Today's Religion

 nish the motive power to sustain an adventure for a better world in which cruelty, injustice, oppression, hopeless poverty, and preventable disease shall be no more. Religion puts a dynamic force behind ethics.
 The tides of spiritual power are perhaps most often released through private and public prayer. Prayer is not the exercise of magical powers nor a formal gesture of politeness to God nor a set of preliminary exercises before a sermon. Prayer is fellowship with One who is approachable and resourceful. It is a creative experience through which we may come in contact with the highest purposes for ourselves and for society and with the deepest sources of power and goodness. Prayer is not the production but the appropriation of power. It does not remove all our burdens, but it gives us strength to face them and grace to learn from them. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

RHO CHI INITIATES

Six new members were taken into Rho Chi, honorary pharmaceutical society, at its initiation Friday night.
 They are: C. M. Crowell, Jr., Norwood; H. J. Kee, Gumberry; J. I. Matthews, Rose Hill; W. J. Smith, Morganton; E. V. Stephenson, Seaboard; and C. W. Waller, Mt. Olive.

With The Advertisers

Last year a little under 200,000 more Fords were sold by motor merchants throughout the country than any other car on the market. Chapel Hill's agency for this great automobile is Bruce Strowd's "Ford Motor Company," an establishment which has been here since 1914. Strowd has at his house a 1914 model, his first sale, which is a prize of days when automobiles were young and sales were younger.
 He began his business in a little service shop back of the present location of the Bus Station and Western Union. His present organization on the corner of Franklin and Cameron has developed into the only complete service plant of all type cars in the vicinity as well as a department for the sale of new and used Fords.

Chapel Hill Scouts Hear President Give Encouraging Speech

Roosevelt Makes Radio Address to Boy Scout Troops; Lauds Ideals

A large representation of the local Boy Scout troop heard President Roosevelt broadcast over a nation-wide hookup from the White House, a message of encouragement as the national organization celebrated their 26th anniversary.

The President commended the scouts for their work, expressed his faith in the ideals of the organization, and wished for them a most successful year. He said that he was looking forward to the scout jamboree which will be held in Washington in the summer of 1937, and closed his talk with these words, "Keep on making good."

Prior to the President's speech, Walter W. Head, president of the national organization made the introductory remarks.

James West, chief scout executive led the scouts in the salute and oath, asking them to rededicate themselves to the ideals.

Special music from New York was heard during the program.

tion of the University. After giving a brief description of the exhibits and attractions which will be displayed, Hammer will urge all of the alumni, parents of students, and friends of the University to join with the campus in enjoying the festivals.

Dean House, speaking on behalf of the administration, will welcome all guests and will tell of the spirit of co-operation prevalent over the campus between the students and faculty in working up the exhibits and programs.

Freddie Johnson and his University orchestra will lend variety to the program by playing several novelty numbers. Peggy Wood, vocalist, will be starred in two specialty numbers.

ing professor that Vassar's admission requirements are much stricter than those of southern schools. For that reason, women there have an average of two years more schooling than those in the same grades in the south.

Dr. Zimmermann reports that he felt he was "addressing a very well-prepared group. . . marked with earnestness and intellectual interest."

A ROUND-ROBIN OF TALENT

Ethel Merman, Broadway's rhythm girl, pretends not to know her companions, Charlie Ruggles pretends he is a minister, and Bing Crosby hopes to pass off as a steward! One of the madcap scenes from "Anything Goes," Paramount comedy due today and tomorrow at the Carolina Theatre.

Lindsay To Speak

Samuel McCune Lindsay, who speaks in Bingham hall Tuesday night on international cooperation in labor and industrial relations, is a member and past officer of such organizations as the following.

American Academy of Politics and Social Science; American Economic Association; Royal Economic Society of Great Britain. He is at present chairman of the National Child Labor Commission, in addition to his professorship on social legislation at Columbia University.

His illustrated lecture Tuesday begins at 8 o'clock and is open to all interested persons.

the girls from the Chapel Hill high school. All co-eds who are interested in playing in this game are asked to report to Kay Quigley or Frances Caffey.

Regular tournament games will be played Tuesday and Thursday nights while Wednesday night will be reserved for duels. This schedule will not all games not otherwise scheduled. This schedule will not be put into operation until the week of February 17, since there are conflicts on both Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week.

Under the new plan, the teams will get points for the number of girls coming out, just as the unit plan provided. Two tournaments will be run off at the close of the quarter, one for the class championship team and one for the original unit teams. A plaque will be given at the end of the year to the unit having the most points.

ble-pointer and converted one free toss.

However, after the intermission, the Middies came back with a strong rally, scoring eight points in seven minutes, while holding Carolina to a single counter by McCachren. After 10 minutes of play had elapsed, the Tar Heels went on a scoring spree as Kaveny hooked in four field goals, and Bershak, Nelson, and McCachren one each, while limiting the visitors to a pair by Fellows and McFarland, thus running the count to 37-21. Ingram and Fellows then scored on long shots and Kaveny added another double-pointer from long range to end the scoring. Navy fought hard to cut down the margin, but it was too late and Carolina's sophomore line-up, which finished the game, was too much for it.

Earl Ruth was particularly brilliant, his tricky dribbling and backboard play were the best he has shown this season.

CONTEST OFFERS CASH FOR ESSAYS

Neutrality to be Subject of Editorial Competition

All students interested in talk of wars and of America's neutrality have a chance to convert their ideas to $50 or one of 11 other prizes being offered in a new essay contest sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association and The Nation magazine.

An editorial of not over 1000 words must be entered before March 15 on the subject "Will Neutrality Keep Us Out of War?" to compete in the contest.

Other prizes include $25, five subscriptions to The Nation, and five memberships in the Foreign Policy Association. The first-prize essay will be published in the May 6 issue of The Nation.

Complete details of the contest may be secured at the offices of the DAILY TAR HEEL.

SAND AND SALVE

By STUART RABB

ELECTION EXPEDIENT

A vote on the soil-conservation substitute for the AAA is expected, congressional leaders say, as soon as the snow melts a little. The heavy snowfall in Washington, it seems, has strengthened the already potent tendency of senators toward using their optional attendance. Attendance in the upper house has barely equalled a quorum recently.

Basically, the substitute provides for federal subsidization of farmers who retire "eroded" land. Instead of making contracts with individuals to carry out the program, the Administration intends to agree with the several states to contact the farmers. Of course, the crop control will come through the retirement of land on which crops may be grown and which will be declared "subject to erosion."

Leaders in Congress admit that the bill is probably unconstitutional. But observers say that it will pass. Congressmen, in spite of the confusion following the AAA demise, are determined to let the farmer know they are "for him." This is election year.

There are still a lot of people who cannot enjoy nature because it is so cheap.
