NEW MEN RECEIVE 2000 INVITATIONS TO GREEK LODGES

Fraternity Rush Period Opens Today With Full Program

Over 2000 invitations to new students were issued by the University's 25 social fraternities last night.

Invitations to new men which were undelivered between 7 and 11 p. m. have been returned to the fraternities issuing them, who will distribute them individually this morning.

Hours

Today's rushing, which opens the 11-day period, lasts from 2 to 6 p. m., and 7 to 11 p. m.

In view of the large number of visits that individuals will have to make today, Henry Clark, president of the Interfraternity council, yesterday suggested, "That visitors remain only a short time at each fraternity, making future dates for visits if they are asked and so desire."

"Only two dates may be made with any one fraternity today," Clark said, "and any dates made before today must be disregarded. After today, the number of dates that can be made is not restricted."

INSTITUTE PLANS TRAINING COURSE

Officials of the Institute of Government and law-enforcing officials of the state met yesterday in Graham Memorial to lay plans for a training course in law enforcement.

Albert Coates, law professor and director of the institute, presided at the morning meeting which was concluded by a buffet luncheon.

Work

In explaining the work of the institute, which has its headquarters in Peabody building here, Mr. Coates recently declared:

"We have in North Carolina 100 counties and 400 towns, all of them doing similar things, each in its own way."

"To the Institute of Government . . . private citizens, public officials, and the youth of North Carolina may come to see demonstrated in one place the governmental methods and practices they would now have to go hundreds of places to find."

Ralph McDonald Thinks Students Have Above Average Intelligence

By KITTY DECARLO

"I'm afraid I cannot agree with the northern college professor who stated that the college student carries his intelligence in the ball of his feet, and makes use of it on the football field and the ballroom floor."

By the tone of his voice Ralph McDonald, former state gubernatorial candidate and present law student at the University, indicated his scorn for superficial analysis of the college student.

Student Idealism

Dr. McDonald thinks that the college student is an idealist who is morally and mentally superior to the average person. According to him, the student of today has a great deal of self-respect and social feeling. He can be given plenty of freedom because of his idealism. Concerning the liquor problem, on which he admits he has somewhat narrow views, Dr. McDonald would rather trust the student than the average person.

Tar Heels Crack Vol Line For Two Early Tallies As Tennessee Rally Fails

Classes January 1

Classes for the winter quarter will begin after the Christmas holidays January 1, according to a statement yesterday by T. J. Wilson, registrar.

"This happens only once in about every 10 years, he explained. "It is just an unfortunate occurrence." As usual the session opens on Friday, which is January 1 next year. To postpone the opening a week would cut the winter quarter, which is the shortest quarter of the year, too short, according to the registrar.

Police Officer Says No Ordinance Exists To Bar Hitch-Hiking

"There is no city ordinance in Chapel Hill against hitch-hikers," declared Police Officer Wright yesterday. Durham has recently started a drive against hitch-hikers, and Raleigh has a city ordinance against such practice, even though it is openly disregarded. Several arrests were made in Durham during the past week.

"We do not mind if 'thumbers' stand on the curb, but when they get out in the street they are a public nuisance, and we cite them into court, where it costs them something to get out," continued Officer Wright.

Editorial Assistants

There will be a meeting of all editorial assistants in Graham Memorial tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. If conflicting classes make attendance impossible please call the office before the meeting time.

Avery Recovers Fumble Races 53 Yards For Score

Hutchins Scores

By R. R. Howe

The fluctuating stock of North Carolina's 1936 football team took a decisive rise yesterday in Kenan stadium when the entire student body and several thousand fans saw their Wolf-coached team set back a highly vaunted Tennessee eleven 14-6.

Faced with the double task of beating a strong team and downing a high undownable Neyland jinx, the Tar Heels worked hard for their first touchdown and had the second presented on a silver platter borne by the ever watchful Pete Avery before having to watch the Vols execute a couple of passes with a nicety that gave them their first and only touchdown.

First Blood

The Tar Heels settled down to the serious task of running over the first touchdown as Hutchins broke through and blocked Sneed's kick with Buck recovering the ball on Tennessee's 32. Bunny Burnette picked up seven yards and Marse Jim Hutchins picked up four more through the center for a first down. Tennessee was penalized and the ball came to rest on the 16 yard line.

Zimmermann Makes Observations On Coeducation At University

Professor Advocates Admission of Local Girls; Discusses Complete Coeducation

By VOIT GILMORE

In the opinion of Dr. Erich W. Zimmermann, a discussion of "the general question of merits and demerits of coeducation, though logically holding first claim, may be postponed until the practical possibilities of changes in local education policy have been explored."

Replying to an inquiry from the DAILY TAR HEEL as to his views on local coeducation, the economics professor yesterday prefaced his statements with the explanation, "I am largely confining myself to a few general observations which I hope may help to steer the discussion along productive channels."

Common Justice

His only comment on a specific case was in regard to admission of daughters of Chapel Hill faculty members, which he advocated as "an act of common justice."

"Certainly so long as the University continues unable to pay salaries in full—and the concept of partial restoration implies that inability—there should be no hesitancy to extend to members of the University faculties reasonable benefits in kind as a partial compensation for remuneration," his statement read.
