

McRae Will Present Platform For Gubernatorial Candidacy

Independent Candidate Favors Immediate Cut In Taxes

SPEAKS IN HILL AT 8:30

John A. McRae, candidate for the state governorship, speaks tonight at 8:30 in Hill hall.

McRae is the third gubernatorial candidate to present his major platform planks on the campus this spring under the sponsorship of the Carolina Political Union. Dr. Ralph McDonald and "Sandy" Graham have appeared previously.

The Charlotte lawyer comes here from High Point, where he delivered an address last night. For the past six weeks he has been campaigning extensively.

Independent

McRae calls himself an independent candidate. One of his chief proposals is economy in government.

He is known to favor immediate abolition of sales tax on necessities. If other means of revenue be discovered, he would entirely abolish the existing sales tax.

Local-option liquor control is another major plank of his platform. He would allow each of the state's 100 counties to choose or refuse alcohol in an independent vote.

McRae was graduated from the University's law school in 1903. At present his son is a sophomore here.

Floyd Fletcher is chairman of the Carolina Political Union which brings Candidate McRae here tonight, and will introduce the speaker.

Watercolor Course Split Into Sections

Stanley Woodward Will Teach Three Division of Art Class

The three-weeks course in watercolor painting being given by Stanley Woodward, Boston artist, has been divided into three sections, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Corinne McNeir of the extension department.

Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning classes will be held from 9 to 12, and afternoon classes from 2:30 to 5:30. Another morning section is being given on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 9 to 12 in order to take care of students having class conflicts.

LYSISTRATA REHEARSALS

First rehearsals for "Lysistrata" will be held this afternoon from 2:30 to 6 in the Forest theatre. In case of uncertain weather there will be a notice published on the Playmakers theater bulletin.

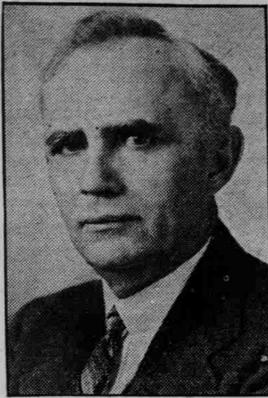

Gussie Guesses:

Seems like Proff Koch and his cohorts are getting ready to put on another forest theater production. Just when we thought the Playmakers were coming out of the woods!

Increasing cloudiness, probably showers tonight.

Speaks Tonight

John Albert McRae, Sr., Charlotte's Democratic candidate for the governorship, will appear in Hill hall tonight at 8:30 to outline the major planks of his platform.

WRITER BELIEVES NOVEL IS POTENT

Struthers Burt, Well Known Author Says Novel Indefinable; Praised by Paul Green

"No one has yet been able to define a novel properly," was the opinion of Struthers Burt, well known writer and author of "Delectable Mountains" and speaker for the weekly tea given yesterday at the Bull's Head bookshop.

Mr. Burt was introduced to a large audience by Paul Green, who commended him on his constancy to his ideal of beauty in spite of his various activities as essayist, novelist, poet, farmer, and crusader for the beautification of our state highways.

Novel's History
Struthers Burt based his remarks on "The Making of the Novel" and traced its history from its beginning in Greece in 200 B. C., through the middle period and down to our present day novel.

"The novel is one of the most potent forms of writing," continued Mr. Burt, "and is one of the vaguest. There is so much difficulty encountered in getting at the real technique. A novel is so easy to write if it is bad and so hard to write if it is good."

Tea was served in the bookshop preceding the regular program and an open discussion followed Mr. Burt's talk.

Seniors Rehearse Class Melodrama In Deep Secrecy

Stunt Night One Act Play Is Practiced Behind Closed Doors; Beacham Heroine

By PETE IVEY

Secret practice for the senior class mellow-drama was held last night behind closed doors in Graham Memorial.

"Bunk" is the name of the play which was secured by arrangements with Samuel French and Co. of New York. It is a one-act play and is a part of the stunt night program to be given next Wednesday night in Memorial hall.

Hazel Beacham, in the part of Lady Agatha Allrope, is the heroine of the play, and playing

CUMMINGS TALKS ON CRIME EVILS AND PREVENTION

Attorney General Emphasizes Need for Efficient Personnel In Crime Prevention

CITES PROBLEMS OF U. S.

By ALLEN MERRILL

"The most important thing in any undertaking is personnel," stated Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General of the United States, in his address yesterday morning to a crowd which filled Memorial hall.

"I have sought to develop," he continued, "in the federal department of justice a personnel of better trained, more intelligent, and better educated men. Crime has become one of the most vital of modern problems, and we've got to bring about a co-ordinated and integrated system for its control."

Interstate Crime

Crime has seen in the last few decades, according to Cummings, a crisis in its evolution. "The interstate character of crime," he said, "has been the most marked development of the crime problem."

Modern methods of transportation and communication, enable criminals to evade the jurisdiction of local authority; it has thus been necessary for the national government to develop into a "nerve center" for the local units. "The federal government," he asserted, "has not only been able to achieve re-

Barber Shop Ballad Singer Boasts Kaleidoscopic Career

Sigmund Spaeth—Sports Writer, Ditch Digger, Army Officer, Columnist, Professor

By BOB PERKINS

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, billed as America's most entertaining educator and educational entertainer, who will give a lecture-recital in Memorial hall tomorrow night, has been a sports writer, ditch digger, U. S. Army officer, columnist, concert manager, author, and professor of German under Woodrow Wilson at Princeton.

With a magnifying glass, and well trained ears, Spaeth traces down the family trees of current song hits, and finds the sources of their melodies in classical symphonies, drinking tunes, church hymns, opera, etc. In his offices he has a dozen secretaries who track down the clues he finds through huge files of old music.

Versatile

Spaeth, well known as a critic and lecturer, is versatile both in music and literature. His latest book, "Symphony Tunes," an experiment to make symphonic music popular, is the 15th he has

CAFE SETTLEMENT

Attorneys Henry A. Whitfield and Roy W. McGinnis are anxious to complete disbursements to the students who had purchased meal tickets from the defunct Tar Heel Cafe.

Those students who filed their claims with Dean Francis F. Bradshaw or Roy W. McGinnis are requested to see Whitfield or McGinnis for a final disposition regarding their claims.

MUSIC STUDENTS OFFERED AWARDS

Eight Scholarships Open to Music Students Next Year

Eight scholarships valued at $54 each will be available for students entering the music department of the University in September, it was announced yesterday.

The scholarships, two in violin, and one each in cello, piano, voice, organ, flute, and clarinet, are available to high school graduates residing in North Carolina and will be granted on the basis of the musical ability, scholastic standing, and financial need of the applicant.

Two of the scholarships, one in cello and one in violin, are offered by the Alpha Rho chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia fraternity.

BULLETIN

Business managers for all campus publications were chosen in a lengthy session of the Publications Union Board last night.

Those chosen are: Yackety Yack, Ned McAllister; DAILY TAR HEEL, Eli Joyner; Carolina Magazine, Herbert Osterheld; Buccaneer, Niles Bond.

McAllister, Osterheld, and Bond have served in the same capacities this year. Bond's appointment pends his acceptance of it; he applied for the DAILY TAR HEEL position, which was given to Joyner.

Fleece To Select Outstanding Men In New Ceremony

Tapping Rites for Highest Order Next Tuesday Clouded in Mystery

Departing from the traditional ceremony of publicly selecting the campus' outstanding student leaders, the Order of the Golden Fleece, highest campus honorary society, will conduct its 33rd annual tapping rites next Tuesday night in a new and mysterious manner.

There will be no speaker for the evening, no stilted program. At 8:30, the doors of Memorial hall will be locked and the lights put out. In an hour, the ceremony will have been completed in startling fashion and another group of prominent students will have been chosen to Fleece membership as a public acknowledgment.

DR. ARNOLD BAKE TO SPEAK FRIDAY

Master of Science of Music Will Give Lecture Recital on Music Of East and West

Dr. Arnold Bake of Santiniketan, Bengal, will give a free lecture-recital on the music of the East and West in Hill Music hall, Friday evening at 8:30, through the courtesy of the Elizabeth Sprague Collidge Foundation.

Known as a master of the science of music and possessor of a rich baritone voice, Dr. Bake will give an introductory talk on the music of the East and the West followed by a recital of songs of India and Western parallels.

Lived In India

Dr. Bake has lived for nine years in India and has a keen understanding of the songs and music of the country. He has visited the closed country of Nepal, north of India, and has made a study of the unusual music, religious dances, and the folkways of the region. While there he made many moving pictures, slides, and phonograph records which he will use to illustrate his lectures.

"My songs were obtained under the oddest conditions imaginable. I spent four months at Katmandu, the capital of Nepal, gathering the Buddhist religious chants. I have gone among the Santals of Bengal, and the Urall tribes of Travancore, sat in the homes of orthodox Brahmins and have heard from the lips of modest Brahmin ladies the Radha-Krishna songs," says Dr. Bake.
