

Playmakers To Present Co-ed Dramas On Tonight's Program

Bill Starts Three-Day Series of Plays By Students

PART OF "TOURNAMENT"

Sorority life, disillusionment, and Carolina fisher-folk will be the themes of the three plays by Carolina co-eds to be given at the Playmakers theatre tonight at 9 o'clock.

The bill for tonight's program, which marks the beginning of the "Spring Play Tournament," will open with Patsy McMullan's "Raise a Tune, Sister," a story depicting the life of the Carolina fisher-folk. Other plays to be presented tonight are "Awakening," a play of disillusionment by Eleanor Barker, and "An Orchid to You," a comedy of sorority life by Jean Walker.

The Casts
"Raise a Tune, Sister," will be given under the direction of Jessie C. Langdale, and played by Janie Britt, Thomas O'Flaherty, William Barwick, Jean Walker, and Kenneth Bartlett.

Eleanor Barker directed "Awakening," in which Edwin Elliott, Juanita Greene, H. R. Ritchie, and Sammie Ruth Bell will act.

"An Orchid to You," which is under the direction of Fowler Spencer, will include in its cast Hester Barlow, Patty Penn, Josephine Oettinger, Ellen Deppe, Lammy Alderman, and Edwin Elliott.

Tonight's program will pre-
(Continued on last page)

MAGAZINE EDITOR CALLS FOR STAFF

Daniels Will See Interested Students This Afternoon, 4-6

Everyone interested in contributing to the Carolina Magazine under its new editor is invited to call by the Magazine office this afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Editor Jim Daniels will bring out one issue this spring. Work must be started at once in order to publish it before the examination rush begins.

Philosophers To Meet At Duke University

Kattsoff, Emery and Bradshaw To Attend Session Saturday

The North Carolina Philosophical Association will hold its annual meet at Duke University Saturday.

The meeting will be divided into a morning and afternoon session. The morning session will be devoted to the relation between philosophy and psychology and Professor Stern, a visiting professor at Duke, will conduct this discussion.

The afternoon session will be devoted to the philosophy of state and Professor W. E. Hocking of Harvard University will lead this discussion.

Dr. L. O. Kattsoff, of the department of philosophy at the University will attend both sessions and Drs. Emery and Bradshaw will attend Saturday.
(Continued on last page)

HOBBS DECLARES FRICTION ABSENT IN COACH CHOICE

Chairman Spikes Rumor of Conflict Between Administration and Council

GRAHAM HAS NO DEMANDS

"Reported conflict between the Athletic Council's committee and the Administration in the selection of a football coach is erroneous, in that such an appointment is made by conference between the two parties, and either is at liberty to seek all the information which may be available," Dean A. W. Hobbs, chairman of the University Faculty Committee on Athletics and of the Athletic Council, said in a statement last night.

"The statement that the Athletic Council is for one man and
(Continued on last page)

LOST?

The Y. M. C. A. Will Take Care of You and Yours

Are you lost, strayed, or stolen? Then betake yourself up to the Y. M. C. A. lost and found department and there you can find anything from marbles to neckties—yourself, maybe.

Miss Helen Hodges bemoans the fact that nobody makes use of this service of the "Y" and asks that anything lying around loose on the campus be put in her hands where it will be kept until the owner calls for it.

What Would You Do For Your University With $20,000,000?

E. C. Smith, Carolina Theatre Manager, Sponsors Essay Contest for Students

How would you spend 20 million dollars on this University?

Students will be given a chance to answer this question in a contest being sponsored by E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina Theatre. The contest is in conjunction with the show "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," starring Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur, to be shown May 4 and 5.

Prizes will be given to the four students who write the best es-
(Continued on last page)

Ericson Asks Class Questions on War

Program Designed to Fit In With Anti-War Strike

In keeping with the anti-war strike yesterday Dr. E. E. Ericson of the English department had a unique program for his English 23 class.

Dr. Ericson gave his students ten questions on war to answer, and the class responded with great interest.

Among the questions given by Dr. Ericson to his class were: "State three reasons for regarding war as a 'great human institution?' Distinguish between just and unjust wars. Classify the wars in which the United States had participated on this basis. Set down three rules that will make war more of a 'gentlemen's game?' What did Samuel Johnson mean when he declared that 'patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel?' Why cannot we have a popular referendum on entering any war?"

Seniors

The Cap and Gown Committee of the senior class requests that those seniors who expect to be graduated this June go to the Book Exchange next Monday to be measured for their caps and gowns by a representative of the company furnishing them.

It is imperative that this matter be taken care of immediately, and the co-operation of the seniors is necessary, says Raymond Barron, chairman of the committee.

Local Chess Players Will Tackle Expert

Albert J. Barden of State Association Challenges 12 at Time

Chapel Hill's chess club, fresh from a recent victory over the Roanoke, Va., club, will undertake a novel match in the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night.

Albert J. Barden, secretary of the North Carolina Chess Association, from Raleigh, will take on up to 12 members of the local club in simultaneous games.

The visitor, who has already defeated eight members of the Wake Forest College team in simultaneous games, will move from one board to another in the game here, keeping in his mind the system of play on each board.

Barden's undertaking has been successfully performed by past world masters of chess. One player once won 30 games in an evening's contest.

Frankfurter To Discuss Supreme Court Decisions In Weil Lecture Tonight

Town Girls

Co-eds living out in town will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial, according to Margaret Jordan, new Woman's Association president.

NAVY HEAD GIVES FORMER STUDENT BRAVERY CITATION

Student Jumps From Ship to Save Drowning Seaman

By BOB PERKINS

Graham "Grump" Johnson, former student of the University and now radio operator on the U. S. S. Richmond, recently received a citation for bravery from the Secretary of the Navy.

On the night of January 26 the U. S. S. Richmond's motorboat fell from the davits into the water while being hoisted onto the ship. The bow of the boat was opened by the impact and it began to sink. The crew of three men was thrown into the water.

The tide was running out fast, the night was dark, and the water cold. The boat coxswain was having difficulty in remaining afloat due to a heavy peacoat he was wearing. He cried for help.

Johnson voluntarily dived from the rail of the weather
(Continued on last page)

Law Dean Will Trace Commerce Clause Influence

IS FIRST OF SERIES

Felix Frankfurter, dean of Harvard law school, will make his opening address on the Weil lecture series tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall.

The subject for three lectures, which will continue tomorrow and Saturday evenings at the same time, will be "The First Hundred Years of the Supreme Court and the Commerce Clause."

Felix Frankfurter was born in Vienna of Jewish parents and first came to this country at the age of 12. Ten years later he was leading his class in spite of the keen competition of the Harvard law school.

Assisted Stimson

Through his work as assistant to Henry L. Stimson when the latter was a United States district attorney, Mr. Frankfurter recruited young lawyers for the office. In this work he became well known and soon found himself in a position where he was supplying most of the leading New York and Chicago law offices and also government offices in Washington with able young men from the graduating classes of Harvard law school.

In this connection, General
(Continued on last page)

Parenthetical Witticisms Mark Goerch's Expression Of Views

Editor of State Predicts McDonald Will Lead in Primary; Applauds Graham

Making direct statements of his own views on the gubernatorial campaign, the Graham-alumni situation, and general political trends, interspersed with parenthetical witticisms, Carl Goerch, editor of the State magazine, talked informally to the Phi Assembly Tuesday night.

"McDonald will be high man in the primary. You can bet on it, and if you lose, I will pay the bet," he asserted, basing his opinion on the poll which he is running in his publication. He said that McDonald was probably farther ahead than his tabulations show since ballots did not reach the country merchant and school teacher.

Goerch had just returned from broadcasting the meeting of 4,500 tobacco farmers in Raleigh before he came to Chapel Hill, and judging from the opposition of the farmers toward
(Continued on last page)

DEY TO CHATTANOOGA

Dr. W. M. Dey, head of the department of romance languages, will leave tomorrow night for Chattanooga, Tenn., to represent the University of North Carolina, and also the Association of American Universities, at the semi-centennial celebration of the University of Chattanooga, on Saturday, April 25.

Wiley Edits Book

A new edition of Andre Maurois' "Climats," edited by Dr. W. L. Wiley, associate professor of French, and R. W. Linker, instructor in French, was released from the press April 12.

A few years ago this novel was translated into the English under the title "Atmosphere of Love" and proved successful.

This new edition, printed by Henry Holt and Co., is complete with notes, vocabulary, and a critical introduction by the editors.

'Please' ---

---With Persuasion

N. Y. A. self-help students will today begin a patrol of the most-walked-on sections of grass and remind passers-by to use gravel walks, as a result of a student movement to keep the campus beautiful.

The plan was recommended by the Interdormitory Council as a drastic step to stop existing unsightly cross-paths.

Immediate approval of the Student Council was given the proposal, and the University self-help committee, acting yesterday, voted to provide the patrol for an indefinite period.

Gussie Guesses:

We know a boy who would not go to the anti-war demonstration yesterday because he didn't have a trench coat.

The Weather: Cloudy; continued cold.

Peace Speaker Condemns Capitalistic Imperialism

Slocum Judges Music At Woman's College

Annual State Music Contest Now in Progress in Greensboro

Professor Earl A. Slocum of the music department is serving as a judge of instrumental work at the annual state music contest now being held at the Woman's College of the University in Greensboro.

The contest will close Friday night at 7:30 with a festival concert in Aycock auditorium. A massed chorus of 500 voices under the direction of Dr. J. F. Williamson of Westminster Choir School.

Other groups appearing on the festive program will be selected by the judges, and announcements of the awards will be made at the close of the concert.

Professor Slocum also served as a judge for the State Festival Contest which was held last Saturday in Charlotte.

Barnum and Bailey

New Dorm Athletes Provide Three-Ring Circus

"Watch me pitch a ringer, Cyrus!" The shoe sailed through the air, struck the packed earth with its side, and bounced six feet from the iron spike.

Battle-Vance and Pettigrew dormitories were conducting a horseshoe tournament Monday. All afternoon the boys walked from spike to spike; it was a contest between individual players with the managers of New Dorms offering a cash prize to the winner.

Whitten Says Competition of Great Britain and Germany Cause of World War

Dick Whitten, president of Commonwealth College, a labor school in Arkansas, condemned capitalistic imperialism as the prime cause of war when he addressed 700 students and townspeople at yesterday's anti-war demonstration.

At the core of the World War, Whitten said, was the imperialistic competition of Great Britain and Germany. He affirmed that the present administration of the United States was preparing for war and was accelerating the tendencies that would drag this country into conflict.
(Continued on last page)

Toler Killed

A. Dupree Toler, barber employed at the Carolina barber shop, was fatally injured shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning on the Durham-Chapel Hill highway when the car he was driving side-swiped a truck and turned over twice.

Gertrude Kemper, of W. Va., was critically hurt, suffering loss of one eye and probable skull fracture.

Toler was the son of the Reverend and Mrs. Duffy Toler, of near Washington, N. C.

R. E. COKER ON TRIP

Dr. R. E. Coker of the zoology department is leaving tonight to attend the annual meeting of the Division of Biology and Agriculture of the National Research Council. Dr. Coker is vice-president of the division.

He will return to Chapel Hill next Monday.