STOVE PIPE GOSSIP

by Bob Page

It begins to look as though the old Southern Conference is catching it in the neck from all sides now.

Looking around the circuit at the current trends, we can see nothing but grief looming ahead for the conference.

It is almost a foregone conclusion that Duke will withdraw in time. That institution heartily opposed adoption of the new rules and made no secret about how they felt.

Duke is well-fixed financially and is well able to pull out of the conference. The Southeastern Conference would welcome that member with open arms in all probability.

We have heard no word from the other two schools which opposed the new regulations but it would not surprise us in the least to see them follow the example of Duke and Clemson if the latter two withdrew.

To add to the hubbub the alumni of our own little paradise are diametrically opposed to sections of the plan and went on record this week in regard to the way they stand.

Adding complications to our own private little party over here is the announcement that Ramsay Potts will probably be lost to the White Phantoms for the rest of the season.

Potts will be sadly missed in (Continued on last page)

WILLIAMSON RUNS FAMOUS BAXTER CLASSIC TONIGHT

Tar Heel Ace to Participate in Annual Event with Nation's Best Milers in Garden

BROADCAST IS PROBABLE

Harry Williamson, ace Carolina runner, will participate tonight in the classic Baxter mile in the 69th annual New York Athletic Club games, in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The games this year promise to be some of the most thrilling features of the current track season, and a sellout crowd is expected. More than likely the entire meet will be broadcast; the mile is certain to receive a radio hook-up.

Feature Event

The feature event of the evening will be the Baxter mile, in which Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke, Joe Mangan, and Harry Williamson will run. Cunningham, Venzke and Mangan are all nationally known, while Williamson has won the right to compete with them by virtue of having run the fastest mile in Southern Conference competition.

Mangan in Spotlight

Mangan, who has taken his place among the nation's foremost milers by his win over Venzke and Cunningham two weeks ago in the Millrose A. A. games, will be the center of all eyes. Although he came in ahead of his opponents, his margin of victory was so small, track followers will be out to see if he can once again stave off the sprints of Cunningham and Venzke.

Williamson has never run the mile in time comparable to that of his opponents, and he enters the famous event as the dark horse.

Other Events

Although the Baxter mile will supply the spectators with some spectacular running, another event which should make the fans rise from their seats is the Halpin half mile.

The Halpin half will bring together Chuck Hornbostel, intercollegiate half mile record holder, and Robinson, of Fresno State, winner of the half mile event in the intercollegiate last year.

Seniors

The senior class election of a vice-president will take place Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in Memorial hall under the supervision of the student council, it was announced yesterday.

The office of vice-president was left vacant when Morris Rhodes succeeded to the office of presidency which was left vacant by the president's withdrawal from school.

TAR BABIES SEEK WIN FROM V. M. I.

Coach Quinlan's Charges will Attempt to Gain Third Victory of Season in Tonight's Tilt

Coach Chuck Quinlan's Tar Baby wrestlers will engage the strong V. M. I. yearling team tonight in an attempt to gain their third win of the season.

With Co-Captain Woodson still on the sick list, the Carolina wrestling mentor is still undecided on the men he will use in the four heavier weights to combat the Cadet stalwarts.

The first four weights are the same as was used in the previous meets, each man having been good for five points in each of the two meets preceding the V. M. I. clash. These men are Harris, 118-lb.; Hastie, 126; Randall, 135; and Judson, 145.

For the upper weights Coach Quinlan will use either Michaels or Davenport, two reserves in the 145-lb. class, Williamson in the 165-lb. class, Hood for the heavyweight, and Woodson for the 175-lb. class if he is able to make the trip to the Cadet stronghold.

Chapel Hill and the University boast of their branch store of Alfred-Williams and Company. This firm handles diversified and well-known lines of goods such as Royal typewriters, Shaeffer fountain pens, a complete line of stationery, athletic supplies, the college-student's material, college jewelry, gifts, and office supplies.

Alfred-Williams and Company was founded by a man of that same name in Raleigh in 1867. The salesmanship and quality of the goods sold are based on these years of experience. The descendants of the founder, Alfred Williams, Jr., and B. Grimes Williams, who are active members of the firm, are both graduates of the University.

Four years ago the company seized an excellent opportunity for business by establishing a branch store in Chapel Hill, which was located for two years in the present Student's "Co-op." Fred M. Prouty, son of Dr. W. F. Prouty, geology department head, and former student of the University, is the manager of the Chapel Hill store.

New Courses Offered At Woman's College

Six Departments Install New Courses At Greensboro Unit

Six departments at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina are offering new courses during the second semester, which began January 29. Dr. Kurt E. Rosinger, who has come from Columbia University to head the department of philosophy, is teaching two new classes, one in aesthetics, and the other in the logic of science.

A course in Greek and Roman literature is being taught by Dr. Charlton C. Jernigan, formerly of Duke University, who joined the faculty of the college in September as head of the new department of classical civilization.

Courses in painting, drawing, color, and design are being taught by Gregory D. Ivey, head of the recently established art department.

COLDS, INFLUENZA HALT MURAL PLAY

Postponement of Athletic Events Also Plays Havoc with Basketball, Bowling Intramurals

The recent postponement of all varsity sporting events save the V. M. I.-Carolina wrestling matches, has played havoc in the basketball and bowling intramurals as well.

With a record entry at the start of the league play in basketball, the tourney bid fair to be one of the greatest in intramural history. At the time of the cancellation of all sports' activities, eight dormitory and fraternity teams were heading the list of undefeated teams, but it seems that the winner will go undetermined this year.

Begin Next Quarter

With but three and a half weeks before exams, it is unlikely that any form of intramural play will be run off for the remainder of this quarter. However, next quarter should see the resuming of the natural regime with the tennis, baseball, and other intramural sports back in their natural form.

As a result of the halt in the athletic activities, the intramural field is still a close race with Graham dormitory and Chi Psi heading their respective divisions. The remaining teams are strung out close behind the leaders and it is still a close race for the campus intramural championship.

Romance Department Hard Hit By Injuries

One-Third of Department Absent Through Illness or Injuries

There was little of romance in the romance department during the past week, when one-third of its 25 professors and instructors were out, ill or injured.

The sad fortune of the Spanish and French professors began 13 days ago when an accident during a night sledding party brought bodily injuries to Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stoudemire, and W. A. McLeod, who was unable to lecture the next day because of an injured chin. J. E. Carroll suffered a broken arm on the same occasion and was kept from school one day for X-rays.

Last Saturday the department faced a crisis. W. A. McKnight and W. R. Weaver arrived to find 10 classes to be divided between themselves for instruction.

Their most ingenious manipulation occurred at 9:30 when three sections met for different instruction. By posting a quiz on the board of one room, they managed to get several free moments to visit the other classes.

By this weekend the department is regaining normalcy. Those professors who have been away from the department for some period during the past two weeks are: J. E. Carroll, B. R. Thurman, J. A. Barrett, L. L. Barrett, F. C. Hayes, A. G. Engstrom, R. S. Boggs, and H. H. Staab.

The committee on arrangements for the course is composed of R. M. Grumman, director of the extension division, Mrs. H. R. Totten, president of the Garden Club of North Carolina, and Mrs. F. H. Edmister, president of the Chapel Hill Garden Club.

Tar Heel Grapplers Meet V.M.I. Mat Team Tonight

DUKE NOSES OUT DAVIDSON CAGERS

Blue Devils Rally in Closing Minutes To Gain Close Decision

Duke University's Blue Devil cagers garnered two field goals and a free throw in the last four minutes of play to defeat a brilliantly playing Davidson five Thursday night in the Duke gymnasium by the count of 36-33.

The strong Blue Devil basketballers got off to an early start, holding the Wildcats to a single basket during the first 10 minutes of play while tossing in 10 points for themselves.

However, with the substitution of Ken Knorr at the forward post for Davidson, the tide of battle turned in favor of the Wildcats and with the little forward scoring eight points in rapid succession, Davidson held a 19-16 lead at the half.

The Blue Devils rallied again at the beginning of the second period but Davidson gradually pulled up until the score was deadlocked, 31-all. Then the Duke sharpshooters tossed in five points and Knorr for Davidson countered with another basket to end the scoring.

Captain Bonner Lost For Hard Cadet Tilt

Umstead and Lytle Return to Carolina Lineup to Bolster Chances In Lower Weights

OTHER TEAMS INACTIVE

While all other Carolina athletic teams are inactive due to postponement of all games, the Tar Heel varsity and freshman wrestlers clash with the powerful Cadets of V. M. I. in Lexington, Va., tonight.

Coach Quinlan's wrestlers will be seeing their first competition in three weeks. Their last meet was with Navy on January 25. One weekend afforded an open date and last week the scheduled meet with Washington and Lee had to be cancelled because bad weather prevented the Generals from making the trip.

Bonner Lost

Captain Allan Bonner, star junior welterweight, will be lost to the Tar Heel cause in their tough scrap with the Cadets, defending Southern Conference mat champions. Bonner has been out several weeks, nursing a bad carbuncle on his neck. Coach Quinlan hopes to have his star ready for the Southern Conference tournament, however.

The loss of Bonner is slightly offset by the return of two veterans, Frank Umstead in the 125-lb. class and Sam Lytle in the 135-lb. class. This will greatly bolster the chances of the Tar Heels in the lighter weights against the crack Cadets, who last week allowed a strong Army team a victory in only one weight. This pair was out with slight colds.

Completing the Tar Heel varsity lineup will be Tankersley at 115, Kephart at 145; Smith at 155; Williams at 165; Gwynn at 175 and Kaluk at unlimited.
