THOR JOHNSON'S LITTLE SYMPHONY TO GIVE CONCERTS

Will Appear Tomorrow Afternoon in Graham Memorial; Tuesday Night on Series

FEATURES VIOLIN-CELLIST

Returning for the second time to this University, the Little Symphony of the University of Michigan, under the direction of Thor Johnson, University alumnus, will present a concert in Memorial hall Tuesday evening at 8:30, under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Series. The orchestra will also appear tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

As a special feature, Ruby Peinert, young violin-cellist, will play with the group in a solo capacity. Miss Peinert, although a native of Toledo, O., has spent the greater part of her musical career in the state of Michigan. Her talent was early recognized as she was presented with two scholarships for unusual musical attainment while still a student in high school.

Career

In the summer of 1929 Miss Peinert attended the National High School Orchestra camp at Interlochen, Mich., and in the following summer appeared with that organization in concerts in Atlantic City, New York City, Philadelphia, and Washington, D. C. In 1932 she was appointed assistant instructor in violin-cello at the University of Michigan school of music, and has been solo violin-cellist with the University Symphony for six years. For several summers Miss Peinert has been a member of a concert trio at Lake Bomoseen, Ver. Numerous solo appearances have been made with the Little Symphony, Michigan Conservatory Orchestra, University of Michigan Symphony, and other symphonic organizations.

Miss Peinert is a pupil of Hanns Pick, famous Swiss violin-tellist who is a graduate of the Conservatories of Karlsruhe and Budapest.

Library Group Issues List Of Periodicals

American Library Association Releases Union Bibliography

The American Library Association's committee on resources, of which R. B. Downs, University librarian, is chairman has recently issued a union list of the periodicals which have been received by the southern libraries.

This bibliography edited by Alma S. Skeggs, head of the University periodical department includes 7,000 titles of periodicals received by the principal southern libraries from Virginia to Texas.

The subscription list includes 75 university, college, and state libraries. This list is expected to be quite useful in making inter-library loans.

ORGAN RECITAL

At Jan Philip Schinhan's regular Sunday afternoon organ recital tomorrow will be presented "Fantasie and Fugue in B Flat" by A. P. F. Boely; "Gavotte" by Samuel Wesley; "Chorale Prelude No. 1" by Healy Willian; "Five Fancies" by Noel Ponsoby; and "Choral Prelude No. 2" by Healy Willian.

GEOLOGISTS GET RESEARCH GRANT ON SURVEY WORK

MacCarthy and Straley Get Grant-in-Aid for Research in Magnetic Field

G. R. MacCarthy and H. W. Straley, III, of the University geology staff received the only grant-in-aid allowed for a geological or geophysical problem for 1936.

The two men have been doing geo-magnetic work under a grant from the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and were fortunate enough to secure the only grant which was given in this field.

They have been measuring the strength of the earth's magnetic field, particularly in the neighborhood of Wilmington. Mr. Straley stated that they were in a position to say "more than a little" about the rocks 12 to 15 hundred feet below the earth's surface.

"We hope," says Mr. Straley, "to be able to learn even more. We are attempting to verify the presence of a buried mountain range that must be at least 75 million years old."

"We also hope to tie this work up with that of W. R. Johnson. Johnson is working in the eastern part of the state where he has discovered evidence of a river valley 50 miles wide beneath 1,000 feet of sediments, and of about the same age as the mountain range."

School Of Library Science Considers Adolescent Reading

Class Makes Study to Determine Books Read by High School Juniors

"I enjoy reading books about girls my age who are choosing a career and who have many hardships to go through with," was the answer that a 15-year old Chapel Hill high school gave to Miss Nora Beust's class in "Adolescent Reading" when she was asked what books she liked.

The class, which is being conducted by the University school of library science, recently made a survey of the junior class of the local high school in order that they might learn the books generally read and liked by students of that age.

Letters

The boys and girls wrote letters discussing their hobbies, the things which interested them most, and the books which they read. One young man wrote: "I am interested in tennis, football, scouts, Hi-Y, music, dramatics, student government—and the prevention of war."

Another student wrote: "I am now reading a story about a girl who had to face a great many religious problems. This book is one of the 'Elsie' books."

The results of the study proved to be as surprising as they were amusing. Strangely enough, the book reviews submitted by the class were unusually well-written, and the taste of the class in books was very modern and intelligent.

Grail

There will be an informal Grail dance tonight from 9 till 12 o'clock in Bynum gymnasium. Lew Gogerty and his orchestra will furnish music for the occasion. Freshmen will be admitted.

HEADS POLL

Fred Weaver, Aberdeen student, chairman of the honor system committee, who is administering this week the questionnaire on student government.

Russian Singers Present Varied Group Of Songs

Program of Singers Exhibits Qualities of Harmony, Beauty and Cheerful Manner

By P. H. CROWELL

The atmosphere of traditional Russia in music and in spirit pervaded Memorial hall Thursday night when the Siberian Singers, directed by Nicholas Vasilieff, presented a program of songs ranging from 11th century church chants to gypsy folk tunes.

Dressed in robes of monks, the singers opened the program with three religious songs and two ancient chants. Their voices blended together in one harmonious whole, sometime as soft as a whisper, then rising in full-throated volume to express the soul of the former Russian Christianity.

The last group of songs before the intermission was composed folk songs and traditional music of Russia, at which time the singers discarded their robes and appeared in the gayly colored costumes of their native country. "Pirate Song," a Volga legend of the 17th century, "Siberian Prisoner's Song," and "Soldier's Song," were the most interesting of this group, each reflecting

Commerce Library Features Varied List Of Periodicals

Increasing Emphasis Upon Magazines In Business, Librarian Asserts

"In the field of business education, there is an increasing emphasis upon periodical literature. It is with this in mind that the commerce library attempts to make available to students in commerce a varied and comprehensive list of periodicals and services," stated Miss Guelda Elliott, commerce librarian.

The commerce library receives 254 periodicals and services. Fifteen of these publications are scholarly journals, published in England, Germany, Switzerland, France, and America. The other 240 periodicals cover subjects such as: accounting, banks and banking, business conditions, commerce and industry, corporations, export and import trade, finance, insurance, investments, labor, marketing, and various industries and

LANSDALE ISSUES HUMOR MAGAZINE

Buccaneer Makes Next-to-Last Appearance Under Present Administration

Flaunting in the face of the campus a couple of smooth drawings by Old East's Frank Trotman, Phil Schinhan's breath of spring, and Editor Lansdale's insistent crabbing, the next-to-last Buccaneer for the current editorship appeared last night.

Featuring numerous exchange cartoons, stories and articles by Dick Myers, Fletcher Ferguson, Louise Waite, and Julian Bobbitt, two lengthy poems by Lawrence Hinkle, and an unsigned piece by Graham Gammon, the new magazine is sprinkled throughout in departments and featured boxes with cracks at campus political organizations and campus leaders in particular.

Thousands Cheer

The five students of the month include Playmakers' star of current productions, Bedford Thurman, S. A. E. golfer and dresser, Dick Harris, president of the Woman's association, Jane Ross, junior class president, Joe Fisher, and editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL Phil Hammer. Lansdale's editorial painted a gloomy summary of a hectic year's activities and dwindled into comic despair with a word picture of Dean House and Dean Bradshaw duet-ing on mouth organs.

Regular departments, besides numerous short poems and drawings, include Casual Correspondent, Hazel Beacham's "Scene and Obscene," "We Quote," "Bandstand," by Dick Mosier and Eugene Palamar, Mac Smith's exchanges, and the dress comments.

FREDDY JOHNSON PLAYS FOR E.C.T.C. DANCE SET

Freddie Johnson and his Carolina Tar Heels orchestra opened the Mid-winter set of dances at Eastern Carolina Teachers' College in Greenville, last night.

The set will be continued this afternoon and this evening with Johnson's band furnishing the music throughout. The Tar Heels have filled several engagements on the campus and in various parts of the state since their organization last year.

School Bulletins To Supplant General University Catalogue

Comprehensives

According to the office of the dean of arts and sciences, comprehensive examinations for the school of commerce will be given this morning at 8:30. All other comprehensives will come at 9 o'clock. Places for the exams have been set by the individual department heads.

Martini's Songs Prove Effective At Duke Concert

Metropolitan Tenor Warms Up in Second Part of Program to Call Forth Appreciation

By Bob Perkins

Nino Martini, Metropolitan tenor, made a hit Thursday night with his audience at Duke before he even appeared on the stage.

Miss Gerry Lewis, daughter of the treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera association, and a sophomore member of the Music Study club at Duke, announced that Mr. Martini was "graciously giving the whole of the proceeds from the concert to the Music Study club." She then presented Mr. Martini.

First Group

In the first group of songs, Martini sang Donaudy's "Vaghiissima sembianza" and "Spirate pur spirate," and Handel's "Air from Serse (Largo)." The first two were of the Italian ballad type with catchy legatto and gave the singer a chance to test his voice.

Fellowes To Discuss English Madrigals

Elizabethan Music Authority to Give Lecture-Recital Tomorrow Night

Dr. Edmund Horace Fellowes, authority on Elizabethan music, will give a lecture-recital on Elizabethan Madrigals at 8:30 tomorrow night in Hill Music hall. Songs in which Dr. Fellowes accompanies himself on the lute, and records made by the English Singers and St. George's Singers under his direction are used as illustrations.

Dr. Fellowes ranks as one of the world's foremost scholars on Elizabethan music and is the editor of "The English Madrigal School" besides being author of numerous studies of the period.

This lecture-recital, given through the courtesy of the Music Division of the Library of Congress under the provision of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation, will be open to all.

A second lecture by Dr. Arnold A. Blake on "The Music of East and West" will be presented during the week of April 20.

Final Production

The Carolina Playmakers will give their final production of their three new plays tonight in the Playmakers theatre at 8:30. The plays are "Prairie Dust" by Gerd Bernhart, "Soldadera" by Josephine Niggli, and "Election" by Mary Delaney.

Each Subdivision To Have Pamphlet

Husbands Says Bulletins will be More Economical, More Convenient to Use

WILL ISSUE 12 BOOKLETS

Bulletins issued by the individual schools of the University will supplant the general catalogue this year, Ben Husbands, associate registrar of the University, announced recently.

Each of the major subdivisions of the University will publish its own booklet, giving information about the department, its work, its expenses and some general information for newcomers to the University.

Freshmen

Prospective freshmen will be sent the catalogue of the general college, which will contain instructions for registering and entering the University. Advanced and graduate students will get their information from the bulletins or the individual schools in which they intend to study. Directions for freshmen will also be included in the catalogue of the school of pharmacy, which is the only school besides the general college open to first year men.

The bulletin system has several advantages over the old general catalogue which combined information about the entire University in one volume, Husbands explained. Bulletins are more economical and more convenient than large catalogues, he said. The cost of editing and printing several small booklets is considerably less than that of publishing a large volume. Besides this, men wishing information about the University can find it with much less difficulty in a small pamphlet, treating only the subject in which they are interested, than in a general catalogue, the major part of which would be of no use to any person who had an idea of what he wanted to study.

Up-to-Date

The small booklets can be revised quickly and reprinted frequently, thus keeping their information up-to-date, and the cost of mailing is much less for the pamphlets than for the catalogue.

There will be some overlapping, Husbands said, but most of the general information will be included in the catalogue of the lower college, thus obviating

Electrical Engineers To Hold Joint Meeting

Organization to Hear Blair on Television Tuesday Night in Phillips Hall

Henry C. McBrair will give a talk on television at the joint meeting with the student branch from State College of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, which will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in 214 Phillips hall.

This will be the first joint meeting this year to be held at the University, although one has already been held at Raleigh. It is the intention of the club to hold at least one joint meeting a month with the State branch.

There will also be a student speaker from State College, although the subject of his talk has not as yet been announced.

Refreshments will be served at the end of the meeting.
