Tar Heels Invade Davidson Today

Carolina's gridders should take the Wildcats this afternoon but not in the proverbial breeze. Coach Doc Newton is not ignorant of the fact that the Tar Heels are going to keep a mighty close watch on Mr. Lafferty and he has taken steps to do something about it.

We are inclined to think that Brother Husing is talking through his hat in predicting the defeat of the Blue Devils by the Demon Deacs. They're good, yes, but they can't stop the Devils. Coach Wade, usually a conservative in the little matter of scoring, has found out that he got more publicity out of his 51-0 defeat of the Generals than he hid out of the 19-6 defeat of Georgia Tech.

Anyway, Mr. Husing, if they do lose it will give you a grand chance to say I told you so or something.

Coach Dale Ranson

... is having his troubles these days with both the Duke and Southern conference cross country meets following each other in short order.

Four of the five miles of the course at Duke this afternoon are on concrete and Coach Ranson would like Hendrix, Gammon and Gardiner to be in tip-top shape for the conference meet. Running on concrete is hard on legs; Hendrix, Gammon and Gardiner have legs; Hendrix, Gammon and Gardiner are entered in the conference meet; Hendrix, Gammon and Gardiner are not likely to run this afternoon. Q. E. D. Clever these Chinese.

Sticklers and Stickers

Student coach Ed Coffin is doing a mighty fine job with the fencing team. The men all look capable, all are keenly interested, and consequently are set to go places.

Any day now we expect to see them enthusiastically picking up papers on the campus with their foils thus improving their fencing eyes and saving the University the expense of paying men to do it at the same time.

White Phantoms

The first breath of basketball is in the air with the tri-weekly night practices being held in the Tin Can. Though Coach Skidmore will not settle down to anything serious until the football season is out of the way, he does want to get an idea of what's what.

With Captain Earl Ruth, Andy Bershak, Pete Mullis, Bill McCachren, and Ramsay Potts rather sure of regular berths, Skidmore has only the pivot post to worry about.

Dead Soldiers

With the wet, raw, cold weather that seems to have come upon us, we are inclined to say phooey to the good Dr. Dobbs and his Princeton ban. As it is, though, Coca Cola bottles are a mental and physical hazard to the football fan trying to extricate himself from the mazes of a football stadium after a game.

Tom Burnette, with an even dozen conversions out of as many tries will attempt to get past the unlucky 13. One of the attempts in the State game looked mighty close to going bad to the spectators but the record was kept intact.

COLONIAL FROSH BEAT TAR BABIES BY PASS ATTACK

Freshmen Fail To Score In Listless Game, Losing 6-0

William and Mary downed the Tar Babies 6-0 yesterday afternoon on Fetzer field in a listless ball game. The Colonials counted their score in the last quarter on a 3-yard plunge by Phillips, fullback, after they had advanced 30 yards on successive passes.

Though the Carolina yearlings threatened in the first period by marching to the six-inch line and failing, they showed no determination to tally and presented a futile passing attack and ground game which never clicked in crucial moments. It was a game of see-sawing up and down the field with Carolina having the advantage in yardage gained, but never the power to push across the goal.

Berry

Berry, 240-pound tackle, played an outstanding game in the line for W. & M., while Phillips, Twiddy and Fowler, the latter two subs, starred in the backfield. Carolina's entire team played excellent ball at times in midfield, but the line play, especially blocking, was non-existent in the scoring area.

Soufas and Radmon were injured during the game, as was Kennedy, W. & M. guard. Both teams suffered from penalties and fumbles. These sins stopped more than one Tar Baby advance.

The Colonials held an advantage of nine to seven in first downs. Carolina outrushed the visitors to roll up 126 yards to 76. Passing gave the victors their touchdown as they gained 53 yards by air in completing five out of 11 attempts. Three N. C. tries were intercepted by the enemy.

Coach Skidmore's team exhibited nothing in the way of a pass defense and that weakness cost them the game. While it seemed easy for W. & M. to pass successfully Carolina presented no overhead attack of any consequence, completing only two out of 15 tries.

Carver, in his first game, showed good form, tearing off several long gains and passing well. The trouble yesterday was with the receivers—they were always covered and never had time to get in position. Radmon and Soufas played good ball while they were in, but in general the performance of the locals was much below par. There have been many better ball games.

Adams

Bob Adams has been alternating with Pete Avery all season at the Tar Heels' center post. He weighs 180 pounds, is a sophomore and hails from Ridley Park, Pa.

He is expected to see plenty of action this afternoon against the Wildcats at Davidson.

LOCAL HARRIERS MEET DUKE TODAY

Injuries Keep Runners Out Of Race

The Carolina harriers will travel to Durham this afternoon to meet the Duke Blue Devils in their annual race. The men will run over the five mile course with the race starting at 4 o'clock.

The Tar Heels will be out to avenge last year's defeat, but

Cake Race

All men entered in the Cake race desiring to work out today may do so between 10:30 and 12 o'clock and 5 and 6 o'clock. There will be a manager at Fetzer field to check off those men reporting.

victory seems to be improbable as the varsity will be without the services of Captain Graham Gammon, Bill Hendrix, Bill Daniel and Bob Gardiner, unless Coach Dale Ranson makes a last minute change and runs these men.

The probable lineup for Carolina will be eight of these men: Kind, Jones, Aderholt, Hall, Hunter, Garland, F. Wakely, J. Russell, Moore, Baden, and Gewollb.

Fencers End First Week Of Practice

Coach E. F. Coffin Leads Men Through Snappy Workout

The Carolina fencers ended up their first week of practice with a snappy workout of calisthenics and instruction.

Coach E. F. Coffin took the more experienced men aside and showed them the finer points in the thrust and parries while John Elmendorf, assisting Coffin, led the novices through the salute, charge, thrust and primary parries.

The greater part of the practice sessions are devoted to leg exercises and strengthening of the wrist. Coffin stressed the importance of being light and springy on the feet and of being able to fence tirelessly.

THREE FAVORITES UPSET IN TENNIS LADDER MATCHES

Rood, Farrell, Van Cise Advance In Ranking Through Wins

In the three varsity ladder tennis matches played this week, the favorites, in all cases, went down to defeat before their challengers.

Ernie Byfield, finalist in the upperclassman tennis tournament, went down to defeat at the hands of W. Rood, the scores being 0-6, 6-2, 11-9. As a result of this match, Rood moves up to No. 8 position and Byfield down to No. 9.

This match had all the earmarks of a fine battle, and the outcome was in doubt until the last point was made.

Farrell

Gordon Robinson, a member of last year's varsity team, and ranked 6 in senior division, found Frank Farrell too much to cope with and consequently was beaten in straight sets 7-5, 6-0. As a result of this match, Farrell moves up to the No. 5 position, and Robinson falls back to No. 6.

To complete the list of upsets, we have to mention the Van Cise-Henderson match, in which J. Henderson, 11 ranking player, was defeated by Van Cise, formerly No. 12, by the scores of 0-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The following list of challenge matches have been posted at the tennis courts, and should be played next week:

F. Stern is challenged by Stricker; Yeomans challenged by Sisson; W. Rood challenged by Gwyer; C. Rood challenged by Byfield; and Yeomans is also challenged by Berg.

The present rankings of the first ten in the senior division are as follows:

1. R. Potts, 2. A. Henderson, 3. E. Fuller, 4. J. Foreman, 5. F. Farrell, 6. G. Robinson, 7. C. Rood, 8. W. Rood, 9. E. Byfield, 10. A. Doyle.

Freshman Harriers To Meet Imps Today

Full Squad will Run Duke's Two and Half Mile Course

The Carolina freshman harriers will meet the Duke freshmen this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Duke stadium over a 2½ mile course.

The Tar Babies that will run are: Fred Hardy, James Davis; Bill Gordon; Howard Davidson; Bruce Hamilton; Edney Blalock; Barrett Russ; John Bonner; C. E. Fink; and Charles Moore. There is one injured member of the hill and dale squad, Druey Troutman, who will be out of the meet with a sore leg.

The freshmen will stack up against the Davidson Wildkittens November 13, at Davidson, and the Tar Babies will again meet the Duke Blue Imps November 20 at Chapel Hill.

Coach Newton is expecting to run up against one of the best defensive lines he has met this season today and it is very probable that he will resort to the style of play that has brought his charges the nickname of Dazzlers in order to pierce the Tar Heels' defense.

Carolina's Tar Heels have as tough an assignment today as they have had all season in trying to down Davidson's sensational Wildcats before their own Homecoming alumni and students on Richardson field at 2:30.

With crisp football weather prevailing, with an advance sale of the entire stadium assured, with color and ceremonies lending atmosphere a bang up football game is on tap.

Coach Ray Wolf's squad, undefeated in the state and with but one non-conference defeat, is intact but for Tony Cernugle who has been kept out of play with a bum knee.

Records

The Presbyterians were upset last Saturday when the Furman House of Magic slipped over two touchdowns while the 'Cats were thinking about today's game. Pass interceptions and blocked punts led to their 14-13 defeat.

The Wildcats have lost to strong Duke and Navy teams this year and have registered wins over N. C. State, the team that gave the Tar Heels such a scare last week, V. M. I., and The Citadel.

Coach Ray Wolf is banking on the running of Little, Dashiell and Watson, the punting of Tom Burnette, and the line cracking of Jim Hutchins to bring home the bacon to Chapel Hill, but with the Duke game only a week away, the Wildcats have a mental advantage over their opponents.

Lafferty

Coach Doc Newton has been grooming his brilliant Teeney Lafferty all season with this game in mind and his sensational running has been one of the highlights of the North Carolina grid screen this year. Coupled with Armfield and Dennis and with Tom Corbin to do the blocking, he will give the Tar Heels plenty of trouble this

SWIMMERS PLAN GOLDSBORO MEET

Short Races Scheduled For Competition

The athletic association's Sports for All slogan extended into a new field last night with the announcement that there will be a swimming meet Wednesday night between a group of students from the campus and a Goldsboro team in Goldsboro.

Though the swimmers are not recognized representatives of the University quite a number are expected to be on hand to watch.

Short Events

Due to the lack of practice of the Tar Heels, only short races are scheduled. The 50-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 100-yard back stroke, 220-yard free style, 200-yard free style relay, 150-yard medley relay and the 100-yard breast stroke are scheduled.

There will also be diving competition with four required dives and four optionals. Those making the trip are James Boykin, Keith Van Kirk, James Van Kirk, Yates Mason, Don Higby, R. R. Williams, and Wyatt Exum. Charles Daniels is managing the team.

Those interested in trying out for the team are requested to contact Wyatt Exum at the Kappa Sigma house Monday night at 7:30 as time trials will be held after the meet in the Goldsboro pool.

Plans are afoot to make swimming a recognized sport on the campus.
