University To Hear McNutt During Chapel

Political Union to Bring Indiana Governor Here Friday

Word was received last night definitely announcing that Paul V. McNutt, Indiana's white-haired governor, will speak here before the student body Friday morning during chapel period, under the sponsorship of the Carolina Political Union. McNutt will be in Chapel Hill in connection with the North Carolina Press Association institute.

Former Dean

McNutt, who left the deanship of the Indiana university law school four years ago, according to political authorities has added more power to the office than was enjoyed by any of his predecessors, most of whom were Republicans.

As governor, McNutt was attacked bitterly by labor because four counties of the state had been under martial law at various times in labor disputes. The American Federation of Labor denounced him at its national convention.

Opportunist

His enemies say McNutt is a political opportunist, ever alert to the main chance, a supreme egoist who has no hesitation in jettisoning a friend or ally if it means his personal advancement.

His friends leap quickly to his defense. They declare criticism is unjust, that he has made the state's welfare paramount and refused to concern himself with the personal ambitions of some who thought they had claims on him.

Hobbies

McNutt, youthful appearing despite his prematurely white hair, has many interests. He likes to ride in airplanes, make speeches, play golf, poker and see football games. He is a past national commander of the American Legion, in which he has taken an active part since its founding.

Debater Tells "Y" Of Tours

Cabinet Hears Speech By McMullan

At the Junior-Senior "Y" cabinet's first winter quarter meeting last night, Harry McMullan, student at the University, spoke on his recent travels abroad, especially in Germany. McMullan related several experiences which occurred to him during his visits and spoke on the university system and the national socialism policy of Germany.

McFarland

George McFarland, president of the cabinet, announced that this quarter's programs will be constructed so as to form a background for Human Relations institute which will be held here March 28-April 3. Four major topics will be dealt with during the coming meetings. These topics are: "International Relations," "Education in Human Relations," "Industry and Commerce," and "Religion." The first of these topics was discussed at last night's meeting.

MacFarland also announced that Dr. Herbert Von Beckereth will be the main speaker on next Monday's program.

Kemp Takes Over Cigarette Show

Former Campus Maestro Found Fame Here and Abroad

Hal Kemp, one of the outstanding alumni of U. N. C., has replaced Andre Kostelanetz on the Chesterfield Dance Time radio show. This is rated as one of the outstanding radio programs of the day, and may be heard each Friday evening from 8:30 to 9 o'clock.

Activities Man

Kemp was a student at the University from 1922-24. He was a prominent campus figure, holding various honorary and elective positions including president of the now extinct Mask and Wig club, a member of the U. N. C. Music club, a member of both the University band and orchestra, and director of the Carolina Club orchestra. He was a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Fame

Shortly after leaving Carolina, Kemp and his orchestra traveled abroad at which time they became quite famous when the Prince of Wales, now Duke of Windsor, played drums in his orchestra at a night club.

Three members of the orchestra who were with Kemp at Carolina are still with him. They are Saxie Dowell, Skinny Ennis, and Ben Williams.

Press Group Gathers Soon

Ivey Plans Fun-Fest for Institute

Increased interest over the coming state Press institute was manifested during the past weekend as committees of the University and Duke completed plans for a three day session here and in Durham.

Governor Paul McNutt of Indiana will open the Fourth Estate gathering in Hill Music hall Thursday night.

During Friday's sessions Paul West, Dr. George Gallup, and Dean Carl Ackerman, all outstanding journalists, will speak.

Ivey—Fun

Pete Ivey, Graham Memorial director, has arranged "Fifteen Minutes of Fun" for the institute after lunch Friday, at which he, Professor William Olsen, and Wally Dunham will conduct a triangular debate on the comparative advantages of the press, the radio, and television.

Friday night the newspapermen will have supper at Duke and hear an address by Robert M. Johnston, Chicago Tribune editorial writer.

A discussion of "Covering the President" by Fred Storm, United Press White House correspondent, will conclude the institute Saturday morning.

Council Meeting

President of the Interfraternity council, Henry Clark, announced yesterday afternoon that the council will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

Clark says that possibilities of a co-operative buying association of the fraternities will be discussed and wishes that all the members of the council be present. Among the other issues to be discussed before the council, Clark says, is the question of junior membership in the council.

Press President

Carl C. Council, president of the North Carolina Press Association, will preside over sessions of that organization at its thirteenth annual conference here Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Campus Review Is Next Carolina Magazine Theme

Editor Solicits Contributions from Interested Students for Next Issue

The editor of the Carolina Magazine announced yesterday that the next issue of the publication will be a campus issue. It is the aim of the staff to present a word-picture of the Carolina campus.

Anyone interested in contributing to the issue is invited to bring manuscripts to the magazine office. Due to the nature of the issue, the editors are especially interested in sketches, stories, and articles about people, customs, or places immediately connected with the University.

Freshman Picture

All freshmen must meet in front of Manning hall at 10:30 this morning if their class picture is to appear in the Yackety Yack, annual officers said yesterday.

The class picture was scheduled to be taken yesterday, but not enough freshmen met. This morning will be the last chance the first year men will be given for an annual picture.

"The Duchess" Of Chi O. Tells Of Famous Guests

Mrs. A. A. Klutz Claims to Know Everybody in North Carolina Worth Knowing

By BILL WOOTEN

"I know everybody in North Carolina worth knowing and a whole lot that are not," says Mrs. A. A. Klutz, Chi Omega house mother and one of Chapel Hill's oldest citizens.

Since she has been living here, Mrs. Klutz has seen 46 graduating classes leave the University. Many of the graduates, known to her personally while they were in school, hold high positions in this and other states, and seven of the University's presidents, Battle, Winston, Graham, Alderman, Venable, Chase, and Frank Graham, are listed among her personal friends.

Entertainer

Mrs. Klutz is somewhat famed as an entertainer, having received in her home many national and international figures. On one occasion Dr. Sarto, president of the Agricultural college at Sapparo, Japan, on a tour of American colleges, spent several

Council Plans Are Outlined By Campbell

Aim of Interdormitory Head Is Operation Of Old Ideas

By JIM SVERTSEN

Senior Engineer Francis "Boo" Campbell, newly elected president of the Interdormitory council, sat in Phillips hall yesterday afternoon and expounded his aims for the council during his coming term of office.

"The past three years have been spent in building the machinery of the organization," Campbell explained, "and now we are ready to put it into operation." Continuing by giving examples of some of the issues which have been under fire for some time, President Campbell brought to light the question of dormitory socials.

Dorm Dances

"The idea of dormitory dances started by Supervisor Ellis," Campbell said, "will be continued. We have in mind a combination of the dormitories in each quadrangle," he explained, "with each of these groups sponsoring one or two large dances each year." Turning to the question of opposition by the University officials of sponsored dances during the week, Campbell described the rule govern-

Coker Will Head Ecological Group

Zoology Professor Elected President of 25-year-old Society

Dr. R. E. Coker, head of the zoology department of the University, was elected to the presidency of the Ecological Society of America at a recent meeting of the organization in Atlantic City.

Old Society

The body which Dr. Coker now heads is 25 years old and is made up of some 800 scientists drawn from the fields of zoology, botany and geography.

The Ecological society is engaged mainly in the study of animals and plants in relation to their environment.

New President

Dr. R. E. Coker, head of the University Zoology department, who was recently elected president of the Ecological society of America.

Board Admits 153 Ineligibles To University

Department Heads Say Failure Statistics No Greater

Of the 313 undergraduates who were ineligible for readmission to winter quarter work because of failures, 153 were readmitted last week by the University's two readmissions boards. The remaining number was either denied readmission or did not seek it.

Statistics

Heads of schools who compared failure statistics during the past weekend yesterday stated that the number of "bust-out" students last quarter was probably no greater than in past years.

The most serious increase occurred in the general college, where 39 freshmen last quarter failed to pass at least one three-hour course, compared to a total of only 15 with a similar record last year.

Arts and Sciences

Out of approximately 800 students of the College of Arts and Sciences, only 12 of that group failed to return this quarter because of scholastic difficulties.

Eight of the 116 ineligible sophomores in the general college made themselves eligible by second examinations or special work.

Dean C. P. Spruill has not been able to compile statistics of sophomore failures during past years, but he feels that 116 ineligibles out of a class of 564 is no greater a percentage than has existed in previous quarters.

CPU Executive Body Considers Speakers To Be Invited Here

Picture Is Taken of Committee at Last Night's Meeting; Plans Are Laid

Swinging into action following a lull in the political field, the Carolina Political Union executive committee met last night in the small lounge of Graham Memorial to discuss the business of the coming quarter.

Following their sitting for the camera, the executive committee conducted a discussion of prospective political speakers to be sponsored on the campus by the union.

Among the speakers to whom invitations will be extended are Sen. Lodge from Massachusetts, Sen. Byrd, Ambassador Daniels, Sen. Rush Holt, Sen. Robinson, John W. Davis, and Pat Harrison.

Work Begins On New Coed Building Here

Construction Program Planned To Cost Half-Million

The University's half-million dollar building program got under way yesterday as laborers began clearing land behind Dr. Frank Graham's home preparatory to construction of a $97,000 dormitory for women.

Bond Sale

A successful bond sale of $225,000 in Raleigh Saturday removed the last obstacle to commencement of the dormitory and a gymnasium, which will be begun later this year.

By having workmen clear ground for excavation, the University met the stipulation of the Public Works administration that work must be begun by January 11.

Funds

Forty per cent, or $283,090, of construction costs were allotted the University by P. W. A. last October. Since then University Controller Charles T. Woollen has been successful in raising the 60 per cent, or $346,000, through private subscriptions and bond issue.

The women's dormitory is designed to house 104 students, and will be of a modified Georgian architecture. Kane Construction company of Durham has contracted for the job.

Frazer Talks To "Y" Group

Discusses Peace Parley With Sophomores

Professor K. C. Frazer of the political science department addressed the sophomore "Y" cabinet at its initial meeting of the winter quarter, speaking on the South American Peace conference at Buenos Aires.

False Rumor

Professor Frazer discussed the apprehension preceding the conference due to rumors that the western hemisphere was planning complete isolation from the European powers. The speaker pointed out that this rumor was quickly dispelled by Cordell Hull, American secretary of state and father of the conference, in his opening address at Buenos Aires.

Joint Meet

Cabinet member Jim Joyner reported on the progress of his committee appointed to arrange a joint meeting either here or in Greensboro with the "Y" chapter at Women's college.

The cabinet invested its chairman, Bob Dalton, with the power to appoint a vice-president to succeed Mace Gwyer who did not return to school this quarter. The appointment will be made at the next meeting of the organization.

Elisha Mitchell

Dr. D. P. Costello, assistant professor of zoology, and Dr. Otto Stuhlman, professor of physics, will address the 373rd meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific society in 206 Phillips hall at 7:30 tonight.

"Notes on the Breeding Habits of Some Pacific Coast Nudibranchs" will be Dr. Costello's subject and Dr. Stuhlman will address the meeting on the "Biophysics of the Human Ear."

Tar Heel Meeting

All reporters and editorial assistants of the DAILY TAR HEEL must be present at meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Grail room.

Those who cannot possibly be present should call the city editor before the time of meeting. Attendance is required because important matters will be discussed.
