Fischer Takes Title

Football took a temporary back seat yesterday afternoon as young Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati defeated Scotland's Jock McLean one up for the National Amateur Golf championship in a match that went 37 holes.

Down by one with two to go, Fischer came through with three straight birdies to cop the title. The 35th was halved to keep McLean's lead, but a beautiful eight foot putt on the rolling 36th sent the battle to an extra hole.

Down the split fairway on the Garden City, L. I. number one hole, both boys drove over the 200-yard mark with Fischer about 40 yards nearer the green. The latter then dropped his ball on the edge of the green about 25 feet from the pin, while McLean's approach shot rolled across the green and into a waist high trap.

The All-Important

The Scotman's explosion shot from the trap stopped about six feet from the pin. A dead silence fell upon the large gallery as Fischer lined up his ball for the shot. He had set his feet firmly, but then stepped back to relax as the clicking shutters of cameramen unnerved him.

A few seconds later he again took his stance. His chance to gain the coveted title hinging on his ability to sink a most difficult putt on the tricky green. He putted. The gallery held its breath as the little white ball ran its course straight to the hole and in! The young Cincinnati lad had won, thereby wiping out the defeat handed him in 1934 by this same opponent and taking the crown which experts had predicted would go to Johnny Goodman.

Giants Hold Lead

In the race for National League honors, the Giants and the Cards both scored victories yesterday afternoon to keep the New Yorkers' lead at five full games. From all appearances, the Giants are in and metropolitan fans assured of a "nickel" series.

Only nine games remain for the Giants and eight for the St. Louis club. Manager Terry will probably call on his star left-hander, Carl Hubbell, to see action in today's encounter with Brooklyn in the hopes of adding another check in the win column and keep Dizzy Dean from having to work against the Yanks.

Wolfpack by 13-0

Over at Raleigh, N. C. State swung into action and scored a 12-0 triumph over Elon's small but scrappy club. As with the Blue Devils in last night's encounter against Davidson, Hunk Anderson's crew wasn't expected to put on any elaborate display of offense.

While the Wolfpack and Duke While the Wolfpack and Duke squads were tasting their first bit of actual competition, Coach Wolf's Tar Heels went through a regular practice game here in Kenan stadium. The regulars,

N. C. STATE TAKES ELON TEAM 12-0 IN INITIAL GAME

Eddy Berlinski Proves Worth As Scoring Threat

Special to the DAILY TAR HEEL. Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19—Eddy Berlinski made good his threat to really bust into the ranks of North Carolina State's football greats here today by contributing both touchdowns against Elon College as State turned in its first victory of the season with the none too decisive score of 12-0.

Coach Hunk Anderson was not sparing in sending in his numerous reserves and the greater number of the players saw action State confined their tactics to rush plays and threatened several times but were unable to put over more than two markers.

Elon made their only bid in the last quarter when they threatened the State goal line but were finally repulsed.

State's Wolfpack will take their first plunge into real competition when they run up against Davidson's Wildcats next week.

ETTORE CERTAIN LOUIS WILL FAIL

Confident Has Formula For Downing Bomber

Umberto "Al" Ettore, the big, hairy Italian pugilist who is to meet Joe Louis Tuesday night is amazing fight fans by completely failing to show the least fear of the Brown Bomber even after watching Jack Sharkey crumple up before the determined Negro.

Ettore is confident that he has a certain formula for depositing the colored one in a recumbent position on the canvas and has repeatedly assured his backers that it can't fail.

Though the Italian doesn't rate in the same class with the Bomber, the style shown in his repeated defeats of LeRoy Haynes and his complete disdain for Joe promise to make the battle fast and furious.

Since Ettore has been in the capable hands of Lew Tendler he has been coming along fast and the match between the vicious Italian and the admittedly relentless chocolate-colored Louis promises to be a natural.

ATHLETIC STAFF TO GET OFFICES

Headquarters Prepared for Carolina Magazine, Athletic Staff In Graham Memorial

New athletic offices have been installed in the south wing of Graham Memorial. They occupy the room previously used by the University club and the Carolina Magazine.

According to statements given out by the athletic association, the new offices answer a long felt need both for more office space and for a central headquarters for the coaching staff.

Although no definite meeting place has yet been chosen for the University club, Pete Ivey,

TAR HEEL SQUAD SHOWS STRENGTH IN SECRET DRILL

Blue and White Teams Display Peak Form In Practice

The doctory but misunderstanding student who was fence guard at yesterday's secret football practice session in Kenan stadium was not quite diligent enough to keep from print the fact that the Tar Heel backs are able to pull off 75-yd. runs not once but twice a game.

In a regular full time game between the Blue and White squads, several plays were run off that will probably be used against the Demon Deacons Saturday in Charlotte.

Burnette

The Blue team with a backfield composed of Burnette, Dunham, Kraynick and Brickmeyer tore off good gains against the first string line during the first period, climaxing their exhibition when Bunny Burnette returned a punt from his own 25-yd. line and crossed the zone stripe standing up.

Then with a series of pass

DAVIDSON FALLS PREY TO DUKE'S ONSLAUGHT 13-0

Running Plays Feature Blue Devil's Win In Opener

Special to the DAILY TAR HEEL. Greensboro, Sept. 19—Duke's Blue Devils won an unimpressive victory over a determined Wildcat eleven in Memorial stadium here tonight, 13-0.

Fearful of being scouted prior to their meeting with Colgate next week, Duke used mainly power plays and kept Wallace Wade's book of aerial tricks rather securely closed.

Smith Scores

The Blue Devils showed power in the line as they opened holes for Harvard Smith, reserve Devil fullback, to gallop over the 'Cat's goal line twice, once in the first quarter and once in the third.

Only one conversion was successful.

Davidson was on an even man power with their opponents but their backs failed to reel off the long runs against the Duke defense.

Coach Wade seemed satisfied with the performance of his proteges and looks forward to their real test next week against Canny Andy Kerr's invading Red Raiders from upstate New York.

Much pomp and celebration marked the opening of the season with displays by both stands as the rival bands cavorted under the arc lights.

Send the DAILY TAR HEEL home and keep your family and friends informed of happenings on the campus.
