THE CAMPUS KEYBOARD

by Phil Hammer

Our Student Self-Government
Plays Its Important Role
In Offering Opportunities

Given the alternative of administering student activities through complete student self-government or through faculty control, about nine out of 10 educators and students would choose the former, because of its "character building" and civic values.

What actually happens under such a system is invariably this, no matter how perfect the self-governing system is set up: there are always a few, the honest-to-goodness campus leaders, who do all the work. The student body as a whole usually co-operates by electing officers and other persons of great social magnitude, but its co-operation usually ends there.

Student government, however, is a source of great pride to these individuals and despite their aversion to doing any work in its administration, they are very jealous of their responsibilities, viz., they want their votes even if they don't pay much attention to the men they elect.

Now, there is nothing particularly "character building" in this procedure. But we've neglected two other elements which are important. One is that there are many students on the campus who engage in the administration of such groups as the dormitories and certain societies open to all, and this connection with student government, however slight, is more than they would otherwise receive.

The other element is that those few who do work and work hard, because they have to do other people's work as well, get a superb training in many fields. The ordinary year for about a half-dozen men on the campus who are in this rough-travelling boat is equivalent to a couple of courses in ethics, philosophy, psychology, and law—and that's no disparagement of the educational value of those courses, either.

It's not so easy to justify the student self-government's philosophy on the latter basis, but the other one, that which makes it easy for the common-run of students with no particular ability and no particular drive to assume some responsibility, however small it might be, in conducting his affairs and those of his fellowmen.

That, too, justifies to a certain extent our system of campus politics, except that the fellows who think they are big shots very often are not. That is what will happen after college, though, so you might agree with the politicians who say that we're only doing our part in getting ready for the Big Push.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTS NEW MEN FOR SPRING TERM

President Warren Presides at Initial Meeting of Fraternity, Dormitory Representatives

TO HOLD INITIATION SOON

Prospective members of the University Club, who were notified of their election by letter earlier in the week, assembled for the first time last night in Graham Memorial. President Julien Warren welcomed the new members, who represent each fraternity and dormitory on the campus, and informed them that they were on attendance probation until their initiation.

The names of the new men will be withheld from publication until after their initiation to allow any who might wish to do so, to withdraw.

Frank Willingham, former president of the club, acquainted the men with the functions and purposes of the club and congratulated the old members on their work during the past quarter.

Plans were discussed concerning smoking to be held during the spring holidays in each of the larger state cities for the purpose of contacting high school seniors.

FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL

"To show others light and find things still undiscovered," are the reasons for living, quoted H. P. Brantley, from Reasons for Living, a book recently published by Princeton Dean R. R. Wicks, to the members of the Freshman Friendship council in an informal meeting of the group in Di hall last night.

A formal invitation was extended to the Freshman Friendship council of the Woman's College to participate in the meeting of next Monday night.

Negroes Crash Into Home As Resident Hears Major Bowes

Two Negroes Have Involved
Wreck Sunday Night

A freak wreck involving Major Bowes, a baby, a broken gas main, two Negroes, and a Mr. Poythress occurred Sunday night on Mallette street.

Music from Major Bowes' amateur hour was floating in over the radio, Father Poythress was fondling the child, and all was well when it suddenly seemed that "the world was coming to an end."

The two Negroes, racing uphill on Mallette street in a sedan, had sideswiped a parked automobile and careened into the front of a house. Their car stopped half-way under Mr. Poythress' front porch, with the porch's floor sticking through the windshield into the front seat.

The car crashed through the house's brick foundation and broke a gas main that at once made approach to the car hazardous. A service plant employee was summoned to mend the break, but only after Father Poythress had moved his unharmed family to another house for the night.

The Negroes, who are reported to have escaped injury, are being held by police.

DEPUTATION TEAM OF NINE STUDENTS WILL GO TO DUNN

Will Leave Tomorrow; House, Comer To Follow

A Y. M. C. A.-sponsored deputation team will leave for Dunn tomorrow afternoon to put on a dozen programs during the coming weekend.

Dean R. B. House and Harry T. Comer, secretary of the "Y," plan to meet the group Sunday and to take part in a special church service at the Dunn Methodist church. House will be the special speaker at this service for the young people of Dunn.

Starting tomorrow night with an appearance at a Hi-Y banquet, the nine man team will continue through Sunday, putting their variety programs on at the various schools and social organizations of Dunn.

Saturday night the deputation boys will meet a Dunn team in a game of basketball.

"Y" cabinet members who are scheduled to make short talks are: Harold Gavin, Gene Bricklemeyer, Jack Seawell, Bill Stronach, and Jim Joyner.

Panel Debates Will Air Grievances Of Students

"What is Wrong with the University?" will be the topic of the panel debates and open forum being conducted tonight in Graham Memorial lounge, under the sponsorship of the Debate council, Graham Memorial, and the American Student union, with other organizations co-operating.

Campus leaders will speak for three minutes each on such subjects as the honor system, administration mistakes and inefficiency, playmakers, the Graham plan, the grading system, comprehensives, lack of esthetic appreciation on the campus, and many other matters.

Grievance

Anyone in the audience who wants to say anything is invited to participate in the open forum following the scheduled speakers. "If you have any grievances to air now is your chance," says Harper Barnes, manager of Graham Memorial and head of the committee which arranged the program.

This is the first of a series of panel debates which will be held. The series is modeled after those of the National Student Federation programs which are sponsored over the radio and on various campuses.

Tonight's program was suggested by the Debate council, which discussed it originally and drew up the plans. Dr. W. A. Olsen, representative of the Debate council, will preside over the meeting.

Among the speakers are Phil Hammer, Joe Brown, Bill Leavitt, Haywood Weeks, Pete Ivey, Irving Suss, and Floyd Fletcher.

Political Union

The Carolina Political Union will hold its final organization meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in 212 Graham Memorial.

A definite program has been outlined for the organizational make-up of the group and this meeting will complete the work already started at a previous session held last week.

All campus organizations are urged to send representatives to take part in the work.

HONOR PAMPHLET ALMOST FINISHED

Members of Committee will Place Ballots in Hands of Every Student Tonight

Work in compiling the mimeographed booklet for use by group leaders in carrying on discussions on the honor system within the next weeks was completed last night, two days overtime, and is being mimeographed today for distribution either tonight or tomorrow morning.

The material for the printed ballots which will be placed in the hands of every student tonight was turned in to the printers yesterday morning.

Soon

All the work done by the honor committee took considerably longer than anticipated. Nevertheless, the finished products, which consist of factual presentations concerning the honor system and a questionnaire for each student, will be received soon by the students for their consideration and use during the period of group discussions all over the campus.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McCauley and family wish to thank the University faculty and students, friends and acquaintances of their daughter, Annie Lee, for their expressions of kindness and sympathy during her illness and recent death.

"These acts were and are comforting and will always be remembered with deep gratitude."

BUCHANAN SPEAKS TO POLICY LEAGUE

Russo-Japanese Relations will be Viewed Tomorrow Night

Foreign Policy leaguers will meet tomorrow evening after several weeks of inactivity to hear a discussion of Russo-Japanese relations by Professor D. H. Buchanan of the social science department.

Professor Buchanan spent 10 years in Japan as college instructor, and he will report on issues underlying the oriental dispute as he has observed them.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in Graham Memorial's small lounge.

The Y. W. C. A. will receive part of the proceeds from the tickets sold and the money will be used to sponsor activities of the organization in the spring.

The picture is an English musical comedy with all of the rhythmic music and dances included. Miss Matthews has been called the "divine dancer" by movie critics and is rated highly by them.

Any member of the Y. W. C. A. will have tickets for sale.

PLANS RELEASED FOR CONFERENCE ABOUT MARRIAGE

Groves Announces Summer Conference on Teaching Marriage

The second conference on marriage and the family will be held July 6 to 10, it was announced last week by Dr. Ernest R. Groves of the department of sociology.

The first conference, which met during the summer session of 1934, resulted from the interest of college teachers in the methodology of the instruction in preparation for marriage that has developed here at the University.

Although the program of this second conference features discussions of the problems of teaching marriage, it also includes other topics relating to the conservation of marriage and the family and is broader in its appeal. This is in accord with the interests expressed by those attending last year, Dr. Groves said.

To this session are invited teachers in college, in high school, and in adult education, physicians, lawyers, ministers, husbands, wives, and parents.

"A valuable part of the discussions at the first conference were the contributions of persons interested in it because they were personally dealing with problems of marriage and the family, and this has been recognized in the making of this year's program," Dr. Groves remarked.

Fashion Show Voting Is Regarded As Joke In Y. W. C. A. Poll

Official sources revealed yesterday that the voting for models in the Y. W. C. A. fashion show was regarded as a joke, that the ballot boxes were stuffed for the co-eds, and that the whole proceeding was carried on in a very undignified manner.

The exact number of votes that each co-ed received was omitted in the story which ran in yesterday's paper. For further clarification of the matter, the votes received were as follows: Ruth Crowell, 106; Kate Harrison, 65; Nan Norman, 61; Patsy McMullan, 50; Louise Waite, 29; Nancy Dicks, 28; Frances Caffey, 23; Mary Banks McPherson, 23; and Sue Southerland, 21.

Lansdale Popular

Nelson Lansdale, editor of the Buccaneer, proved to be more popular with some of the campus as a model than did the co-eds. He polled 56 votes, taking precedence over Phil Hammer, editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, Barney Keeney, president of Phi Beta Kappa, and some mysterious "Tarzan," who also seemed to be in popular favor. It was specified on several of the votes cast for Lansdale that he wear a black, slinky evening gown.

In commenting on the distinction accorded him in the voting, Lansdale said: "Thanks a million to the good old University Party for securing me another campus office. I don't feel I deserve this one either, but thanks anyhow." Other local celebrities who were approached for a statement had nothing to say for publication.

Dean Francis F. Bradshaw was a campus favorite too, having polled a number of the votes. Other celebrities who were favored were Eleanor Roosevelt, Alison Skipworth, and Ruby Keeler.

ALL GLEE CLUBS APPEAR TONIGHT IN JOINT RECITAL

Snyder Gets Prize

As Best Blocking
Back In Big Five

Co-Captain Wins Millis Trophy
for Second Time

Alumnus Bunn Hackney, Coach Carl Snavely, Dean Francis Bradshaw, and Co-captain Herman Snyder were the participants in Monday's freshman assembly program.

Mr. Hackney, who is now a Boy Scout executive from High Point, was captain of the basketball team at the University in 1927, and also played quarterback on the football team of that year. He was in Chapel Hill yesterday to award the Millis medal to "Hump" Snyder who has been chosen by the sports writers of the state as the best blocker on any of the Big Five football teams in 1935.

Co-captain Snyder received the individual medal and Coach Snavely received the accompanying trophy for the University. This is the second year in succession that Snyder has brought this honor to the University.

In receiving the trophy, Coach Snavely said, "This year I have no question that 'knock-em-stiff' Snyder is the best blocker in both the Southern Conference and in the Southeastern Conference."
