Student Council Reinstates 19 Suspended Men Fighting Tar Heels Rally

In Final Period To Gain Close Victory Over W&L

Hearings Started On Petitions Of Honor System Violators; Six Are Rejected

FAIRLEY SAYS CO-OP STUDY TO GO ON

Six weeks after the Student Council had passed the sentence of "suspended" upon them, 19 students connected with the recently exposed cheating ring have been reinstated in the University.

Meeting two weeks ago for the first of a series of hearings which will judge applications for readmittance, the student council granted 19 of the 49 suspended the privilege of registering for the spring quarter and denied six any form of reinstatement.

Meets Again Today

The council meets again this morning at 10 o'clock, and it will continue holding hearings until the entire list of applications has been considered.

Declared Student Body President Francis Fairley: "The council is considering seriously every application from those students who were suspended in January. Some have been refused readmission because of the seriousness of their offenses."

Only those students who present formal applications to the council and thereby request readmission will be considered for reinstatement next quarter.

Co-op Study Continues

Fairley also said last night that "the council will continue its study of the Student Co-operative Association in order to ascertain its status in regards to the students."

The investigation, according to the council president who succeeded Jack Pool in February, will begin the last few days of this quarter and will be completed in the spring quarter.

"Students interested in the student co-op," he said, "are submitting a petition to the council, asking us to continue our investigation of the organization."

SURVEY OF NEWS SHOWS EVENTFUL WINTER QUARTER

Dean Bradshaw Calls Closing Session Most "Eventful" in 16 Years

Dean Francis Bradshaw calls the closing winter quarter the most "eventful" in the past sixteen years. With a review of campus-wide events that took place from January 5 to March 7, others might be inclined to use a more forceful adjective than that of the dean.

A survey of DAILY TAR HEEL headlines for the past two months brings forth such memories as:

January 23—President Graham defines athletic policy at press session. Thus began the President's much-discussed, oft-attacked, and oft-upheld campaign for elimination of athletic subsidization.

February 1—Complete story of cheating ring revealed. Expulsion of 51 cheaters is begun.

February 2—Student president suspended on own motion for sentence.

February 9—Southern conference adopts Graham athletic plan.

February 12—Annual celebration, winter dances postponed. Flu and bad weather bringing about cancellation of student-faculty day and Mid-winters.

COMPANY TO GIVE DAVIS PLAY HERE

John McGee's Play "Jefferson Davis" Will Be Presented By Touring Group March 24

"Jefferson Davis," a play by John McGee, will be presented in Memorial hall March 24.

Kay McKay, project director of the Jefferson Davis touring company, is especially desirous of scoring a triumph with the play during its Southern tour.

McKay, who comes from Mississippi, is very anxious to do justice to the memory of Jefferson Davis, since the latter was also a Mississippian. The project director's grandmother was an intimate friend of the entire Davis family.

First Endeavor

Touring the South for the first time with a dramatic group, McKay wishes to make a success of this, his first endeavor in the field of Southern drama, as the head of a theatrical company.

Following his graduation from the University of Mississippi, McKay left the plantation where his family lived, to embark on a stage career. His departure from home was something of a disappointment to his parents, who had hoped that he would become a planter.

In 1921 he arrived at the coast, where he played parts in several silent films. He tried his hand also with theatrical stock companies on the road.

One of the biggest thrills of his career came in 1924 when he took part in the first play ever broadcast over the radio. Creating an unprecedented stir in theatrical circles, Avery Hopwood's "The Alarm Clock" was broadcast from the Hudson Theatre in Schenectady, N. Y.

The latest personality to endorse "Jefferson Davis" is Thomas Dixon, author of "The Clansman."

Carolina Basketeers Successfully Defend Conference Cage Title

Spessard Leads Scoring With 21 Points While Bershak Chalks 15 to Take Second Honors

KAVENY IN THIRD PLACE

By Fletcher W. Ferguson
Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh, March 7.—Staging the most sensational comeback ever seen in a Southern Conference basketball tournament here, the White Phantoms of the University of North Carolina, after trailing by 12 points at the half, ran wild in the second period of the final game tonight to snatch a 50-45 victory from Washington and Lee's Generals and retain their conference title.

With only two minutes of play remaining, the Generals led 45-43. Paul Kaveny dribbled down the court and sank the tying basket. Bershak immediately sent Carolina into the lead for the first time when he took a nice pass from Captain Jim McCachren and sank one under the basket. Nelson then converted a free shot on a foul by Her.

Earl Ruth followed up with a tap shot from beneath for the final score of the game. Bershak then fouled Carson, who missed both gratis tosses as the gun sounded.

Carolina became the only conference team to defeat Washington and Lee this season. The Generals, whose only previous loss had been a 58-56 defeat by William and Mary, were heavy favorites to cop the crown from the defending Phantoms.

A crowd of more than 3,200 fans watched the Generals rack up six points before Carolina could score. Carson opened the scoring after two minutes had elapsed with a shot from under the hoop. Spessard, the General.
