

Frankfurter Shows Development Of Commerce Clause In Speech

Harvard Professor Closes Weil Series

Lecturer Says Law Doctrines Must Be Disentangled from "Loose Thinking"

"For the first time in its history the Supreme Court during Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite's period had to respond to the impact of the modern current of social legislation," Felix Frankfurter said here last night in the third Weil lecture series. "Waite's period is the beginning of the epoch when 'due process' serves as one of the most fertile sources of constitutional law-making," he said. "His justiceship brought to fruition Mr. Justice John Marshall's theory of the restrictions upon state authority imminent in the commerce clause."

Constitutional Power

Speaking on the general subject of constitutional power, Mr. Frankfurter said views of political theory, political morals, constitutional policy, and doctrines as to "that convenient refuge for loose thinking which is vaguely called the 'spirit' of the constitution, must be disentangled from doctrines of constitutional law.

"As one looks back over our history and the field of political discussions in the past he seems to see the whole region strewn with the wreck of the constitution.

"The trouble has been, and is now, that men have imputed to our fundamental law their own too narrow construction of it, their own theory of its purposes and its spirit, and have sought thus, when the question was one of more power, to restrict its great liberty."

NEW TREASURERS TO HEAR AUDITOR

R. H. Sherrill to Address Next Year's Officers Tomorrow

R. H. Sherrill, professor of accounting, and auditor of the student activities fund, will speak to the new treasurers of the various campus organizations tomorrow night at 7:30 in the lounge of Graham Memorial.

He will outline the procedure now being used in the student activities fund, and will later take up separately with each treasurer the budget for his organization.

Presidents of clubs are urged to attend the meeting to become familiar with the methods used by their treasurers.

If necessary, another meeting on the same subject will be addressed by professor Sherrill at the same time Tuesday night. If this is decided upon, the men will be informed tomorrow night.

Gussie Guesses:

The fraternity that gave that early morning breakfast after one of the May Frolics should have called it a "yawn party."

The Weather— Cloudy; warmer tonight and tomorrow.

Attorney-General

United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who will make a special address in Memorial hall Tuesday morning at 11:30.

PLAYERS TO GIVE VARIED PROGRAM

Troupe from Brookwood Labor College to Devote Program to Workers This Afternoon

What one group of workers thought was an effective way to stop war will be shown this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial when the Brookwood Players present their Labor Chautauqua.

Items on the program will include "Virtue Rewarded, or Company Union Gets the Gate," a farce poking fun at the company union; a play telling of the need for a labor party; novelty numbers, and labor songs.

Varied Industries

The players consist of men and women workers from varied industries in every part of the country who are students at Brookwood Labor College.

Chemical Group To Hold Session Here Next April

R. M. Grumman Announces Date For the 1937 Meeting of American Chemical Society

The American Chemical Society will hold its 1937 meeting here next April, bringing between 1500 and 2000 chemists to the campus.

R. M. Grumman, director of the University extension division, recently returned from Kansas City, where the convention was in session, and announced that the convention will be held here on April 12-15.

Graham Invites Group

The invitation to hold the 1937 convention here was first extended to the society two years ago through President Frank Graham and was endorsed by the North Carolina section of the society.

Mr. Grumman attended the Kansas City convention as a representative of the local committee on arrangements and was able to obtain many suggestions that will be used in planning for next year's meeting here.

The host of chemists that will be drawn to the University next April will be given quarters in University dormitories.

FEDERAL OFFICIAL WILL SPEAK HERE

U. S. Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings Will Talk Here In Memorial Hall Tuesday

United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who will make a special address here Tuesday morning in Memorial hall, will be the principal speaker at the 24th annual convention of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service which opens at Trinity Methodist church in Durham at 11 o'clock this morning.

Students from colleges throughout the state are expected to attend today's conference program, which is being given particularly for the student division. Following the 11 o'clock service there will be special student division meetings at 2:30 p. m. in the church.

McDermott

At 8 o'clock tonight Dr. Malcolm McDermott of the Duke law school will deliver an address on the general conference theme, "The Administration of Criminal Justice."

Cummings will deliver the principal address of the conference at the general session in the church, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. He will speak on "Progress Toward a Modern Administration of Chiminal Justice in the United States."

Further reports of functional committees will be heard at a general session Tuesday morning at 9:30, and the conference will adjourn after a luncheon meeting at the Washington Duke hotel at which Dr. F. Lovell Bixby, assistant director of the Bureau of Prisons in Washington, will be the principal speaker.

E. C. Smith Essay Deadline Tuesday

Essays being written explaining "How to Spend $20,000,000 on This University" in the contest being sponsored by the Carolina theatre are due Tuesday.

The contest is in conjunction with Gary Cooper's picture "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," which will be shown May 4 and 5.

In the show Gary Cooper inherits $20,000,000. In his effort to spend the money he "goes to town."

The essays will be received by Mr. Smith at the theatre or in the DAILY TAR HEEL office.

Author Of Mexican Drama Began Writing In Convent

Josephine Niggli Wrote First Prizewinning Story in Mad Dash of Speed

Josephine Niggli, graduate student and author of the four plays presented on the Playmakers' Mexican bill last night, once wrote a prize winning short story in 20 minutes.

While in school at a convent she wrote her first play, which she showed to her sister nuns.

The nuns were so impressed by the play that they urged her to enter a short story contest sponsored by the Ladies Home Journal. She refused, stating that she was not prepared to write a prize-winning story.

The good sisters insisted and Josephine still refused. Finally they locked her in her room and told her that she would not be

MAY FROLICS END IN FORMAL DANCE

Numerous Requests Force McCoy to Repeat "Sugar Blues" And "Tear It Down"

The seventh annual set of May Frolics dances came to a close last night in a packed Tin Can with the last formal dance of the weekend.

Clyde McCoy and his trumpet provided entertainment for the large crowd. McCoy was forced to repeat his famous "Sugar Blues" and "Tear It Down" several times in response to numerous requests.

Figure

The figure was presented last night at the final dance with Henry Valk and Miss Harriett Valk of Winston-Salem as the leaders.

Others in the figure were Jack Garrett, first assistant, with Miss Eloise Hendrix of Greensboro; Bill Moore, second assistant, with Miss Marion Fugitt of Atlanta, Ga.; Charles Edwards, president of May Frolics, with Miss Geraldine Bonkemeyer of Greensboro; Frank Wilingham, vice-president, with Miss Lucy James of Greenville; Buddy Upchurch, secretary-treasurer, with Miss Louise Brown Michaels of Greensboro; and Henry Clark, assistant secretary-treasurer, with Miss Frances Garrett of Danville, Va.

The house presidents of the seven fraternities sponsoring the dances also participated in the figure with their dates.

Yesterday's program also included a gay luncheon dance at the Washington Duke hotel in Durham and an afternoon tea dance in the Tin Can.

The Tin Can was colorfully decorated with green and white festoons for the dances.

Methodist Forum To Hear Memphis Group

A delegation bringing reports from the Memphis world conference for young people will have charge of the program of the Methodist student forum tonight at 7 o'clock.

The conference, which was held during Christmas holidays in Memphis, Tenn., was the largest assembly of young people ever brought together in this country.

The program will include a variety of musical numbers and talks on the work of the conference. (Continued on last page)

Dissenting Report Favors Student-Faculty Control

Playwright

Josephine Niggli, graduate student in playwriting, whose four plays were presented last night on the Mexican bill by the Playmakers.

BOOK 'X' BEGINS INVITATIONS SALE

Commencement Booklets Will Be Available Beginning With Tomorrow

Commencement invitations will be on sale every day beginning tomorrow in the lobby of book exchange during chapel period and from 2 to 5 o'clock.

The covers of the new invitations may be secured either in leather or white cardboard. The leather covers may be got in either dark blue or white.

Cost of Invitations

The invitations with cardboard covers are a nickel cheaper than those of last year, being priced at 25 cents. The blue leather covers are 45 cents, and the white leather are 55 cents.

The new cover has an engraving of the library together with a seal of the university.

A prominent position is held by the engraved invitation page.

There are four-page cuts of President Graham, Dean Bradshaw, and Dean House. There are also cuts of Davie poplar, Memorial hall, and the Old Well.

Campus Organizations

One page gives the commencement program for this year. Other sections are devoted to campus organizations, all of which are represented, such as the Student Council, Graham Memorial club, all honorary fraternities Golden Fleece and Grail.

The names and addresses of all candidates for degrees are given an outstanding place in the book.

Two new features have been added this year: the representation of Alpha Kappa Gamma, the new honorary women's society; and the monogram men, who are named, together with the sports in which they won their letters.

These invitations will be sold through May 15 and will be ready for delivery May 25.

PHARMACY SENIORS

The seniors of the pharmacy school elected the following officers for the coming year: Howard S. Fox, president; James Arthur Way, Jr., vice-president; and Edward V. Stephenson, secretary-treasurer.

Minority Points Out Values Of Placing Faculty On Council

Written by Jane Ross, Report Favors Council with Five Proffs, 10 Students

TEXT ON BACK PAGE

A proposal for the joint administration of the honor system by faculty and students was set forth in the minority report of the honor committee, which was released yesterday by the Student Council for publication.

The dissenting members of the committee agree that there should be a substructure of class councils to work under the Student Council, but differ from the majority in advocating faculty membership on the Student Council and the class councils.

Minority Report

The minority report, written by Woman's Association President Jane Ross, proposes a Student Council composed of five faculty members (each with a vote) and ten students.

The four class councils would also have active faculty representation.

Faculty Values

The value of faculty aid in administering the honor system, the committee said, is: "the advantages of superior training and wide experience as educators; more mature and impartial judgment making for greater justice in decisions; interest, responsibility, and co-operation on the part of individual faculty members in maintaining a group standard in which they are an integral part; and finally the unalienable right of the faculty as a group of the community for representation."

Members of the minority group, advocating inclusion of faculty in the administration of the honor system, are Harriet Taylor, Jane Ross, Charles Poe, Nell Booker, and Edmund Taylor.

NEW LITERATURE MAJOR PREPARED

Courses in Comparative Literature to Be Offered in Fall

Comparative literature, a new subject in which students may major, is being prepared by the department of general and comparative literature, and will be open next fall quarter for the first time.

The minimum number of courses required for majoring in this subject is six, thus leaving much flexibility to the student's general course. The courses offered are all given in English and are designed to present the leading figures of world literature, those who have had most influence on the art and culture of modern civilization.

The courses to be offered in the fall quarter are as follows: 61 Greek Literature, (Professor Bernard); 68 Shakespeare (Professor Koch); 115 Ovid (Professor Howe); 125 Milton (Professor Taylor); 155 Goethe (Professor Zucker); 175 The Renaissance (Professors Holmes, Adams, Lyons, Linker, and Friederich).

All students interested should see Dr. H. R. Huse, in 304 Murphy hall.