ABOUT ONE-THIRD REPLY

A decisive majority of the alumni of the University of North Carolina who answered questionnaires sent them in February have gone on record as being opposed to the removal of the engineering school from Chapel Hill, to the disbarment of a scholastically qualified student from participation in athletics "because he has received and openly disclosed reasonable financial assistance from alumni or friends of the University," and to the abolition of "the present Athletic Council and transferring sole authority over athletics to the president of the consolidated University."

The answers also recorded a decisive vote in favor of "aggressive action by the officers and directors of the Alumni Association on behalf of the University at Chapel Hill."

One Third

Approximately one third of the 13,000 alumni to whom ballots were sent returned them.

The tabulated results of the questionnaire, which were tallied by staff members of the central alumni office here, were announced last night by Dr. Howard Rondthaler, president of the General Alumni Association, at a meeting of the officers and board of directors of the General Alumni Association at whose direction the ballots were sent to all alumni in this state, and to all paid-up members of the V., first as an arranger, then as staff conductor as well and finally became general musical director for the company.

Recorded

When Noble completed an arrangement for a record, he would assemble the best musicians available, rehearse them and conduct them. His men were drawn from the leading orchestras in London and "Ray Noble's New Mayfair Dance Orchestra" had its identity only on phonograph records.

Confidence Man Leaves Book 'X' Sadder But Wiser

Poses as Bureau of Standards Man to Conduct Racket; Beats Boarding House Bill

When one Gene H. Carnes, posing as an agent of the Federal Bureau of Standards in Washington, departed from this supposedly worldly-wise college town last week, he left one boarding house mistress, Mrs. S. B. Smithey, and the manager of the University Book Exchange "sadder but wiser."

Nor was this all. Representing himself as a graduate student in the Department of Physics, he cashed a worthless check at the Book Exchange, ordered books on credit at the Bull's Head Book Shop, faked a registration to gain admission and concessions, and when he skipped town, owing for a week's board and room, he took with him almost everything he could find loose about the house.

During a week's sojourn here, according to the police who have a warrant for his arrest, Carnes posed as a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a former professor from the University of Nebraska, and a World War veteran.

Now the Bull's Head Book Shop is waiting to deliver the books; the Book Exchange and
