Odum Leaves To Give Talk On Negroes

Sociologist Will Speak At Radio Education Conference

Howard W. Odum of the sociology department leaves tonight for Washington, D. C., where he will speak before the First National Conference on Educational Broadcasting.

Professor Odum's address, "The Implications of Radio as a Social and Educational Phenomenon" will be the only delivery before the general session tomorrow morning. Harry W. Chase, former president of the University and now Chancellor of New York university will preside.

Van Loon

Among others appearing before the conference will be Hendrik Willem Van Loon, noted author and journalist, and Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U. S. Department of Justice, has issued an invitation to all conference attendees to inspect the bureau's quarters.

A formal banquet at the Mayflower hotel, headquarters of the conference, will include the three day session tomorrow night.

Experimentals On Tomorrow

Playmakers Will Stage Own Productions

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock will mark the beginning of the second bill of experimental productions written, directed and presented by the members of the class in playwriting of the dramatic arts department.

At that time three plays will be offered for criticism by the audience. They include "Tidal Wave," a play of the South Carolina low country, written and directed by Evelyn Snider; "Who's Boss," a comedy of Negro farm life by Lubin Leggette, and "Cause Unknown," written and directed by the author, John Walker.

Evening

Continuing at 7:30 there will be four more plays including "Widening the Channel," a play of Piedmont, Virginia, by Sally Willis Holland; "Six Dollars," a tragedy of youth, written and directed by Virginia Petatt; "Leavin'," written by Janie Britt and directed by Samuel Hirsch; and "In the Jungle," a drama of the "Milk and Honey Route," by William Peery. The last play is directed by Joseph Feldman.

It was announced by Mr. Selden that the public is invited to attend the productions, and to join in the general discussion following each play.

Chemistry Movie

Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemical fraternity, starts its public activities for the year when it presents a non-technical talkie, duPont's "Wonder World of Chemistry," in 206 Venable tonight at 8:15.

The fraternity plans to bring other popular moving pictures on chemistry to the campus throughout the year. The public is invited to the show tonight.

Sociologist

Dr. Howard W. Odum, who will preside today over the third session of the conference between the University and Duke on graduate, professional and vocational instruction for Negroes in North Carolina.

Freshman Class

The freshman class will hold a special meeting this morning at 10:30 in Memorial hall.

Unless 50 per cent of the class is present, the 10 per cent reduction for Yackety Yack space can not be had.

The following students were nominated by the Student council for freshman class honor councilmen. From this list seven will be elected in chapel tomorrow: Bunk Anderson, Dewitt Barnett, John Bonner, Julian Coghill, James Davis, Bob Doty, Bill Gordon, Lamar Gudger, Martin Harmon, Thomas Keys, Julian Lane, Tom Long, George McDuffie, Jenness Owens, Otho Ross, Kenneth Royal, Thomas Royster, Ed Stephenson, Lawson Turner, Phil Walker.

Queen, Court Will Reign At Student-Faculty Fete

Fancy Dress Ball, Jazz Concert to be Featured on Program in February

An altogether novel program for Student-Faculty day, including a queen, a jester, and a fancy dress ball, was announced yesterday afternoon by Louis Shaffner, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the holiday, which will come February 10.

Students and faculty members will participate in the gala affair, with the crowning of the queen holding the limelight. Nominations for the queen, consisting of submitting to the committee a cabinet size portrait of "the" girl (coed or not) with a typewritten biographical sketch attached, may be made by any student.

These pictures will be displayed for an entire week, during which time the campus will have an opportunity to make its choice. The queen and her court will be selected by a campus-wide vote. The six girls receiving the next highest votes after the queen has been chosen will be the royal ladies-in-waiting.

The queen will be presented in an elaborate coronation ceremony.

American Paintings To Be Shown At Art Museum Dedication

Person Hall Opening Scheduled for January 15; to Have Exhibition

After numerous postponements the opening of the Person hall art museum is scheduled for January 15.

Beginning with exercises on the evening of January 15 the formal dedication of the building will ensue and Person hall will be turned over to the art department.

Speakers

There will be several out-of-town speakers attending the ceremonies. Mr. Russell Smith of the art department has invited Dean Everett Meeks of the Yale art school and Professor Paul Sacks of the Harvard fine arts department to speak.

An exhibition of contemporary American painting and water colors will be hung at the opening.

Final plans for the opening have not yet been completed. Further announcement as to the complete program will be made later.

mony to be held at 10:30 in the morning with a concert of dance music. Luncheons of faculty members and students will follow at 1 o'clock. A mammoth carnival given in honor of the queen and her court will be held in the afternoon followed by dormitory and fraternity open-houses.

The jamboree that night, with students and faculty entertaining, will be climaxed by a fancy-dress ball from 9:30 to 12. The queen will award prizes for best costumes on the dance floor.

Walking Club

Carolina Walking club's final fall hike will take place Sunday. Professor Phillips Russell will be guest leader, and will point out places of historical interest in Battle park and that section of Chapel Hill. Everyone interested must meet at Graham Memorial at 2:45.

Annual Discount

Today is the last time campus organizations can take advantage of the 10 per cent discount given for the payment of space in the Yackety-Yack. Annual editors urge all those desiring the discount to pay their bills at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

House Thinks Assistance To Students Is Exam Aim

Dean Comments on Purposes of Examinations and Return of Books for Information

By RALPH MILLER

"I thoroughly agree with Dean Bradshaw and the DAILY TAR HEEL that students should be allowed to go over their examination books after the examination," said Dean of Administration R. B. House in speaking of Dean Bradshaw's suggestions on how quiz books could be returned.

"The primary interest of an examination is for it to be an assistance to the student and not merely an examination of the student. I would like to see every student have the opportunity to go over his examinations with his instructors.

Eichelberger Establishes Headquarters On Campus For Collegiate Addresses

League Head Talks On War Prevention And Social Rights

Urges World Peace

"World peace is dependent upon international social justice," said Clark Eichelberger, national director of the League of Nations association in a talk to freshman assembly yesterday morning.

The speaker stressed the importance of putting men back to work and of reviving world trade as the means of effecting economic readjustment. "With the organization of a committee on raw materials, the League is entering its second phase of economic planning after its first 16 years of enforcing the peace," the director said as he told of how the League is trying to meet these economic problems by reappropriating the world's raw materials.

Difficulties

"One of the difficulties of building a peace," Eichelberger asserted, "is the present lack of leadership. Seventy-five per cent of the men who would have been 40 today are in their graves as a result of the World War."

The director also emphasized the fact that peace must be a matter of strategy and policy, just as war is, if we are to have a peace. "We must prevent the next war," he said. "Even if we stay out the result will be economic and political chaos."

Struggle

"The struggle today is not between Communism and Fascism as I see it," he declared, "it is between Democracy and Fascism with Communism on the sidelines. We know where the menace comes from; the Fascist nation."

Tar Heel Special

A "Tar Heel Special" deluxe bus, which is scheduled to leave here Friday, December 18, at 5:30 p. m., will make the trip to Newark and New York, according to an announcement made yesterday by Max Novich.

All who are interested are urged by Novich to make their reservations early by getting in touch with him at 205 Pritchard avenue, or calling 6966.

Rhodes Competitors

Reed Sarratt and Jim Daniels, who were recently chosen to appear before the state Rhodes scholarship committee next week as competitors for a two-year scholarship at Oxford, Sarratt is managing editor of the Daily Tar Heel. Daniels is editor of the Carolina Magazine.

Town Decorates For Christmas

Chapel Hill Decked Out with Traditional Wreath and Mountain Laurel

By GORDON BURNS

Despite the rather arduous dampening effect of approaching exams on Carolina students, Chapel Hill has nevertheless come out with its fifth annual gala Christmas decorations in an attempt to spread the Yuletide spirit over town.

Streamers of mountain laurel to the extent of approximately 4,000 feet have been decked above the streets and festooned from the lamp posts. The traditional wreath, outlined in lights, along with electrified bells and other Christmas symbols, hangs from the center of Franklin street; and the lamp bulbs in the standards have been changed from the usual white to colorful red and green. Some 1200 colored lights are intertwined in the laurel, giving Chapel Hill the effect of having been decorated for a Christmas party.

The neighboring village of Carrboro, not to be outdone by Chapel Hill, has adorned itself too, with similar decorations.

The Merchants association of Chapel Hill and Carrboro are sponsoring the decorations and the money is being contributed by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, local merchants and a few private citizens. The total cost amounts to around $350.

The consolidated service plant of Chapel Hill is responsible for the designing and actual putting up of the decorations and servicemen worked practically all Saturday night to complete the job.

Smith To Present Exhibit Christmas

Work will be Displayed Before Washington Society

Mr. Russell Smith of the art department of the University has announced an exhibit of his work with the Washington Water Color society this Christmas.

The show will be presented at the Corcoran art gallery in Washington, D. C., from December 20 to January 20. From this annual exhibit of the water color club paintings are taken to be placed in the traveling exhibit of the American Federation of Arts.

Political Speaker To Make Last Talk In Union Tonight

Begins At 8 O'Clock

Clark Eichelberger, national director of the League of Nations association, will make his final appearance before Carolina students when he speaks here tonight in the lounge of Graham Memorial at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Eichelberger will conduct a class seminar this morning at 10 o'clock and will be the guest at a luncheon in Graham Memorial at 1 o'clock for the campus committee of the League association. At 6 o'clock a dinner will be held for the state committee of non-students in the League association and for those members of the campus committee who wish to attend.

Raleigh Visit

After his appearance in chapel here, Dr. Eichelberger visited Raleigh where he spoke in the chapel at State college at noon and then traveled to Duke university where he made a public address last night.

From Chapel Hill Director Eichelberger will go on to Rock Hill, S. C., to attend the Model assembly which is being held there tomorrow and Saturday, and which will have a delegation from Chapel Hill to represent the University. He will appear Saturday evening in Columbia, S. C.

Dr. Eichelberger, who was unavoidably prevented from speaking here as scheduled last week, has just returned from observing the meetings of the League assembly in Geneva.

Howard Odum Leads Parley

Conference To Be Held With Duke Men

Dr. Howard W. Odum, of the University sociology department, will preside this morning at the third in a series of conferences between the University and Duke. The meeting will be held at 9:30 in Alumni building.

Graduate, professional, and vocational instruction for Negroes in North Carolina is the theme of the series of conferences which are under the auspices of the division of cooperation in Education and Race Relations in collaboration with the state department of public instruction and the two universities.

Duke

The first conference convened yesterday in York chapel at Duke university with the presentation of data in various fields of Negro education. The second conference was held in York chapel last night with Dean Francis Bradshaw of the University presiding.

Aims of the conference, as announced here recently by Dr. N. C. Newbold, director of the sponsoring organization, are to outline the present status in the graduate professional and vocational fields of education and to consider the next steps to be taken.
