

THE ONLY COLLEGE DAILY IN THE SOUTH

The Daily Tar Heel

A JOURNAL OF
THE ACTIVITIES
OF CAROLINIANS

"TO CREATE
A CAMPUS
PERSONALITY"

VOLUME XLIV

EDITORIAL PHONE 4151

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1936

BUSINESS PHONE 4156

NUMBER 141

TRAINING COURSE WILL FIT STUDENT HEADS FOR OFFICE

Newly Elected Leaders Will Study Parliamentary Procedure in Training School

WILL MEET EVERY DAY

Following the election of the student leaders next week, tentative plans have been completed to conduct a series of officers' training courses, according to an announcement made by President of the Student Body Francis Fairley last night.

These special training courses will be held for all new officers at chapel period each day, beginning on April 20 and continuing through April 24. During these periods leaders of all campus activities who wish to take advantage of the courses will meet on the fourth floor of New East building.

Sponsors

The sponsors of this project have planned a study of parliamentary procedure from the standpoint of the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Unlike the past institutions of this type, the officers' training course will not make attendance compulsory.

The Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., Phi Assembly, Di Senate, Student Council, and the rising sophomore class have all joined together in sponsoring the course and these organizations have secured professors and present student leaders to participate in conducting model meetings.

RECENT DRAMATIC FESTIVAL AWARDS GIVEN SATURDAY

Thirteenth Annual Dramatic Festival Winners Get Prizes

The thirteenth annual North Carolina Dramatic Festival which began in the Playmakers' theatre April 1 with the production of Joe Abrams' "Swastika" by the Charlotte Little Theatre closed April 4 with the presentation of awards by Dr. Frank P. Graham.

The following playwrights received awards for original plays: Cordelia Day Jones, Sadie Mae Deal, Bernice Kelly Harris, Frances Hargis, Howard D. Richardson, Helen George, Alfred Sutro, Ruth Giorloff, Ada Carver, and Mrs. William Cudington, Jr.

Rocky Mount High School won the high school play production contest with "The Bridal Chamber" by Sadie Mae Deal. Reidsville won the play production contest for the Little Theatres with "Hero Worship" by Frances Hargis.

The Playmaker award for the best original play of the entire festival went to the Northampton County Players for their production of "Three Foolish Virgins" by Bernice Kelly Harris.

Mars Hill College received the award for the best presentation of an original play by a junior college for the production of Howard D. Richardson's "Hop Hats and Tenements." Lenoir-Rhyne College's presentation of Helen George's "Shifting Sands" won the award for the best original play by a senior college.

Paw Creek won the contest for the best play by a county high school with the "Man on

(Continued on last page)

Applications

All students now holding scholarships who want them renewed for 1936-37 and applicants for new scholarship awards should file their applications with Dean R. B. House, chairman University scholarship committee, at once.

Application forms may be secured from Dean House's office or the self-help office. A scholastic average of not less than "C" is a prerequisite for holding a University scholarship.

Also, applications for University self-help work and for student federal aid (though it is not known at this time that such aid will be available in 1936-37) should be filed in the self-help office, by present holders of such work and by new applicants, not later than May first. Application forms are available in the self-help office.

FTP TROUPE SENT TO RALEIGH BASE

"Jefferson Davis" Players Will Establish First Resident
Touring Company in City

Ten members of the "Jefferson Davis" touring company which has been retained in Chapel Hill during the past three weeks have been sent to Raleigh where they will establish the first resident touring company of the Federal Theatre Project.

This is the first step toward a de-centralization of the Broadway theatre and making available to other sections of the country the professional theatre talent of New York. The plan was conceived by Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, national director of the F. T. P., and the Raleigh company is her first attempt toward its realization.

Rehearsal Space

Mrs. Flanagan and John McGee, her assistant, came to Chapel Hill to see the final performance of "Jefferson Davis" and to confer with Professor Koch on the practicability of establishing the touring company at Chapel Hill to work in co-operation with the Playmakers.

Ten members of the troupe were retained in Chapel Hill. The other members of the company returned to New York. Due to the limited housing facilities and rehearsal space here it has become necessary that the troupe be moved to Raleigh.

ASU TO CIRCULATE PEACE PETITIONS

Local Student Union to Co-operate in Peace Campaign

The local branch of the American Student Union, in co-operation with the students of many other colleges, has begun a campaign to circulate petitions in the interest of World Peace.

The movement for college students' signatures was started at Columbia by Roger E. Chase, editor of the Spectator, and has been sent to many other college editors of the country to be signed before the April 22 peace activities.

The DAILY TAR HEEL has received a letter from Mrs. Mildred W. Barnes, New York director of the committee. The A. S. U. was given the petitions to distribute because of their interest in this subject.

HEAD MAY FESTIVAL

Pictured above are the attractive co-eds chosen to reign over the University's first May Day. Miss Hester Barlow of Cairo, Egypt, will be crowned Queen of the May and Miss Mary Pride Cruikshank of Raleigh, will be Maid of Honor.

Orchestra Concert Draws Record Crowd

Benjamin Swalin Conducts University Symphony, Tuesday

The largest crowd to attend a local orchestra concert this season heard the University Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Benjamin Swalin, give a program Tuesday night of classical and romantic music.

The 35 members of the group were assisted by eight women from Woman's College at Greensboro and three soloists were featured in the program.

Grail Gives Dance In Tin Can Tonight

Honorary Organization to Sponsor First of Spring Dances

The Order of the Grail has announced that all plans have been completed for that organization's first dance of the spring quarter, to be given tonight in the Tin Can. Freshmen will be admitted to this Easter weekend affair.

Freddy Johnson and his orchestra will furnish the music and there will be an admission charge of one dollar.

Portion Of Hanes Collection Now On Display In Library

Well-Known Collection of Written Records Contains Manuscripts Dating from 1200

With the main purpose of studying the origin and development of the book, the Hanes family started a collection of written records from the earliest to modern times. A fraction of this collection will now be on permanent display in the four new show cases in the main hall of the library.

In the first show case near the commerce reading room, are some of the earliest written records kept by man. Early writings in clay, on pottery, and on palm leaves are shown; all being originals except the Rosetta stone and the Codex Troano. Of particular note in this group are "The Egyptian Book of the Dead," Indian writings on palm leaves, and an inscribed clay cone. The latter is one of the earliest written records in possession.

Manuscripts

The second case contains a display of hand-written manuscripts of the twelfth to fifteenth centuries. The oldest parchment manuscript in the library, written in Latin, and a good example of Medieval board binding probably of the twelfth century are included in this group. Important papal seals are also displayed here.

Examples of printing in the fifteenth century are shown in the third case and all are originals except the replica of a book printed by William Caxton, earliest English printer. Some of Caxton's woodcuts and types were used for one of the originals on display. Two thousand illustrations make the Nuremberg Chronicle one of the most profusely illustrated books of the time.

The oldest printed book in the library, a Latin Bible of the fifteenth century, is of special interest in this case.

The fourth display cabinet is devoted to outstanding modern books chosen to represent the era.

The Hanes family is from Winston-Salem and they started the collection in 1929.

Student Council

Reannouncing the campus election day as next Thursday with the polls open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the Student Council held its second meeting of the week last night.

Candidates for the rising sophomore class officers will give their campaign speeches in chapel Monday morning according to present plans, Student Body President Francis Fairley stated last night.

One student was suspended and another acquitted for violation of the honor system at the meeting.

Another call was sent out for constitutions and charters of campus organizations.

'Y' CABINETS HEAR TRABUE ADDRESS

Education Expert Shows Need
For Tests of Ability at Vocational Program Session

"There has been a long-felt need for some means of pointing out to the student what vocation he is best fitted for," said Dr. M. R. Trabue Monday night at the second session of the "Y" cabinets' vocational program.

Explaining that the usual aptitude test has advantages in showing what general fields the student is interested in, Dr. Trabue stated that this type of test is primarily a judge of academic standing. "We need scales to measure the other types of standing in order to judge what work a person is really fitted for."

What It Takes

"Although there are certain general characteristics which are required for almost any position, we have never had any definite scientific definition of just what it takes to fill a certain type of job."

Dr. Trabue has been working for the last three years on ways and means to test the abilities, not the mere interests, of people in various fields. With the newer vocational test methods he thinks that schools should be able to pick the kind of persons best suited for a type of work and, if they wish, teach them in the profession for which they are better fitted.

LOCAL CAFE CASE TO BE CONTINUED

Absconding Proprietors Will Be Tried April 21, Not Tuesday

The Allgood-Saunders-Jones case, where the three proprietors of the Tar Heel Cafe closed their doors last February 19 and skipped town, leaving behind them bad checks and unredeemed meal tickets, will be tried before Judge L. J. Phipps in Chapel Hill recorder's court April 21 instead of Tuesday, April 14.

Judge Phipps said yesterday that the case had been continued on the request of both Roy W. McGinnis, prosecuting attorney, and Henry A. Whitfield, the defending lawyer.

Allgood and Saunders are being held under $500 bond each. Jones is under $250 bond. Since their arrest, the three have been making an attempt to reimburse holders of bad checks and meal tickets, with the expectation that their sentence would then be lighter. It is estimated that about 600 dollars is involved in the case.

PU BOARD REVISES OLD CONSTITUTION FOR CAMPUS VOTE

Board Proposes Changes Which
Bring Bylaws into Accordance with Actual Practice

CHANGES TO BE PRINTED

The Publications Union Board labored intensely throughout a special two-hour session yesterday afternoon, drawing up a proposed revision of the Publications Union Constitution.

The board went through the entire present document, attempting to bring the Constitution precisely in line with the customs now practiced in the exercising of publication activity.

Proposal

The proposed revision will be presented to the Student Council, which will be asked to submit it for the union's approval on April 16. In order that the student body may be well informed as to the new proposal, the organ will be published by the board, in an issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL preceding election day.

Plans have been long considered for a revision of the Constitution, but until this time no actual action has been taken and activity has followed the trend of existing custom.

All the members of the board were present: Charles Ivey, president; Fletcher W. Ferguson, secretary; Ned McAllister, treasurer; Dr. A. C. Howell, and M. S. Heath, faculty members.

SCIENTIFIC GROUP TO MEET AT DUKE FOR CONVENTION

North Carolina Science Academy
To Hold Annual Meeting

Members of the science department of the University are looking forward to the 35th annual meeting of the North Carolina Academy of Science, which will be held at Duke University, April 24 and 25.

The central location at Duke promises a large attendance. Papers will be read the afternoon of April 24, and the morning of April 25. A complimentary dinner will be tendered all members present, following which the president's address and reception will take place.

University men from all scientific departments will attend, and a number of papers, not yet announced, will be given by faculty members of the physics, chemistry, and biological departments.

W. L. Porter of Davidson is this year's president; F. W. Sherwood of State College, vice-president; H. L. Blomquist of Duke, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee contains two Carolina men: E. T. Browne and H. R. Totten. W. E. Spears of Wake Forest is the third member.

Worthwhile papers are expected, especially since a $100 prize for the best paper is being offered by Phipps and Byrd, manufacturers of scientific instruments in Richmond, Va.

BULLA LOSES AWARD

The name of Thomas Fletcher Bulla was drawn for the Cash Award at the Carolina Theatre last night. Bulla, who is a sophomore at the University, was not registered for the award, which now amounts to 80 dollars.