The second year German classes have been reading the text of "Tannhauser," which was edited by Robert White Linker of the language department. While playing the records tomorrow night, Hal Gordon will speak, correlating the text with the music.

Among the records to be played will be the "Overture" and "Venusberg" music; "Dich Teuere Halle," Elizabeth's song; "Elizabeth's Gebet," sung by Kirsten Flagstad; "O du mein holder Abendstern," and other records. Richard Crooks and Leopold Stowkowski will be represented in the records.

Pustilnik Continues to Climb Higher on Tennis Ladder as Week's Results are Posted

Charles Rider continued to hold the initial position on the freshman ladder at the end of the third week of competition in the annual fall tourney.

Pustilnik, originally seeded fifth, continued his upward climb by defeating Rawlings in a hard fought battle 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, and annexing second place. Murchison successfully defended his seventh position against Beadles in the longest battle of the year 6-3, 18-20, 6-0. Murchison took fifth the following day by virtue of Zimmerman's default.

The complete results of the past week are as follows: (Challenger's name appears first):

Beadles vs. Murchison, Murchison 6-3, 18-20, 6-0.

Smigel vs. Beadles, Beadles 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Kleeman vs. J. Laurens, J. Laurens 12-10, 6-2.

J. Laurens vs. Murchison, Murchison 8-6, 6-3.

Murchison vs. Zimmerman, Murchison default.

The resulting freshman ladder is as follows: 1. Rider, 2. Pustilnik, 3. Rawlings, 4. March, 5. Murchison, 6. Zimmerman, 7. Carver, 8. Beadles, 9. Smigel, 10. J. Laurens.

Upon his arrival, he was instantly recognized as a possible savior of the country; another Malinche.

It is with Maximilian's efforts that Josephine Niggli has concerned herself in "The Fair God." The play deals with the love of a few Mexicans held for him in contrast with the many who believed him to be a reincarnation of the hated Cortez. Caught midway between the two opposing factions, Maximilian's brilliant struggle goes unrewarded.

W. P. Jacocks Gives Library Rare Book

Early English Volume to be Purchased with Alumnus' Gift

Dr. W. P. Jacocks, of Delhi, India, and an alumnus of the University of North Carolina has given $450 to the University library for the purchase of one of the earliest books printed in England.

The book, which was printed in London in 1495, is from the press of Wynkyn de Worde, foreman of William Caxton's printing establishment.

William Caxton was the first English printer and Wynkyn de Worde took over his business after his death. "Polychronicon," the book which Dr. Jacocks is giving the library is one of the first books to come from this press.

ing Watkins to hang on twice. Both were working hard as the round ended. As Hulcher's hand was raised in victory, the 700 fans lustily applauded the verdict and the great bout.

Wally Dunham, the only champion in the tournament, made his way into the finals with a well-earned decision over Pritchard of Theta Chi. Dunham showed a fine class of boxing as he repulsed Pritchard's long range right hand punches. Dunham's hitting was hard and his timing good.

Netter Turned Boxer

John Foreman of Chi Psi earned the other place in the 165-lb. final as he won a short, but thrilling bout from Jerry Shutt of Battle. Shutt came out fast, rushing Foreman to his own corner and landing with several hard swings.

Foreman managed to get away and both boys exchanged several hard punches to the body before Foreman connected with one to the stomach that sent Shutt down. When he got up, Shutt turned to Foreman and said: "Congratulations. That was a peach." And it was.

Perhaps the most perfectly timed punch of the afternoon was the one that brought Sapp of Phi Delta Theta victory in the 145-lb. class over Davenport of Lewis. Both boys were fairly even for two and a half rounds, until Sapp let go a hard right to the solar plexus that ended the bout.

Smith

In the 175-lb. class, Smith, boxing unattached, was a little too strong and experienced for Conner of Lewis. Conner put up a game performance, but Smith's experience proved too much and the bout was halted in the second round.

In the open bout of the afternoon, Urquhart of Kappa Alpha won his way into the championship contest with a decision over Jenkins of Alpha Chi Sigma.

Hardy of Ranson House and Faircloth of Lewis put on an evenly contested bout with the lower quadrangle red head taking the decision. Faircloth was possessed with a powerful right and a good left jab—enough to outclass Hardy, whose most effective work came from outside.

The final bouts will be held Monday night in the Tin Can at 7:30.

ing veteran squads. Few will forget the hair-raising finish the White Phantoms made last year to come from seeming defeat to victory when a last period outburst of scoring wiped out a large W. & L. lead and gave the Phantoms a 50-45 win over their opponents.

This year the Phantoms will start the season in much the same position as that of last year. The team last year was rated to have just a fair chance of copping the conference crown and after the Tar Heels had turned the trick they were heralded as the surprise of the year.

This year's quintet, although facing a shorter schedule, will meet stern tests throughout the season with N. Y. U. and St. Joseph of Philadelphia being played on successive nights. The White Phantoms will have to be

Coop Diner Still Operating With Larger Clientele

Beginning with 13 Customers, It Now Boasts of 35, at Sunday School Site

Beginning last fall with 13 members and now having 35, the only cooperative eating club on the campus is still in operation in the little Sunday school building located behind the United church.

Aldred Lowe, a senior in commerce and one of the library boys, is probably responsible to a great degree for its survival. The club first located in a single room over Sutton's drug store, moving to the old Beta house for the summer sessions. The next stop was the present location.

Lowe, sometimes called "dad," or even "papa," has to see to it that John saves enough out of his N. Y. A. check to pay at the end of the week or, that Jim pays him for a month in advance to keep from spending it.

Atlas, the cook, has stuck with the boys through thick and thin. He could have gotten back his old Swain hall job that he had held for 14 years but he remembered the Christmas present from the boys last year and says he's just got to look out for them first.

Beale To Lecture

Dr. H. K. Beale of the history department will speak tonight at the meeting of the Teachers Union of New York City on "The Attacks on the Academic Freedom and Civil Liberties of the Teacher."

The main purpose of the meeting is to create sentiment for the repeal of the Ives Loyalty Oath law and for the discontinuance of the McNaboe committee which has been set up to investigate subversive activities in the schools. Dr. Beale has just recently written a book on the freedom of American teachers in the school.

cast, playing her role of horsey country squir-ess with high-spirited good-humor. Ethel Colt Barrymore in the feminine lead started off well, but lost color when she appeared in later scenes with the livelier Miss Jarecki. Thomas Coley, playing opposite her, was so-so, good in some spots and bad in others. After starting cold, John de Angelis warmed up and gave a good performance as Dazzle, the gentleman of fortune who directs the intrigues of the other characters for their own good as well as for his.

Good Support

Minor characters were portrayed creditably, particularly Pert (Helen Dunlop) and Gay Spanker (Homer Hull). Unobtrusive and properly subordinated, the horseplay between the valet Cool (Maynard Samsen) and Lawyer Meddle (Jack Harling) was good. The supporting pantomime throughout added considerably to the gayety and spirit of the show, as did the catchy songs and the prancing about in time with them.

The costumes were somewhat better than the stage sets, although "The Lawn Before Oak Hall" had an unusually good back drop portraying the English country home in perspective. Miss Jarecki wore clothes as a woman should wear them, complemented but with outward unconsciousness of them; and her four different costumes were all strikingly lovely.

good to take even one of these tilts, let alone both.

Practice will continue this evening in Bynum gym at 8 o'clock and tomorrow at 2:30.

Metropolitan Tenor Crooks Will Appear In Durham Tonight

America's Leading Tenor to Sing In Page Auditorium Tonight At 8:15

Richard Crooks, the sportsman and opera singer, will hold the spotlight on the Duke campus tonight when he gives a song recital there.

Besides his fame achieved through appearances at Carnegie hall and other places giving metropolitan concerts, he is recognized in the sports world as a wizard at handball, good at golf, and rated as among the six best bridge players in New York.

Between golf games and singing engagements, Crooks fills in with bluefish and bass angling and bringing down clay pigeons with his rifle. His Canadian camp provides a hangout where he roams around taking camera shots at big game.

Library Statistics Show Decided Gain Over Previous Year

Gratifying Increase in Use Noted During Recent Years

The total circulation of the University library last year was 318,088 as compared to 270,212 the previous year, according to a statement made recently by R. B. Downs, University librarian.

There is an increase of 17.7 per cent for each minute the library was open during the year 1935-36, and there were 1.22 books charged out for every minute the library was open.

In an attempt to show how the reading habits of students change over the years, Downs gave the following figures: in 1906-07 the per capita circulation was 12 books per student. Ten years later the figure had risen to 30 books per student per year. Ten years later the figure had risen still higher to 60 books per student. Ten years following this, or last year, the figure was 134 per student.

Downs accounts for this increase by the fact that the library is open longer, more books are available, and more reading is required by the instructors.
