

Move Begun To Oust President Graham

Freshmen Schedule Speech By Governor Tomorrow

New Men Arrange Ehringhaus' Speech At Assembly Hour

Governor's Address will be Climax of Winter Quarter Programs for First-Year Men

ASSEMBLY TO BE OPEN

Governor John Christoph Blucher Ehringhaus, now on the last lap of his administration, is scheduled to appear tomorrow morning at assembly period to make his first Carolina platform appearance this season.

The climax of all the winter quarter assemblies, the governor's address was arranged by Billy Stronach's freshman assembly committee headed by Old East's John Moore.

Open

Upperclassmen and faculty members are expected to attend the open convocation. The address will not extend past the hour for 11 o'clock classes.

Recent opinion of the class of '39 on the past assembly programs prompted the Executive Committee to begin plans for a series of programs which will feature talks to aid in vocational guidance of the undergraduates.

Chairman of the Committee Moore could not be reached yesterday to give information on the plans made for these special programs that are expected to start next quarter when the class will meet only once each week.

It was learned from C. P. Spruill, head of the general college, that the final assembly program of the quarter will be held on Wednesday of this week. At that time final arrangements and registration plans for the winter quarter will be discussed with the freshmen.

PROFESSOR HERE REVISES VOLUME

Text by Thomas F. Hickerson on Surveying and Planning of Roads Has Second Edition

"Highway Surveying and Planning," a new book by Thomas F. Hickerson, professor of civil engineering here, has just been published. It presents up-to-date surveying operations for the scientific layout of roads, culverts, and bridges, incorporating the best practice of representative state highway departments. The publishers of the book are McGraw-Hill Book company of New York.

This book is a second edition, revised and enlarged, of "Highway Curves and Earthwork," a text, field, and office manual that has been widely used throughout the country.

Wider Field

As the new title indicates, the second edition is broadened in scope and entirely re-written to include many progressive features of planning and design not fully treated in the first edition. Special consideration is given to highway location and design for greater safety and permanence.

The treatment of vertical curves, transition spirals, and

(Continued on last page)

DANCE LEADERS

All junior and senior dance leaders will meet at chapel period tomorrow morning on the steps of South building to have their picture made for the DAILY TAR HEEL.

Due to the rain Thursday, no picture was taken.

TOURING COMPANY TO PERFORM HERE

Federal Theatre Project will Depict Life of Jefferson Davis March 24 at University

The Jefferson Davis touring company of the Federal theatre projects will produce the saga of Jefferson Davis in Memorial hall, March 24.

Led by a young Mississippian, Kay McKay, whose grandmother was an intimate friend of Jefferson Davis, the company is the first Federal dramatic troupe to bring dramas to the smaller communities of the country. Heading the cast of 34 actors is Guy Standing, Jr., son of Sir Guy Standing. Standing is in the title role of the play and is supported by such performers as Mrs. William Courtleigh, Thomas Carnahan, George Duthie, Harry Golsen, Mildred Byron, Earle Mayo and Winnie Davis Crawford.

Based on Research

The play follows five years of painstaking research by a corps of writers and investigators. The facts unearthed by this staff of writers were molded into a play by John McGee, who has already written a book based on the life of the President of the Confederacy.

Endorsed by the national convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy any many civic and social organizations and parent-teacher associations in all parts of the south, the play has been heralded as a vindication of Jefferson Davis.

Such dramatic troupes are being subsidized by the Federal government as a phase of unemployment relief. Professor Koch is head of this district.

BERKEY TO SPEAK BEFORE SIGMA XI HERE THIS WEEK

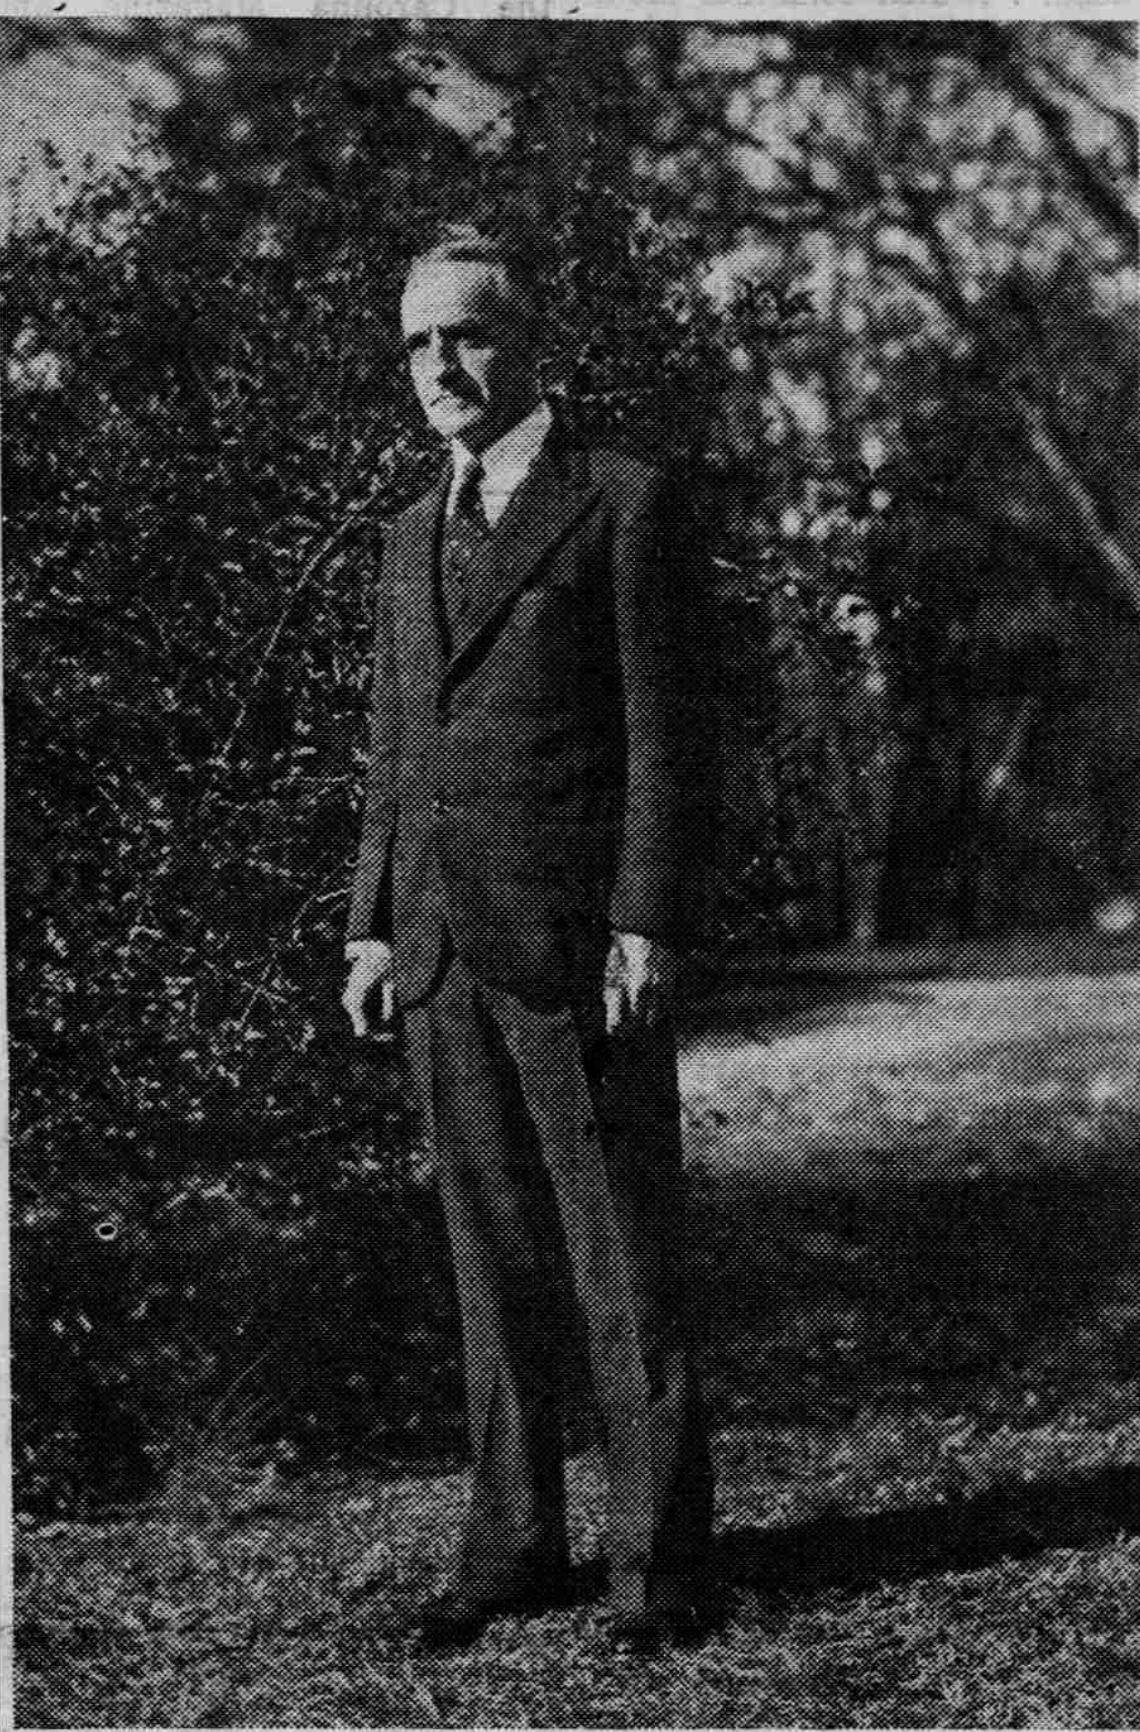

Columbia University Professor of Geology will Address Engineers

Dr. Charles P. Berkey, professor of geology at Columbia University, will be the speaker at the annual Sigma Xi lecture to be presented Friday night in 206 Phillips hall.

The subject of his talk will be "Geologic Elements of Certain Great Engineering Projects." Dr. Berkey will discuss the relation of location and construction of some of the now famous public works, and will illustrate the lecture with lantern slides.

For 25 years, Dr. Berkey has been the leading consulting geologist on most of the important engineering projects in this and foreign countries.

UNDER FIRE

Thor Johnson Will Lead Symphony Concert Today

Alumnus to Perform in Graham Memorial Today; On Entertainment Series Tuesday

Featuring Romino Hamilton, violin soloist, and Ruby Peinert, violin cellist, Thor Johnson, University alumnus, will lead his University of Michigan Little Symphony in a program of salon music in Graham Memorial lounge at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and Tuesday night will conduct a concert in Memorial hall.

No admission fee will be charged to the program this afternoon. Tuesday's recital, sponsored by the Student Entertainment series, will begin at 8:30.

Active Here

Johnson, who was graduated from the University with the class of 1934, had been president of Phi Mu Alpha, musical fraternity. While here, Johnson conducted his own student orchestra. During one summer he made a trip to Europe, playing on a Cunard line boat. Today, he is considered an outstanding violinist and a rising symphony conductor. He is a graduate instructor at the University of Michigan, where he is working for a Ph. D. in music.

Hamilton, noted violin soloist, of the younger generation of musicians in this country, has spent several years in intensive training in music. He has made numerous public appearances as a concert violinist and has won many honors in musical contests in Michigan. His ability was nationally recognized in 1928, when he was selected from all violinists of high school age

(Continued on page two)

Opposing Interests Point To June Trustees' Meeting

Faculty Officials Refuse To Comment On Ouster Threat

President in Florida; Missouri Educator Says Removal Would Result in State's Disrepute

MAN WIDELY RESPECTED

University officials would not be quoted for comment on reports that a movement is under way among trustees to oust Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina since 1930, because of his athletic plan and liberal views.

Acting on the advice of Dr. Leonard Fields, his physician, Dr. Graham and Mrs. Graham have left for an unannounced destination in Florida where Dr. Graham will seek recuperation from a protracted attack of influenza.

To be Gone Fortnight

Dr. Fields said he had advised the University president to remain in Florida for 10 days or two weeks.

"He had gotten rid of his fever when he left, but his reserve strength had been sapped and he needed a good rest," Dr. Fields said. "We felt that he could not get proper relaxation as long as he remained here, for, despite his feeble condition, he insisted on seeing callers every day and doing a great deal of work in his room."

While no one would be quoted, faculty opinion seemed to be that Dr. Graham would be able to outride the storm of criticism that has resulted from alumni opposition to the athletic plan. There were many expressions of regret that an ouster movement had been undertaken, however, it being pointed out that such dissension would undoubtedly work some injury to the University.

Dean Dudley Conley of the University of Missouri Medical School, now on an inspection tour of medical schools in this section, who spent an hour with Dr. Graham this week, was quoted today as saying that "the University of North Carolina will be blacklisted by the leading American education institutions here and abroad if Dr. Graham

(Continued on last page)

SCHOLAR TO TALK ON ENGLISH MUSIC TOMORROW NIGHT

Horace Fellowes will Discuss Elizabethan Madrigals in Hill Hall

A discussion on Elizabethan Madrigals by Dr. Edmund Horace Fellowes will be given tomorrow night at 8:30 in Hill Music hall instead of tonight as previously announced.

Dr. Fellowes, one of the foremost scholars on Elizabethan music who has written numerous studies of the period, will illustrate his talk by accompanying himself on the lute and also with records made by the English Singers and the St. George's Singers under his direction.

The lecture-recital will be given through the courtesy of the music division of the Library of Congress under the supervision of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation.

Unnamed Trustee Says Influential Group Is Organizing Drive

Agitators Have Drawn Up Five Point Program and Begun Contacting Board Members

GRAHAM "TOO LIBERAL"

An organized movement by "certain influential alumni" to unseat Dr. Frank P. Graham as president of the University at the June Board of Trustees' meeting was exposed in yesterday's state papers.

The information came as a sequel to the general alumni executive meeting here February 14 at the Carolina Inn. The session was marked by emotional appeals and threats.

Five-Point Attack

The hostile factions, according to the papers, base their enmity to Dr. Graham on the following alleged grievances:

(1) Netary support of the University from powerful and influential sources has been imperilled by Dr. Graham's offending those interests in his method of discharging the duties of his office.

(2) Friction has developed amid the administrative units of the Greater University with consequent lack of unity in faculty purpose and in cohesion of efforts within the individual units.

(3) Dr. Graham's policies have been an affront to the conservative mind of the state; and criticism to his persistently expressed liberalistic views has become widespread.

(4) Dr. Graham's espousal of the action of moving the engineering school from

(Continued on last page)

STUDENT SURVEY CONTINUES TODAY

Committee will Distribute Honor System Questionnaire in "Y" Lobby Today

Students who have not received copies of the honor system questionnaire may obtain them tomorrow morning in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., it was announced yesterday by Fred Weaver, chairman of the Committee on the Honor System.

Ellen Deppe, Jane Ross, and Julia Folsom, prominent co-eds on the Honor System Committee will direct the distribution of the questionnaires in the "Y" lobby.

Questionnaires are being delivered to dormitories and fraternities by the Interdormitory and —fraternity councils. Most students living out in town have been sent copies through self-help delivery boys. Residents out in town are urged by Chairman Weaver to have their questionnaires filled out by Wednesday; for self-help students will call for them on that day.

Members of the faculty, who are receiving their questionnaires via the inter-office mail, are asked to return them to the self-help office in the Y. M. C. A. immediately.