SELF-HELP GROUP WILL GET HIGHER WAGE MINIMUM

Students Hear Graham Discuss 30 Cents Hourly Pay

"A minimum wage of 30 cents an hour" was the answer given last night by President Graham to the group of self-help students which had gathered together following a request for consideration of the betterment of wages and working conditions on and off the campus.

George Stoney, who headed the group putting in the request, was in charge of last night's meeting held in Bingham hall and introduced President Graham.

President Gratiified

"I am gratified that the self-help students on this campus have organized," was the opinion expressed by the president, "and I wish to emphasize the need for maximum use of your time in order to avoid exhausting your physical and mental capacities."

The new wage scale will probably go into effect next week and Dr. Graham assured the students present that it was largely due to their efforts that the new wages were secured.

The following committee was appointed to further the organization of self-help students on the campus: Charles McIver, Bill Stronach, Frank Rogers, Frank Brown, Billy Mitchell, Bill Greet, Lola Reid, E. C. Sanderson and Charles Chitty.

George Stoney announced that this committee will meet tonight at 7:15 in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.

Barnett Swingmen Gain In Popularity Among Collegiates

German Club will Have Versatile Band and Leader Playing For Coming Dance Set

Charlie Barnett, who has been engaged by the German club for the Fall Germans, was acclaimed quite a success by Duke university students when he and his band were featured at the Pan-Hellenic ball held recently at Durham.

Barnett, who played to the crowds at the Glen Island casino, overlooking Long Island sound, during the past summer months, comes to Carolina this weekend and will play for the four dances sponsored by the German club.

The leader, who has been acclaimed an accomplished saxophonist, is also a singer and is responsible for many of the musical arrangements used by his band.

No smoking will be permitted on the floor or side lines at the Fall German's set of dances, according to Oscar Tyree, treasurer of the dance organization.

A reserved section for smoking will be lined off in the back of the Tin Can. Tyree urges all who wish to smoke to use this section and not smoke on or around the floor.

Y.M.C.A. AND ASU OFFER SPEAKERS ON PEACE TODAY

Armistice Day Program Will Take Place In Assembly

Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will make the principal talk of the morning on war and peace and what Armistice Day should mean to students. Don McKee will represent the students on the program and will speak on "Ships."

Late Plans

Plans for the convocation were begun yesterday when the two organizations learned that the University did not plan to have a special observance of the day. For years, the University has sponsored the convocations on November 11. The faculty voted to dispense with it this year due to the laxness of interest among the students, according to Dr. John M. Booker.

All students are urged to attend the convocation whether they are freshmen or not.

ASSEMBLY VOTES AGAINST PRESENT GRADING SYSTEM

Group Rejects Proposal Favoring Speech By Browder

With scarcely any discussion, the Phi assembly voted last night 21-10 to abolish the present grading system at the University.

The bill was held over from last week at which time arguments flew heatedly. Representative Harry Ganderson gave a report on the system of education at Chicago preceding the voting.

Earl Browder

The second bill was, Resolved, That the Phi assembly approve Earl Browder's speaking on this campus. The representatives warmed up to the subject and discussed it from all possible angles. Leighton Dudley urged the assembly to consider Dr. Graham's position and the influence of the state press and alumni upon the matter.

Representative Billy Seawell pointed out the same view and said that Dr. Graham's ideals would not allow him to forbid Browder's speaking. Representatives Drew Martin and Bob Browder argued that the liberalism of the University was at stake and for the information of the students, Browder should be allowed to speak.

The bill was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

Director of Ushers Offers Services of "Y" Date Bureau as Happy Substitute

Sports Writer Fletcher Ferguson of the DAILY TAR HEEL was only mildly surprised when he received a letter from five W. C. U. N. C. girls, submitting applications as "usherettes" for the coming Duke-Carolina tilt Saturday.

The girls admitted that they didn't have passbooks and could not report in person Monday, but said they were students at the sister college and would appreciate consideration as applicants.

Fletcher wants the girls to know he received other applications and appreciates their interest and says, "... the game will be a very colorful affair and I am sure your presence as ushers would only add more color, but under the circumstances I am sorry to say I will have to refuse your request."

New Playmaker Show To Present Unusual View Of Maximilian

Mexican Play by Josephine Niggli to Appear in Playmaker Theater December 3-5

When "The Malinche," a new Mexican play by Josephine Niggli, appears in the Playmaker theater December 3-5, Chapel Hill will have an opportunity to see an unusual view of the life of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

Before his execution in 1867, biographers had pictured Maximilian as a villain, but his death brought to light outstanding deeds showing the better side of his life. Miss Niggli, in "The Malinche," makes him the hero he has come to be in the hearts of many of the Mexican people; a hero who tried to help his adopted country, yet was misunderstood and executed by those he wished to save.

The cast of 15, which will be directed in the production by Samuel Selden, includes Bedford Thurman, John Nickell, Lubin Leggette, Harold Liskin, Madeline Haynsworth, Ruth Smith, Norman Hurwitz, Nancy Schallert, Charles Pennington, Douglas Langston, John Graff, Eugene Langston, Howard Richardson, Patty Penn and Christine Maynard.

Candidates To Deliver Campaign Speeches Tomorrow

With John Parker and Bob Magill presiding, the freshmen nominated their candidates for first-year offices this morning in the chapel period.

Edward Hubbard was the first candidate presented for president of the freshman class. Phil Walker and Baxter Taylor were the other two nominees for the office, the latter being named only after a vote had been taken as to whether the nominations should remain open or not.

For Vice President

The first candidate nominated for vice president was Edward Dickerson. His opponent will be Foy Roberson.

For secretary there were three candidates: A. C. Hall, Jack Barringer, and C. J. Hines. The nominations were closed after Ben Hunter and Stuart Ficklen were named as aspirants for the post of treasurer.

After Parker had announced that Thursday's chapel period will be devoted to campaign speeches, he made the following statement, "I am very much pleased with the interest shown in politics by the freshmen and I hope that it will be manifest again in the coming elections."

Chapel Hill P.-T. A. To Present Shadow Players Tomorrow

Revival of Old Chinese Art Basis for Unusual Production

The Parent-Teachers association of Chapel Hill will present the Red Gate Shadow players tomorrow afternoon and evening in two performances.

It is interpreted by shadow figures, carved from thin donkey-skin parchment, which are projected on a brightly illuminated screen. They give the effect of an exotic Chinese picture in motion. The shadow play, an ancient Chinese art, was revived for American audiences by the Red Gate players.

Personnel

The personnel of the troupe includes Pauline Benton, founder of the group and a student of Oriental culture. Miss Benton recently returned from China, where she has studied with the official shadow player of the late Empress Dowager's court. Sophomores To Meet

Less than one-fourth of the sophomore class met last night in Memorial hall to discuss the class dance, smoker, and space in the Yackety Yack. Unable to transact any business because of the poor turn-out, the group spent the time in cheers and songs.

There will be another meeting tomorrow night at 7:30. A much larger attendance is requested, stated President Bud Hudson, in order to decide pressing business.
