Former Socialist John Spargo Analyzes Personal Reactions To Deeds Of Roosevelt Regime

Republican Tells How He Bolted Leftists Back In 1917

A meager audience heard a soft-spoken but sincere argument for the Republican party last night in Memorial hall at the address of John Spargo.

Quite long and detailed, Spargo's message was an analysis of his own psychological and economic reactions to the present New Deal.

"No decent American would deny ample and generous relief to all in need, but no decent American can face the scandalous waste, political manipulation, cynical undermining of both administrators and recipients of relief, without sickening shame," asserted the G. O. P. spokesman.

No Other Reason

"Were there no other reason than the desire to register my condemnation of this degradation of Christian compassion, I should vote for Governor Landon in preference to Mr. Roosevelt," he continued.

The 60-year-old speaker mentioned briefly the reasons for his change from Socialist to Republican ranks in 1917.

His speech last night showed a liberal interpretation of Republican policies. "... The policy of the Roosevelt administration, in its major features, represents a serious drift to reactionary and oppressive political and social ideals," he said.

Cautioning his listeners to choose Landon for safety's sake, he concluded, "... No more reactionary doctrine has ever been preached in this nation from the beginning."

PLANS PROGRESS FOR OPEN FORUM

McGlinn, Rabb, Others To Make Talks

"By securing Frank McGlinn to speak for the 'Smith Walk-Out Democrats,' the student open forum is practically assured a success," prognosticated Harry Ganderson yesterday, member of the Phi committee assisting the A.S.U. in planning for the political controversy.

The forum will be held next Tuesday night in Graham Memorial and all arguers are urged to attend. The speakers are not yet fully decided upon, but Stuart Rabb has agreed to uphold the New Deal platform. An effort is being made to secure an officer of the Young Republican club to combat Rabb.

Other Sides

A student Socialist and Communist will be selected soon. If there is a Lemke proponent on the campus, the Phi and the A.S.U. will be glad to have him speak, according to Milton Yudell, chairman of the two committees.

Prominent professors, interested in political parties and debating, will be invited to attend the meeting and add a few arguments to the general heckling after the debate.

Buccaneer Out

The Buccaneer, campus comic magazine, will bring out its first issue today. Students may expect delivery tonight.

Mathematician

Dr. Archibald Henderson of the department of mathematics who will address the Faculty Philosophy of Science club tomorrow night.

CPU STRAW VOTE TO GIVE CAMPUS ELECTION CHOICE

Polls Open In 'Y' Today; One Of Six Schools To Make Test

In cooperation with the Daily Princetonian and the Associated Press, which has requested six colleges to combine in taking a straw vote concerning the coming presidential election, the Carolina Political union is sponsoring a straw vote beginning today in the Y. M. C. A.

Ballots may be obtained and votes placed in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. from 10:30 until noon.

The purpose of the straw vote, according to C.P.U. President Frank McGlinn, is to see who is the choice among the student body, faculty, and townspeople for the presidency and to see how North Carolina voters compare in their choice with those in other states.

"We also are interested in seeing whether supporters for candidates defeated in the primary have changed to the opposing party or not."

POLITICAL GROUP WILL FORM PARTY

Farmer-Laborites Meet Tomorrow Night

All students interested in forming a farmer-labor party on this campus are invited to attend a meeting to be held at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow in the north lounge of Graham Memorial.

Professor W. A. Olsen, English department, will speak on the "Political Trends in the 1936 Election." Following Professor Olsen's address the meeting will be devoted to an open forum for a discussion of liberal, labor, and radical groups and the stand they are taking in the coming election. Another topic will be the possibility of a realignment of parties in 1940.

This meeting is in the nature of a continuation of the group which met after the address made here by Bishop Jones.

The meeting is being arranged by a committee whose members are: George Stoney, Marty Watkins, and T. P. Yeatman.

SENATOR BAILEY TO SPEAK FRIDAY FOR DEMOCRATS

Address To Be Second In Series By New Deal Devotees

To sustain interest in the Democratic side of the fall political stew, the Carolina Political union will follow Representative Bob Doughton's address this morning with the appearance of Senator Josiah W. Bailey in Memorial hall Friday night.

A native of Raleigh, Bailey has been a United States senator from this state since 1931. He has a son, Pou, who is a sophomore at the University.

Bailey's speech will be the second by a series of New Deal advocates. Congressman Frank Hancock of Oxford is scheduled to appear soon.

Mathematics Head Will Talk Tomorrow To Philosophy Group

Henderson will Point Out Modern Scientific Developments

Dr. Archibald Henderson of the mathematics department will address the Faculty Philosophy of Science club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the lounge room of the Graduate club. Dr. Henderson will speak on "Art and Science, a Modern Rapprochement."

Pointing out certain modern developments in mathematics and physics, and recent information advanced by Einstein and other prominent scientists, Dr. Henderson will illustrate the artistic character of scientific development.

Dr. L. O. Kattsoff of the Philosophy department organized the Faculty Philosophy of Science club a year ago with a view to combating overspecialization in the various fields of education. Dr. Kattsoff is president of the club and Dr. S. A. Emery is secretary. All members of the faculty are invited to attend the meetings and take part in the discussions.

Record Concert

The record concert today in Hill Music hall at 1:25 will be: "Russia," a Symphonic poem, Balakirev, Sir Hamilton Harry and the London Philharmonic orchestra; "Polovetzian Dance," Borodin, Philadelphia Symphony orchestra; "On the Steppes of Central Asia," Borodin, London Symphony orchestra.

Class Meetings Tomorrow Night First Signs Of Their Existence

New Sophomores, New Juniors, New Seniors Show Signs of Class Consciousness

Sophomores in Graham Memorial lounge, juniors in 103 Bingham, and seniors in Memorial hall will hear their respective class presidents and install their new honor councils tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Meeting simultaneously, the classes will all be assembling as group unities for the first time this fall, and also for the first time in their own existence as 1936 sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Following fraternal remarks by their presidents, classmates

Ancient Melodrama Will Be Presented Here This Week End

Playmakers Make Many Innovations for Season's First Production, "The Drunkard"

Attempting one of the most technically complex shows in their history, the Carolina Playmakers are presenting "The Drunkard," or "The Fallen Saved," tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday evenings at the Playmaker theater.

Directed by Harry Davis, the cast of 30 has been in rehearsal three weeks, and tomorrow night will see the culmination of their efforts to bring to Chapel Hill the flavor and atmosphere of the 1840 theater.

Large Cast

With this in mind, the stage of the theater has been somewhat enlarged to hold the cast, while as much of the setting as possible is suspended in the flies.

Playing the leads in the production are Robert Nachtmann, cast as Cribbs, the villain; Robert du Four as Edward Middleton, the hero; Marion Hartshorn as Mary, Edward's wife; and Samuel Hirsch as Bill Downton, Edward's foster brother, tried and true.

American Teachers Discussed By Beale At Bull's Head Tea

Author of Several Books Tells of Educators' Problems

Dr. H. K. Beale, discussing his new book, "Are American Teachers Free?" was the featured speaker at the Bull's Head tea yesterday afternoon in the Bull's Head bookshop.

Dr. Beale, author of "The Critical Years," and "Reconstruction," discussed the problem confronting the author of such a book and how they are overcome. Among these problems mentioned, Dr. Beale emphasized religious, political, and racial problems, and the question of prohibition, sex, private and public schools and the matter of tenure and employment for teachers.

"It is in the matter of employment that we find the most restriction imposed on teachers," asserted Dr. Beale.

The book under discussion is one in a series making up the report of the Commission on the Social Studies of the American Historical association. In the preface to his book, Dr. Beale acknowledges the help of Miss Georgia Faison and Dr. J. C. Russell, of the University faculty.

FOUR NEW PLAYS TO HAVE CASTING THIS AFTERNOON

Students' Productions To Be Presented October 30

Offering opportunities for 25 actors and actresses, the Carolina Playmakers this afternoon at 4:30 will hold tryouts for this quarter's first bill of experimental productions, to be given at the Playmakers theater on Friday, October 30.

Frank Durham, assistant to Dr. Koch, announces that four of the seven plays submitted have been selected for production. They include "Waitin'," a play by William Peery of Raleigh; "The Barren Year," by David Beaty of Henderson, S. C.; "Ugly Hands," by Kate May Rutherford of Hardinsburg, Indiana; and "And Things Happen," by Don Watters of Ravenna, Ohio.

It was also announced by Mr. Durham that everyone is invited to try out for these experiments; no previous experience is necessary. The directors and authors will be present to select the casts.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTS MEMBERS

Homecoming Day Plans Made Last Night

Betty Redfern, representing Spencer hall, Ruth Howard, representing the town girls, Hoke Shore, from Lambda Chi Alpha, and Paul D'Ascensio were the four new members chosen by the University club at their meeting last night held in Graham Memorial.

President Nick Read presided, and plans for homecoming day were discussed. As has been the custom of the past several years, exhibit prizes will be given.

Judges for the town display are Dean Bradshaw, Dr. Woodhouse, Dr. Coffin, Mr. Frazer and Dr. Zimmermann. Professor Olsen, Dean House, Professor Koch, President Graham and Professor Carroll will judge the other displays.

Plans were also made for two radio programs to be held Wednesday, October 28, over WPTF and Thursday, October 29, over WDNC.

Veteran N. C. Politician To Answer Spargo This Morning

Begins At 10:32

Representative Robert L. Doughton speaks for President Roosevelt and the New Deal in Memorial hall at chapel period this morning.

The veteran North Carolina politician is expected to reply to attacks on the present administration such as were heard last night at the address of Republican John Spargo.

Veteran

Now 73 years old, Doughton has been in national politics many years. He was a member of all congresses from the sixty-second, which convened in 1911, to the seventy-fourth, which ends in 1937.

He was born at Laurel Springs, N. C., and still maintains his home there, being commonly known as "Farmer Bob." In national politics he is at present prominent as chairman of the House Ways and Means committee.

This morning's program will begin at 10:32 o'clock. Students coming from second period classes may get seats in Memorial hall in time to hear the complete address.

Representative Doughton is the first speaker for the Democratic party brought to Chapel Hill by Carolina Political union this fall. Friday night another, Senator Bailey, will be heard.

FRESHMAN PARTY ATTRACTS CROWD

Three Speakers Present Class Unity Ideas

The Freshman Friendship council played host to over 200 guests when it held its first social of the year Monday night in Graham Memorial.

Dean Bradshaw, Fred Weaver, and Ramsay Potts were the speakers of the evening; Mary Lee Scales and Nell Booker gave readings; Marjorie Usher played selections on the piano; and the sophomore quartet, consisting of Frank Turner, Claude Armfield, Brooks Patten, and Ellis Bullins, presented several original song arrangements.

Class Unity

The problem of class unity was discussed by the three speakers. Dean Bradshaw, as an alumnus of the University, said that the reason for the success of some classes and the failure of others lies in the fact that the successful ones work as one unit. "Don't let any one part of the class go against another part," he said. "Let the whole stick together in one class of unselfish men."

Ramsay Potts, approaching the problem as a fraternity man, said, "In reality we are all students at the University. There is no discrimination between fraternity men and non-fraternity men. Above all else let each of us be loyal to the University."

Fred Weaver, a non-fraternity man, stated, "Because some of the class are fraternity men and others are not does not mean that a division should be made in your class. One can be just as active in all activities as the other."
