4, and 5 are asked in order that student opinion on these matters of policy may be clarified.

Students are asked to mark "X" next to "Yes" or "No" after each question. Ballot boxes located in the lobbies of the Y. M. C. A., the library and Graham Memorial will be open from 9 o'clock this morning until 5 this afternoon.

The results will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

Straw Ballot

University Departments Offer New Courses For Next Quarter

Approximately 30 Courses will be Given During Winter Quarter for First Time

More than 30 courses not previously included in the curriculum will be offered to students during the winter quarter.

The mathematics department is offering the greatest number of courses in the coming session. Besides the regular second quarter work in freshman math there will be a course in straight freshman algebra for students who have had only trigonometry in high school and a similar course in trig for those who have had only algebra. One quarter of work in these subjects will enable those who take them to complete freshman math.

Soph Math

Regular sophomore mathematics will be continued with math 12 and Dr. Mackie will teach a course in differential calculus. Courses for graduates and advanced undergraduates will be: 104, advanced algebra under Dr. Winsor; 131, theory of equations, taught by Dr. Hoyle; 152 analytic projective geometry under Dr. Lasley.

Three courses in this department will be open only to graduate students. They are: 206, complex variables; 216, dynamics; and 247, advanced theory of matrices.

Geology Courses

Students who have taken geology 11 during this quarter will enter geology 12, but those who took the course numbered 11 last year will continue with 42. Geology 52, which was formerly commercial geography will be

GLEE CLUBS GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

Men's Women's Glee Clubs to Present Mixed Chorus as First Program of Year

Featuring Dr. Sherman Smith, vocalist, and Peter Hansen, pianist, as soloists, the men's and women's University glee clubs will give their first concert of the year tonight in Hill Music hall at 8:30.

H. Grady Miller is director of both clubs and will present a mixed chorus in concert for the first time, having organized the girl's club only last year.

Wilmington

Following the concert here, the glee clubs will appear in Wilmington, Friday night in Thalian hall, sponsored by the men's club of the Trinity Methodist church.

Friday afternoon, the organization will broadcast over the Wilmington radio station, and will be entertained by Carolina alumni that night, returning to Chapel Hill Saturday.

Program

A difficult and varied program has been arranged for both the concert here and at Wilmington. It will include the sacred 17th century music of Bach, and modern sacred and secular music.

The solos which will be given are "Rhapsody in E Flat" by Brahms, by Peter Hansen, pianist; "The Pilgrim's Song" by Tchaikowsky, and "The Time for Making Songs Has Come" by Rogers, by Dr. Sherman Smith, baritone.

The concluding numbers on the program will be sung by the mixed chorus and will include the following compositions: "The Day of Judgment" by Arkhangelsky, "Sing We and Chant It" by Morley, "The Home of Liberty," a Welsh air, arranged by Richards, and "By Babylon's Wave" by Gounod.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Dr. J. C. Lyons will speak at the regular meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club at the Carolina Inn tonight at 8 o'clock. His lecture will be similar to the one he gave recently at Fort Bragg.

CAMPUS KEYBOARD

FOLKS on the campus evidently believe that the editorial policy of this daily is opposed to the honor system. As a matter of fact, many Chapel Hillians believe that we would like to see this code of ethics abolished.

About six months ago some agitation was created to have an addition tagged on the pledge which everyone signs at the bottom of a quiz. This addition would have made each student a proctor by his written promise to report any cheating. Honor was to be sacrificed for the system. That's why we opposed the addition.

Stuart Rabb's article recently appeared, trying to point out that even the system is failing now, as well as the honor. In recommending that every student read the article, we did not endorse every conclusion, however obvious Rabb might have made them.

We are not opposed to the honor system, but sincerely believe that it is not working. And it won't work until students take back the responsibility which

Administration Officials Urge Swain Re-Opening

Engineers

Registration for engineering school students will be held tomorrow and Saturday in 301 Phillips hall.

Sophomore engineers register from 2 until 5 p. m. tomorrow. Juniors and seniors register from 9 a. m. until 12:30 p. m. Saturday.

During the fall 139 students were registered in the engineering school.

Buccaneer Issues Christmas Number

Hinkle's "Receive All Praises Thine—An Epic Poem," Is Featured

The Christmas issue of Nelson Lansdale's Carolina Buccaneer, held up four days by engraving delays, appeared on the campus yesterday afternoon wearing a Christmas Angel cover designed by Bill Watson, and executed by Julian Bobbitt.

Featured is Lawrence Hinkle's "Receive All Praises Thine—An Epic Poem" on campus politics. Also included are "The Spirit Moves Them," excerpts stolen from fraternity records by Tommy Wilson, a short story by Mac Smith called "Alibi and The 40 Thieves" and "Pat" Dicks' sketch of drunken alumni at a football game, "The Good Old Days Are Now."

New Departments

Two new departments, "We Quote," and "Stolen Treasure," the latter a page of exchanges clipped by Mac Smith, make their appearance in this issue. Regular departments include "As They Are," a sketch of Dr. Eric Zimmerman by Francis Fairley, Eleanor Bizzell's Christmas shopping suggestions in "Making The Man," "Nine" Henderson's "Shadows Before," Bill Anderson's Sports, Fletcher Ferguson's "Bandstand," Hazel Beacham's "Seen and Obscene" and the editor's "Casual Correspondent."

Seven Directors See Better Campus Health In Remodeled Swain

Statements to be Consolidated with Student Petition and Presented Saturday

ALL KEY MEN PARTICIPATE

Statements submitted to the Phi Swain hall committee yesterday by seven administrative officials responsible for the health and well-being of students urged immediate action on the University's plan to renovate and re-open Swain hall.

The statements, published elsewhere in this issue, point out that the University is losing much in student health by not providing suitable and reasonable eating facilities.

Officials expressing opinions were: Dr. W. R. Berryhill, University physician; Dr. R. B. Lawson, Bynum Gymnasium director; Harry Comer, General Secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.; R. A. Fetzer, Athletic Director; O. K. Cornwell, Physical Education and Hygiene Director.

DI WINS FROM PHI IN JOINT DEBATE

Senators Win in Annual Inter-Society Freshman Debate; Wingfield Best Speaker

Alvin Wingfield and C. Klutz, representing the Di Senate, last night won the annual Di-Phi freshman debate. The resolution this year was:

That a system of euthanasia should be legalized in the United States in cases of incurable and loathsome diseases and the lowest forms of idiocy.

Wingfield was named the best speaker of the evening by the judges.

Vance Rowe and Mace Gwyer argued the negative side for the Phi. They cited the Declaration of Independence, the Ten Commandments, and the supremacy of Athens over Sparta, which practiced a form of "mercy killing," in denouncing euthanasia.

Cost of Incurables

Wingfield's principal address stressed the social, economical, and political cost of incurables. He argued that the system of "mercy killing" would be well organized and supervised by a competent board of impartial medical officers.

Klutz recalled several cases of horrible suffering by incurables. He declared that euthanasia would not be unreasoning and unavoidable; it would be a benevolence.

In the chief negative talk, Gwyer asserted that euthanasia is already practiced as an unwritten law by responsible physicians. He deplored its legalization and consequent subjection to misuses.

A small audience heard the debate. Judges were Harry F. Comer, Y. M. C. A. secretary; R. H. Wettach, professor of law, and Voit Gilmore, DAILY TAR HEEL reporter.

New Greeks

The pledging of J. E. Elrod, Jr., to Chi Phi, and John A. Moore to D. K. E. was announced yesterday by the Dean of Student's office.
