

Students, Faculty Members Fraternize Today

LEADERS IN TODAY'S ACTIVITIES

The four men pictured above will figure prominently in the Student-Faculty Day program. Reading from left to right they are: Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the greater University of North Carolina; Dr. Howard Rondthaler, president of the University Alumni Association and of Salem College; Francis Fairley, president of the student body here; and R. B. House, dean of administration here.

Assembly This Morning In Memorial Hall Opens Program

FULL PLANS FOR STUDENT-FACULTY DAY

Student-Faculty Day activities begin this morning at 10:30 with the convocation in Memorial hall.

Dr. Howard Rondthaler, president of Salem College and also head of the general alumni association, Dr. Frank Graham, and Francis Fairley are the principal speakers on the morning address program.

Every faculty member on the University staff will be taken out to lunch at noon by students.

House's Statement

The University is grateful to the students for inventing Student-Faculty Day and making the idea a success. I believe in Student-Faculty Day, the motives of friendship, good will and good humor that lie back of it, and I have enjoyed thoroughly every meeting leading to preparation for it. I believe, also, that every faculty member of the committee has done so.

I hope that the whole University community will join in making this the sort of day that will become a tradition in the life of this University and grow better and better through the years.

(Signed)
Dean R. B. House,
Dean of Administration.

Fairley's Statement

I urge every member of the student body to enter into the Student-Faculty Day program with the proper spirit. It is to my mind one of the most important and beneficial events of the school year.

The Student-Faculty Day last year was a great success and I feel sure that this day and those in the future will continue to play a part of growing importance in the University life.

(Signed)
Francis Fairley,
President Student Body.

Snyder's Statement

I appreciate the wonderful co-operation and the fine spirit which has been prevalent among the student body, faculty, and merchants in preparing for Student-Faculty Day.

I hope that whatever success the day enjoys will contribute toward its establishment as an annual tradition.

It was a great pleasure to work with the various organizations and individuals who were instrumental in planning for the day.

(Signed)
J. E. Snyder,
Chairman Student-Faculty Day Committee.

Red Cross Donations

An effort is being made by the American Red Cross in Chapel Hill to raise funds to help those suffering from the recent tornadoes which have swept the South. Contributions will be received by R. M. Grumman.

At 2 o'clock today every student, faculty member, and every member of the University building department will join in celebrating the Student-Faculty Day afternoon jamboree.

If two bombs go off immediately after the ringing of the bell in Old South, all of the festivities will be conducted in the Tin Can; if fair weather prevails, no bombs will go off, and the gigantic celebration will proceed in the open as originally planned.

Promptly at 2 o'clock in the lower quadrangle the booths with all the games of fortune, duck ringing, bingo, etc. will open.

Eggs

At 3 for a dime, eggs are to be distributed "for throwing purposes only." First target on schedule is Editor Phil Hammer; others include Francis Fairley, Jake Snyder, Frank Willingham, John Parker, Joe Barnett, Niles Bond, George Mc-

CAFES WILL MAKE NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR LUNCH GUEST

Several Establishments Will Not Charge Students Who Are Regular Patrons

The easiest path to a professor's heart is by way of the stomach.

That is the moral of last year's predecessor of today's celebration, and smoothness and satisfaction will make the luncheon hour today the official moment of the 1936 Student-Faculty Day.

According to an announcement by Julien Warren yesterday, the dormitory residents need not fear any extra expense in taking a professor to lunch today if he should be a regular patron of either Chandler's Cafeteria, University Cafe, Harry's Grill, Carolina Coffee Shop, or Graham Memorial Grill. In co-operating with today's event these establishments will make no charge for the extra luncheon meal.

Some 375 faculty members and administrative people have received invitations to take part in this mid-day meal as a major part in forming the Student-Faculty better relationship.

Chairman Jake Snyder stated yesterday that Spencer hall and the sororities have the "pick of the crop." Such officials as President Graham, Pete Ivey, E. J. Woodhouse, and J. P. Harland will be ill at ease when they enter the dining hall at Spencer hall today.

Convocation Will Start Today's Festivities

ALUMNI PRESIDENT IS CHIEF SPEAKER

Graham, Snyder, Fairley Will Also Address Assembly, Describing Purposes of Day

TO GIVE OUT PROGRAMS

With the sounding of reveille in dormitory sectors this morning, the second annual Student-Faculty Day gets its start for the ensuing hours of carnival spirit and fellowship.

At 10:30 Dr. Jan Philip Schinhan will take his place at the Memorial hall organ, play "Hark the Sound," and, with Committee Chairman Jake Snyder presiding, pave a musical way for the Student-Faculty Day convocation.

Rondthaler

Recently re-elected president of the General Alumni association, Dr. Howard Rondthaler, president of Salem College, will present the main address of the morning.

Rondthaler will be preceded on the program by Student Body President Francis Fairley, who will describe the purpose of the holiday, and University President Frank Porter Graham.

As a special feature of the convocation program, 16-page programs describing highlights of the day, exhibits, and other information about the event will be distributed.

The program which will officially start the annual University holiday will be concluded by another organ rendition by Dr. Schinhan.

Chemistry Exhibits

Two of the chemistry department's exhibits, because of the expense involved, will be presented only twice today. Glass-blowing will start in 206 Venable hall at 9 o'clock this morning. At 9:45 there will be a demonstration of liquid air in 307 Venable. After the convocation, at about 11:30, both demonstrations will again be given. They will last 45 minutes each.

DONATIONS SWELL JAMBOREE FUNDS

Many Persons, Organizations Contribute to Fund for Afternoon Program

Several persons and organizations have contributed to the Student-Faculty Day funds, and it has been largely through the help of these contributions, declares the holiday committee, that the present program has been effected.

Philip Morris, Co., Ltd., is furnishing free cigarettes for the afternoon jamboree. Wrigley's chewing gum will be distributed among the afternoon crowd, also.

The programs for Stunt Night tonight were presented by the Carolina Inn.
