Celebration Monday Will Mark Day Of University's Founding

Half-Holiday Declared In Observance Of Anniversary

Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, University of Richmond professor of history, will commemorate the 143rd anniversary of the University's founding in an address here Monday morning, October 12, at Memorial hall at 10:45.

"What is a State University?" will be answered by Dr. Mitchell as "It is a State thinking."

Half-Holiday

Dean of Administration R. B. House announced that class day routine would proceed as usual until 10:30 a. m., when classes would be discontinued to observe the holiday.

According to custom, the academic procession will form at South building at 10:30 and proceed to Memorial hall where invocation will initiate the traditional services, which will consist of the benediction, the singing of the University hymn written by Cornelia Phillips Spencer, a memorial service to the University dead, and the singing of the alma mater.

President and Mrs. Graham, Dean and Mrs. House will receive the faculty and townspeople in honor of any new faculty members and those returning from leave.

University Debate Squad To Convene

Team will Discuss Meet Here With British Group

The University debate squad will meet tonight at 7:30 to discuss the question selected for the Carolina-British Union debate to be held here November 9.

The Carolina team, which will be chosen in the near future, will speak on the negative side of the question, "That this house believes that the present Republican-Democrat system is too much like Tweedle Dum vs. Tweedle Dee to serve the purpose of a real party system." The two characters in the question come from "Alice in Wonderland."

OVER 3000 READ DAILY TAR HEEL

Copies Of Paper Sent To 31 States

This story, announcing that the DAILY TAR HEEL has the largest circulation in its history this year, will be read by 3,400 individuals, according to a statement made yesterday by Jesse Lewis, circulation manager.

While it serves the students and residents as the only daily printed in town, the DAILY TAR HEEL goes out to 31 states and the District of Columbia, the majority of those subscribers out of state being Carolina alumni.

New Policies

Several new policies have adopted this year in the business department, according to Eli Joyner, business manager. A copy of the freshman issue was sent to all the parents of the freshman class with a subscription blank enclosed and a copy of the same issue was sent to all members of the University faculty.

The 16-page issue of September 18, also containing a subscription blank, was sent to all 1936 graduates.

ASU Plans To Hold Open Forum Debate On Coming Election

Yudell, Kirschner, Wall Appointed to Manage Discussion

Continuing the stream of political controversy which has been started by the Carolina Political union, the American Student union will hold an open forum on the November election within the next two weeks.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the A. S. U. last night. Each political party will be represented by a student who will debate with his opponents on the question, and an open forum discussion will follow. The committee appointed to manage the forum is Milton Yudell, Manny Kirschner, and Lib Wall.

Reports were heard from members circulating petitions advocating the admission of local girls into the University, and further districts of town were assigned students to cover.

STUDENT SERIES STARTS TONIGHT WITH DANCERS

Kurt Jooss To Present Ballerinas At 8:30 In Memorial Hall

The first entertainment event of full dimensions to be given on the campus this fall will take place tonight at 8:30 when the student entertainment series presents the "widely renowned and much discussed Jooss European Ballet."

Heralded by the New York Times as a milestone in the history of theatrical dancing, the Jooss company will open its third American season in Chapel Hill tonight. Of the four ballets they will give tonight the "Green Table" will be the feature attraction. "Ballade," "A Ball in Old Vienna," and "The Big City" are the other three numbers.

According to the University administration a few general admission tickets will be sold for the performance tonight just before the curtain rises if there are any vacant seats. The number of passbooks equals the seating capacity of Memorial hall.

DEAN ADDRESSES FIRST YEAR MEN

Spruill's Theme Is Value Of Education

"The schooling of a technician is less important than the education of a man," said Dean C. P. Spruill in freshman assembly yesterday morning.

"While universities will tend to die out unless they serve the purpose of training a person to earn a living," he stated, neither vocational training nor education is the whole of life.

"The essentials here are expansion, deepening, strengthening, and discipline; but whatever your purpose in coming here, these essentials must be translated into action for that purpose," he stated.

Mr. Spruill expressed the hope that each student would get the feeling of "coming home to Chapel Hill" and would seek the great rewards to be gained from meditation surrounded by the beauty that is here.

"A Ball In Old Vienna"

This scene is taken from one of the four ballets to be given tonight in Memorial hall by the Jooss European Ballet at 8:30. Noelle de Mosa is the prima ballerina of the troupe.

French Exam

A coaching class for the French reading knowledge exam will be organized if there is sufficient demand. Any one interested will please get in touch with Dr. R. W. Linker, 315 Murphey, between 10:30 and 11 o'clock this morning, or between 11 o'clock and 12 o'clock tomorrow morning in order to arrange a schedule.

Landon Supporters Will Have Meeting

Carolina Political Union to Sponsor Rally Today

"Landon for President" will be the slogan at a meeting beginning at 4:30 this afternoon in 213 Graham Memorial.

A special invitation has been extended to the faculty and townspeople interested in Governor Landon's election, as well as to all students, according to Frank McGlenn.

A similar pep meeting for Roosevelt enthusiasts is being planned for next week by the political union.

Kendrick Mistaken As English Spy While Traveling In Italy

Carolina Student Tells of Experiences Upon Return from European Study

To be mistaken as an English spy was the experience of John Kendrick, of Greensboro, who has returned to the University this quarter following a year's study in Europe.

Traveling in Italy during the recess between semesters, Kendrick and another American were mistaken as English spies, "for the feeling toward England was very intense," John stated. Surrounded by a whole group of excited children, the two only managed to get away when a person who could, explained that they were Americans.

Studied

Kendrick attended the University of Berlin for one semester and spent another at Koenigsburg, in East Prussia. "I was supposedly studying," John smiled, "for I thought it best to keep my eyes and ears open in order to assimilate the customs and ideas of the people of the country."

KNOX RECEPTION PLANNED BY CPU

McGlenn Desires Escort For Candidate

All people interested in taking part in the program planned for Colonel Frank Knox, vice-presidential candidate, are urged by Frank McGlenn, president of the Carolina Political union, to attend a meeting from 4 to 4:30 in 213 Graham Memorial this afternoon.

In order to make the arrangements successful many people will be needed to act as ushers, drivers, and helpers.

Escort

Col. Knox will be met at the train October 13 by a motor escort. He will then be driven to Memorial hall where he will deliver a campaign speech at 9:30 a. m.

Senators Robert Reynolds and Josiah Bailey have expressed a willingness to address the students on October 17 and 24 respectively. Because Carolina meets N. Y. U. and Tulane on these dates, McGlenn states that the speeches will be made at a different time.

Administration Retracts January 1 Class Ruling

Ballet Passbooks

Students who have not received their entertainment passbooks may get them today by calling at the table in front of the cashier's window in South building. Pass books will be distributed from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

NEW HEAD NAMED FOR HUMOR MAG BUSINESS STAFF

Board Names Blackwell To Succeed Bond This Month

Crist Blackwell was chosen by the Publications Union Board yesterday to succeed Niles Bond as business manager of the Buccaneer.

Blackwell, who was chosen over two other applicants, has been on the business staff of the DAILY TAR HEEL for two years, and also served last year in the Carolina Magazine's business department.

He will assume his position this month, following publication of the first Buccaneer. Bond's resignation was tendered last week because of activities which prevent his full attention to the Buccaneer.

Other business of the Publication board included approval of a six-page edition of the DAILY TAR HEEL next Sunday and for a special cover for the first Carolina Magazine, due out this month.

Phi Assembly Bill

The bill for next week's Phi assembly meeting is, "Resolved: That new dormitories for both men and women are needed on this campus more than a gymnasium and swimming pool." All members are requested to be prepared to speak on this subject next Tuesday night.

PERRY OUTLINES FIRE WEEK PLANS

Local Fire Department Will Participate

P. R. Perry, chief of the Chapel Hill fire department, announced yesterday his whole-hearted cooperation with the campaign sponsored by President Roosevelt in connection with Fire Prevention week.

"During the past year," according to Mr. Perry, "there have been a number of outstanding fire losses.

"In cooperation with the President's proclamation," Mr. Perry said, "we of the fire department have issued the following articles in the hope that they will be beneficial to Chapel Hill: "Article 1: We institute a close inspection of our hotels, apartment houses, fraternity houses, school buildings, and a very strict inspection of basements and furnace rooms.

"Article 2. We urge the residents of Chapel Hill to be particularly careful in eliminating the more common causes of fires.

Winter Quarter To Open Three Days Later On Monday

Registrar Moves

Resulting from a conference held yesterday afternoon, Registrar T. J. Wilson and Dean of Administration R. B. House issued a statement that the winter quarter would open Monday, January 4, retracting a previous announcement that classes would begin New Year's day.

Registration

"After an examination of the dates which have been used for the past 10 years," the statement read, "we have agreed upon the following plan: registration of all students now in the University, Thursday, December 10, until 1 o'clock Saturday, December 19; registration of new students and final completion of all registration Saturday, January 2; classes start Monday, January 4, at 8:30 a. m."

Protection

The decision to begin classes on January 1 was made mainly to protect the work to be done in the winter quarter, according to the statement. "It was fully realized," it continued, "that these dates were somewhat earlier than has been the custom.

"It now appears that a mistake was made and that beginning classes on Friday, January 1, is not wise."

The statement called attention to the fact that the editor of the catalogue, T. J. Wilson, was not entirely responsible for fixing the dates.

The beginning of the spring quarter immediately after the close of the winter quarter next March was fixed by the University faculty after conferences with all student organizations concerned; and the plan will be followed in order to provide in April for the accommodation of some 2000 people who will attend the meeting here of the American Chemical society.

CAST ANNOUNCED FOR PRODUCTION

Newcomer To Get Role In "Drunkard"

After starting tryouts with 150 persons, and narrowing that number to 40, the Playmakers have now reached a workable number in the cast of "The Drunkard."

The final tryouts, held in the Playmaker theater last night, disclosed that many newcomers to the University have succeeded in being among those awarded parts in the show, two of them having been retained for the leading role of "The Drunkard."

The cast, it was announced, is not necessarily permanent, since it may be found that certain persons are better fitted for other parts than those they already have.

Among those cast are: Robert Nachtmann, Samuel Hirsch, Robert du Four, Bill Hoyle, Marion Hartshorn, Nancy Shallert, Madeline Haynesworth, Christine Maynard, Eloise Banning, Mary Haynesworth, Douglas Doak, Marguerite Lipscomb, Eleanor Patrick, Harold Liskin, Julius Hilfman, Elias Friedland, Manuel Korn, S. F. Engs, Eric Laddy, Wilber Leach, Howard Richardson, Bill Michaux, Douglas Langston, and Martin Shuck.
