Salary Makes Sherrill Quit Auditor Post

Student Board Already Considering Men For Position

By MAC SMITH

Resignation of Robert H. Sherrill, five years auditor of the Student Activities fund, was accepted yesterday by the Audit board.

Sherrill's duties end December 1. He has been accountant for the Activities Fund since it was first set up outside the University business office in January, 1932.

Difficulties

Salary difficulties, arising from the Student Audit board's reducing this fall some of the auditing fees, prompted the resignation.

Possible successors to Sherrill are already conferring with the Audit board, declared John Parker, chairman of the board, last night. He refused to make a definite announcement.

Function

Under the present Activities fund set-up, all fees collected by the University at registration for student organizations are handled through Sherrill's office. Many other campus groups, fraternities, and orders have voluntarily placed their budgets under the Student Auditor's care.

Until now, the half-time bookkeeper and Sherrill's assistants have been under the supervision of the auditor himself. Parker indicated that with Sherrill's resignation a revised arrangement might be inaugurated whereby the Audit board would hire a full-time bookkeeper, in place of Mr. Sherrill, and allow the actual auditing to be performed by an "outside" auditor.

If such changes occur, Present Bookkeeper Smith will be relieved of his duties. Parker indicated, however, that Smith would probably be transferred to University business office service.

Ivey Planning Holiday Dance

For Students Staying In Chapel Hill

Pete Ivey announced yesterday that Graham Memorial has arranged to give a dance for those students who will be in Chapel Hill during the Thanksgiving holidays on Thursday evening in Bynum gym. Friday at 8 p. m., there will be a show in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Ivey is attempting to arrange a reunion of the Chapel Hill-billies who sang here last year. He also asks that every student who expects to remain in Chapel Hill during the holidays and has entertaining ability to see him at his office in Graham Memorial as soon as possible.

There will be a date bureau operating in the student union office for anyone wanting dates for the dance or show.

Cannon Installs Hair-Promoting Gadget In Shop

Recently-Become-Baldsters May be Saved by New Hair-Growing Appliance

By WALTER KLEEMAN

A little white box about the size of a small refrigerator with a cap attached to it on the end of a wire may prove the salvation of those who have recently become bald. Y. Z. Cannon has installed a new type of hair growing machine in the Carolina barber shop.

The new machine works on the principle of stimulating the circulation of the scalp. The cap fits on the head of the user. The machine lowers the air pressure inside the cap, then raises it again three times a minute. In this way the circulation is stimulated and hair growth promoted.

Not Guaranteed

While the machine is not guaranteed to grow hair, and is usually more successful in the case of recent baldness, a large percentage of the cases thus far treated have shown favorable results.

The treatments are of 30 minutes duration and must be taken at least 10 to 16 times in a series to show any real results.

Press Delegates Elect McDonald of Raleigh Chairman of Group

Rabb Heads Meet

By RALPH MILLER

The first annual meeting of the North Carolina Scholastic Press Institute came to a climactic close last night with election of officers at a banquet given in Graham Memorial by the student union.

Sam McDonald, Raleigh, was elected chairman of the institute. Three associate chairmen were elected: Paul Gross, Durham; H. A. Scott, Kannapolis; and Billy Allen, Wilmington.

Sessions

The festivities of the evening followed two sessions of informal discussion of newspaper problems which were held earlier in the day. The discussion groups were attended by Carl Goerch, editor of State magazine; O. J. Coffin, head of the journalism department at the University; Walter Spearman, instructor in journalism; and E. C. Daniel, reporter on the Raleigh News and Observer and former DAILY TAR HEEL staff member. They gave their advice to the assembled delegates on problems confronting the high school journalist.

Dealing with the problem of faculty censorship, the delegates turned to Mr. Coffin. "Censorship will always continue as long as you folks are of a spanking age," he said. The journalism department head advocated the use of four text-books for a rising journalist: Webster's dictionary, the Bible, the World Almanac, and the North Carolina Manual.

Goerch

Carl Goerch discussed the place of humor in publications. He was of the opinion that the keenest humor was to be found in high school and college publications. "Don't use humor to humiliate people," said the State editor.

At the banquet Rabb, temporary director, introduced Author Phillips Russell, Dean Francis Bradshaw, Pete Ivey, the members of his committee, and several others.
