Unknown Driver Injures Collie In Hit And Run

Dog Taken to Infirmary for First Aid Treatment After Accident

A hit-and-run driver struck and critically injured a black and white collie puppy on Columbia street in front of the Beta house Wednesday night.

The dog was crossing the street when the automobile approached at a rapid rate of speed. Apparently making no attempt to avoid hitting the animal, the operator of the car drove over him and continued on up the street without making any effort to determine the dog's injuries or even to move him from the middle of the street.

The collie was taken to the infirmary by several students where he was given first-aid by the attendants. The doctor who examined the injured animal was unable to find any broken bones, but the dog was badly cut.

Leaders Seek Class Action

Little Response Shown In Letter Drive

Because of the poor response to the request for letters regarding representation on the Student council, the Freshman Executive committee Wednesday night decided to try once more to get action from the freshman class.

The committee decided that if there is not a greater number of letters left in the box in the Y. M. C. A. the whole matter will be dropped.

The self-help committee met with Edwin S. Lanier and is now planning an investigation of working conditions off the campus. "A systematic check will be made of all establishments off the campus," said Baxter Taylor. He requested that any student who knows of poor working conditions report them to any member of the self-help committee.

The members of the committee are Duncan McColl, chair.

"Two Gun" Ivey Reports All Quiet On The Texas Front

Local Bad Man Laments Lack of Chance to Use "Shooting Irons;" Reports Fine Time

Down in Texas, where men are men, they haven't yet found out whether Pete Ivey is man or mouse. "NO ONE HAS CROSSED ME SO I HAVE NOT USED MY SHOOTING IRONS," he stated in a copy-written wire flash to the DAILY TAR HEEL late yesterday.

As Carolina's ambassador of good will at the bull session being held in Austin, Texas, by student union directors from this country and Canada, Pete seems, as usual, to be having a great time. "TEXANS ARE ENTERTAINING US (about 50 delegates) IN FINE STYLE," he reports. Just what kind of "fine style" Pete means becomes suspiciously apparent from his last sentence. Refer-

League Head Makes Final Speech Here

Eichelberger Presents Picture Of League Of Nations

Presenting a first-hand picture of the recent League of Nations assembly in Geneva, Dr. Clark Eichelberger spoke before an audience of students and townspeople last night in Graham Memorial in his final appearance on the University campus.

"I am of the opinion that you have a magnificent program under way here on your campus and one that I feel will be felt eventually over the entire South," commented Dr. Eichelberger, following his introduction by Ernest Vanderburg, chairman of the local League of Nations association committee.

Assembly

"The recent assembly met in a time of grave discouragement and stress," he continued. "It was, of course, during the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, and the problem of seating the Ethiopian delegation in the face of Italian objections had to be met. The fact that the delegates eventually voted to seat the delegation even though they might precipitate a European war by so doing, was an indication of world conscience and public opinion that did not exist before 1917."

Discussing the attitude of the United States in regard to other nations today, Dr. Eichelberger concluded his remarks with the statement that "this country must always stand with the Democratic states of the world today to avoid the evils of Fascism, regardless of how weak the Democratic state might be. Man has the tools and intelligence in his hands to prevent war if he will just use them now."

An open forum was conducted following the regular address.

Community Sing

An invitation has been extended to students, faculty, and townspeople to attend a community singing at the grammar school building tonight at 7:30.

The program is being sponsored by the senior girls of the Hi-Y of the Chapel Hill high school and will be directed by Miss Martha Steele, high school music teacher.

ring to Mrs. Simpson as a topic of the delegates' conversation, he says "CHECK UP ON SAME AND SEE IF HE IS BEHAVING." Not under ordinary circumstances does the campus humorist get gender so mixed up. But maybe the telegraph operator was having a good time too. Pete didn't say.

Relief

"Two-Gun" Ivey's daily dispatch, which arrived over the wires just as the campus daily was going to press, brings joy and gladness to many factions on the campus who feared that the local union director had met foul play in the Lone Star state, nothing having been heard from him in 48 hours. The general belief was that Ivey had wandered southward and was lost beyond the Rio Grande in the land of

Seven Student Authors Will Stage Work At Theater

Presenting three plays this afternoon at 4 o'clock and four more at 7:30 tonight, the Playmakers will offer their second bill of experimental productions at the theater.

The seven plays to be seen were written this fall by students in the department of dramatic art's playwriting class, and are being presented, not for the experience the actors may get from playing new parts, but in order that the playwright may see his work as others see it, and profit from the comments and criticisms made by the audience following each play.
