Ace Parker Leads Devils To 27-7 Win

PLANS COMPLETE FOR HIGH SCHOOL PRESS INSTITUTE

Rabb Expects Delegates From Nine School Newspapers

With delegations from nine high school newspapers assured, final plans for the North Carolina Scholastic Press institute to be held here Friday and Saturday were being made yesterday.

Sponsored by the DAILY TAR HEEL, the institute will bring together high school journalists from the following North Carolina cities: Rocky Mount, Greensboro, Statesville, Lexington, Raleigh, Troy, Wilmington, Goldsboro and Chapel Hill. Arrangements for delegations from other cities are expected to be made during the week.

Problems

The program will begin Friday night with a get-together session for the better acquaintance of the group. There will be two informal sessions Saturday. These meetings will be devoted to a discussion of the problems of high school journalists and how they can be solved.

Present at these sessions will be Carl Goerch, editor of The State magazine; E. C. Daniels, ace reporter from the Raleigh News and Observer; O. J. Coffin,

TAR HEEL ESSAY JUDGES TO NAME WINNER MONDAY

Controller Woolen To Make Awards On Return Here

The judges of the DAILY TAR HEEL essay contest must decide among three students in order to choose the winners of the $10, first prize, and $5, second prize, according to O. K. Cornwell, head of the physical education department.

Students

The three students whose essays have reached final eliminations are C. C. Martin, Albert Holt, and John Riggsbee. The final decision, according to Mr. Cornwell, rests with C. T. Woolen, controller of the University, who has been in Raleigh for the past several days.

Decision Monday

"When Mr. Woolen returns, we will make our final decision," Mr. Cornwell said yesterday. "We will have the two winners ready by tomorrow afternoon." Dr. R. B. Lawson, director of Bynum gymnasium, is the third judge.

Harland To Address Philosophers Tuesday

Undergraduate Philosophy Club to Hear Archaeologist

Meeting Tuesday night in the Grail room of Graham Memorial, the Undergraduate Philosophy club will hear Dr. J. P. Harland of the Greek department, speak on artistic standards in ancient Egypt, Babylonia, and Greece. This will be the first in a series of talks on aesthetic standards to be given undergraduate philosophers.

Paving Way For Touchdown

Art Ditt tells Danny Hill (35) how he is going to make a touchdown for the Tar Heels in the next couple of plays. Hank Bartos (65) comes up to back him up and Duke's Joe Cardwell (50) has ideas about it.

Clarence "Ace" Parker comes up on the extreme left and Andy Bershak (59) and Joe Brunansky turn quizzical eyes. On the extreme right are Van Webb (89) and Captain Dick Buck. Ditt made the Tar Heels' only touchdown when he made 18 yards in four successive plays.

This defeat marks the first conference or state game that the Tar Heels have lost this year. Their only other defeat was at the hands of Tulane.

The Blue Devils, with only one defeat, by Tennessee, make a strong bid for the Rose Bowl nomination.

Freshmen Vote This Week In Heated Class Election

Three Parties Present Class Platforms, Candidates

Freshmen file to the polls at Graham Memorial Tuesday to elect officers and end one of the most heated political campaigns among new men yet seen on the campus.

Between 9 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. they will vote on the following candidates:

For president, Edward Hubbard, Phil Walker, and Baxter Taylor.

For vice president, Edward Dickerson, and Foy Roberson.

For secretary, A. C. Hall, Jack Barringer, and C. J. Hines.

For treasurer, Ben Hunter and Stuard Ficklen.

The Student council will conduct the election and will check voters in the student directory.

Mathematics Seminar For Future Teachers Will Meet Tomorrow

Mackie Urges Prospective Math Instructors to Attend

"We urge all students who are interested in becoming teachers of mathematics either in high schools or colleges to be present at the math seminar tomorrow night," Dr. E. L. Mackie, professor of mathematics, announced yesterday. The meeting will be held in room 359 Phillips hall at 7:30 p. m.

Professors E. L. Mackie, H. F. Munch, and E. R. Cameron were appointed by Dr. Archibald Henderson, head of the mathematics department, to organize this group of prospective teachers in order to study the problems they will confront, and also in order to improve the instruction in this field.

The department of education is cooperating with the department of mathematics in this seminar.

Spectator Stricken

Tragedy marred the Duke-Carolina game here yesterday afternoon when Alvin Patterson, 59-year-old druggist and University alumnus of Kernersville, N. C., was stricken with a heart attack while sitting in the stands with his daughter. He was rushed to Duke hospital, but died shortly after arriving there.

Mr. Patterson was taken ill shortly after Captain Ace Parker's 105-yard run.

Blasts For Lower Quadrangle Sewer Disturb Dwellers

Supervisor Burch Seeks to Stop Floods That Students are Accustomed to Encounter

Those blasts that have been rocking the lower quadrangle have so far awakened an Aycock assistant manager in time for an 11 o'clock class, and thrown dirt all over his automobile, but they will soon start showing results, when the new sewer being built is finished.

According to P. L. Burch, supervisor of the University's physical plants, the explosions

Tau Beta Pi Initiates Six Men At Annual Fall Tapping Last Night

Honorary Engineering Fraternity Inducts Three from Each of Two Upper Classes

N. C. Beta of Tau Beta Pi held its annual fall initiation last night in Phillips hall when the organization tapped six new men from the two upper classes.

The men initiated were William P. Kephart, senior mechanical; Joseph Star, senior electrical; Wilho Nestor Suominen, senior civil; John Greer, junior chemical; John Gove, junior civil, and Joseph Francis, junior mechanical.

Those participating in the initiation were President Thomas Sharp, Vice President Albert P. Hyde, Secretary Angus Davis, and Professors Hoefler, Geyer, Lear and Winkler.

Banquet

A formal banquet was held for the new members at Graham Memorial following the initiation. Dr. A. C. Howell of the English department, the principal speaker, discussed 10 requirements that a true engineer should be able to meet. These requirements have to do with the all-round development of the in-

Duke Captain Reaches Top Of Career With 105 Yard Scoring Kickoff Return

Burnette, Ditt, Hutchins And Little Carry Tar Heels' Offensive Play With Ditt Scoring Only Carolina Touchdown

By R. R. HOWE, JR.

Captain Clarence "Ace" Parker capped a very large day here yesterday with a brilliant 105-yard dash through the entire Carolina team as he led the surging Blue Devils of Duke University to a smashing 27-7 victory over Coach Ray Wolf's Tar Heel eleven.

Parker's long jaunt was the highlight of the day's play and came in the middle of the third quarter on the kickoff following the Tar Heels' touchdown. He also added three conversions, turning in the best game of his sensational career.

Early Impetus

Though Coach Wallace Wade started his second team in the first quarter, he was definitely intent in running up an early lead

BELATED BARNET CLOSES GERMANS IN SWING STYLE

Three Orchestras Play Before Fall Dance Set Closes

Making his final bow to the Carolina dancers, Charlie Barnet, better late than never, wound up the year's first set of dances sponsored by the German club last night and yesterday afternoon.

An urgent phone call from Washington Friday afternoon informed the campus German club officials that Swingman Charlie Barnet and his men would not appear for the first dance in the fall set. Their bus was reported to have broken down. Jimmy Fuller, campus orchestra leader, carried on in his place Friday afternoon.

Arrival

Friday night at 10:30 Barnet's belated orchestra arrived in Chapel Hill to replace Freddy Johnson and his men, who substituted at the first night ball.

Barnet is one of the quartet of millionaire band leaders representing a family fortune of $1,500,000. The others are Isham Jones, Roger Wolf Kahn and Rudy Vallee.

Collection Display Arranged By School Of Library Science

Exhibit Part of Observance of National Book Week

The school of library science is observing National Book week November 15-21 by having an exhibit placed opposite the circulation desk at the library. The purpose of the project is the showing of books about book collecting, descriptions and history of publishers, and aids in choosing and buying books.

The exhibit is in two parts. The first is a group of books on book collecting, publishers, and printing which are for general circulation. The other group is a display of aids to help you in your choice of books.

The first group contains books by people who have made a hobby of book collecting, books about printing and the history of books, and books about publishers. The other group includes such books as "The U. S. Catalog," "The Bookman's Manual," and "The American Library Association Catalog."

as Captain Parker returned the opening kickoff from his own one yard line to his 43 and then O'Mara and Smith rushed the ball down to the Carolina 16-yard line where scoring passes repeatedly failed to connect.

The Tar Heels clamped down and play see-sawed back and forth the rest of the quarter with Ditt and O'Mara toting the ball for their respective teams.

Tipton

The first score of the game came after power plunges by Duke's Eric Tipton, sophomore brilliant, and Parker brought the ball to the 15 yard line where on four successive plays, Tipton forced the ball over the double stripe.

Tom Burnette turned sensationalist on the kickoff and ran and twisted his way from his own 10 to the Duke 27 yard line where he was run out of bounds by Badgett after Buck had taken out the seemingly last tackler.

Ditt picked up four yards and

DEBATE TRYOUTS TO BE REPEATED

Contestants For Bouts With English To Speak Again

Because the speeches of the contestants trying out for the British debate on November 20 were so nearly equal in ability, there will have to be a second set of tryouts, according to Professors Olsen, Woodhouse, and McKie, advisers of the Debate council.

Question

The question under debate is "Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States is a menace to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

While Don Seawell, former team member, takes the affirmative alone, the negative is supported by David Kerley, Paul Wallach, Jim McMillan, C. C. Greer, and Walter Kleeman.

In his short talk Seawell stressed the absence of a constitution in England and the resulting success in government. He also pointed out the need for social planning, and the obstacles to it in the constitution.

On the other hand, the negative stressed the progress made under the constitution and the necessity for our keeping it both as a basis for our government and as a means of keeping separate the powers of state and nation.
