

Large Crowd Hears Scholar In Talk Here

Shakespeare Authority Kittredge Speaks On Characters

An audience that filled the Playmaker theater to overflowing and crowded the aisles and doorways heard George Lyman Kittredge speak last night on "Shakespeare's Villains."

There was standing room only in the house and even the pit was crowded with those who could find no other place, when Professor Kittredge, professor emeritus of Harvard university and Shakespearean scholar, was introduced to the audience as the man who for more than 50 years has been an inspiration to men teaching English literature.

Sympathetic Subject

The majestically bearded, white-haired "Kitty" began his address by saying that his subject should be a sympathetic one to most any audience.

Professor Kittredge, while speaking of Aaron, the Moor, said that like Aaron we are sometimes "sick in fortune because we have had too much of our own behavior."

He continually interspersed his readings from the Bard of Avon's plays with applications of Shakespeare's characters to present day life.

Professor Kittredge said that Shakespeare made the characters live and he found them very unpleasant company. "I must say, however, I am a critic, and when I am bad, I am as bad as the worst of them, but I hope (Continued on last page)

Engineers Ball Will Be Held Here Tonight

Carolina Inn Will Be Scene Of Final Affair

The last Engineers' ball in the history of the University will be held from 9 until 1 o'clock tonight at Carolina inn.

Revolving prisms, oscillating spectra, mirror reflections and vari-colored lighting effects have been arranged by engineering students to make tonight's their best social ever.

Last One

Under the consolidation plan, engineering courses will be available only at State College in 1937-38. Next year's senior class will mark the close of the University's school of engineering.

Music for the last engineering hop will be furnished by Freddy Johnson. Each engineer is inviting one outside guest.

Town Girls Dance

All town girls interested in obtaining bids to a dance to be given by Graham Memorial on January 29 call by the Woman's association room from 10:30 until 2 or call Erika Zimmermann at 3886. The dance committee would like to know the number of bids to be issued—those who are to receive them must leave their names before tomorrow.

National Pressmen Here Today

Dr. George Gallup, left, and Dr. Carl Ackerman are two of the speakers at today's sessions of the state Press institute in the Carolina inn. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, will discuss "Current Trends in Public Opinion." Ackerman, dean of Columbia's Pulitzer school of journalism, will speak on "The Perspective of American Journalism."

Newly Renovated Person Hall Will Be Opened As Museum Of Art Tonight

Dr. Graham, Yale Dean To Make Talks In Short Ceremony

By NANCY SCHALLERT

Tonight at 8:30 in Hill Music hall, the year-long hopes of the University art department for a permanent home will be realized. President Frank Graham will formally turn the newly renovated Person hall over to the department, which will be represented by Russell Smith.

Dean Everett V. Meeks of the Yale school of fine arts will make a short address. The director of the southern arts project, Miss Leila Mechlin of Washington, D. C., will also speak briefly.

Preceding the program Dr. Schinhan of the music school will present a short program of organ music. After the assembly in Hill Music hall, there will be a reception in Person hall with the art exhibit. No formal invitations have been sent out, and the student body and faculty are urged to attend.

Others

It is the wish of Dr. Graham and others who have made possible the new art museum that the students of the University regard the building and the exhibits as theirs, to be visited at (Continued on last page)

Koch, Green Plan Program

Celebration To Honor Dare Anniversary

For the purpose of completing plans for the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare, first of the English speaking race to be born in America, Professor F. H. Koch and Paul Green leave tomorrow for Manteo, Roanoke Island.

In collaboration with the Federal Theater projects, the celebration is being planned by the local authorities at Roanoke with Professor Koch acting as supervising director of production. Mrs. Paul Green, the former Elizabeth Lay of the Carolina Playmakers, with her husband is writing a pageant-drama for the event, the leading characters to be portrayed by professional actors taken from the Federal Theater projects.

Special Coins

A limited number of special (Continued on last page)

Korn To Talk To Hillel Body

Historian Will Discuss Jewish Pioneers

Harold Korn, eminent Jewish historian, will address the Hillel foundation discussion group in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial at 7:30 tonight.

For 35 years a student of Jewish literature and history, Dr. Korn possesses a vivid background for his topic, "The Hebraic Mortar in the American Structure."

In his talk, he will discuss the Jewish pioneers of America, "so that when the charge is brought that they are newcomers, interlopers and interlopers it is proven false by historical facts."

Purpose

The Hillel foundation, new to this campus this school year, is attempting to promote an interest in and knowledge of Jewish culture.

In addition to Friday night discussion groups, Rabbi Bernard Zeiger, campus director, is conducting a class in Hebrew language each Monday, intended to enable Jews and non-Jews to read simple passages in the natural Old Testament.

In announcing Dr. Korn's visit this week, Rabbi Zeiger also stated that Seymour Moskowitz, a student, has been appointed to conduct the traditional services at Friday night meetings.

A.K.G. Will Appoint Board For May Day

Fraternity Decides To Give Control Of Event To Board

Alpha Kappa Gamma decided at a meeting yesterday afternoon to turn over complete control of May Day to a board to be appointed by members of Alpha Kappa Gamma.

The first May Day given on the University campus was staged by Alpha Kappa Gamma last spring, but the fraternity decided that May Day would be more representative of all if a board of the fraternity be appointed to take control.

Board members will be selected at the next meeting of Alpha Kappa Gamma, January 24. Expansion plans were made and steps were discussed to have women graduates of the University recognized by the A. A. U. W.

McNutt Opens Newspaper Institute; To Address Campus At Large At Chapel Today

Indiana Governor Asks Pressmen To Build Nation's Morale

Clyde Hoey Speaks

Paul V. McNutt, governor of Indiana, stuck to a non-political theme in Hill hall last night and pled with journalists attending the 13th annual state Press institute to "help build up the nation's morale."

"I believe in the destiny of democracy," stated the past national commander of the American Legion.

His address opened the two-day newspaper institute. Carl C. Council, state press president, greeted delegates and presented North Carolina's new Governor Clyde R. Hoey, who made introductory remarks.

No Politics

During and after his talk, McNutt refused to reveal his personal political ambitions. Recent newspaper predictions have been that he is in line as Roosevelt's successor.

The governor scored "editorialized" news. "It is the greatest sin of newspapers today," he said, after revealing that he was a United Pressman for three years.

The President, McNutt said, "has made it his business to prove to the people that they had a government which could govern." He believes that a true measure of this administration should be "its scope, spirit, and vitality."

McNutt confessed himself "an invincible optimist," and left with the journalists the plea that through the press they "aid in the movement for a greater American democracy."

McNutt Definite 1940 Prospect, Says Woodhouse

Local Commentator Sees Indiana Governor as "Presidential Timber"

By GORDON BURNS

That Governor Paul McNutt has definite prospects for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1940 was the opinion of Dr. E. J. Woodhouse, University political science professor and campus political commentator, in a statement made to the DAILY TAR HEEL yesterday.

"At this time, Governor McNutt seems to have at least as good prospects for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1940 as any presidential timber in sight," commented Woodhouse. "His vigorous administration as governor of Indiana has pushed him to the front as a leader apt to suit the desires of the more conservative elements of the Democratic party."

Labor Protests

"The protests of labor leaders against his use of national guards in connection with strikes have been such by the claims of his supporters that he was merely carrying out the duty of the governor to maintain law and order and to preserve the peace of the state," continued Woodhouse. "Many who class themselves as liberal Democrats may already support or may come to support the qualifications and availability of Governor McNutt for the national leadership of the party in (Continued on last page)

Carolina Political Union To Sponsor Leader Of Democrats

Former Law Dean

Indiana's white-haired Democratic governor Paul Vories McNutt, picked by various political commentators as presidential material for 1940, will address the student body this morning in Memorial hall at 10:30, sponsored by the Carolina Political Union.

McNutt, who is in Chapel Hill in connection with the North Carolina Press Association institute, is a past commander of the American Legion and left the deanship of the Indiana university law school four years ago to become governor of that state.

State Power

When McNutt quits Indiana's executive mansion, it will be with a tight grip on the reins of party power once held by the late Thomas Taggart who died in 1929. As governor, he added more power to the office than was enjoyed by any of his predecessors, most of whom were Republicans. He made himself the first Democratic leader to have the final word in state affairs since the days of Taggart's domination.

While governor, McNutt has (Continued on last page)

Institute Men Urge Visitors To Convention

Today's Program Gives Discussion By Paul West At 9:30

R. W. Madry, head of the University news bureau and arrangement committeeman for the press institute, yesterday stressed the fact that any students and professors may attend meetings of the institute at the Carolina inn today and tomorrow.

The University and Duke, co-sponsors of the thirteenth annual newsmen's gathering, hope that as many laymen as possible will attend the programs.

Highlights

Highlights on today's schedule are the discussion of advertisers' problems by Paul West at 9:30 a. m., a discussion of "Current Trends in Public Opinion," by Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion; and a "Perspective of American Journalism," by Dean Carl Ackerman, head of the graduate journalism school of Columbia University, in the afternoon. (Continued on last page)

Professors

Members of the University faculty who expect to reply to the card-inquiry on the undergraduate grading system should send their answers to the DAILY TAR HEEL office today or tomorrow.

Up to last night, 112 members of the University staff had responded.

Student-Faculty Committee Changes Date Of Festival

King And Queen Of Day To Be Selected By Ballot

Due to the fact that February 10 is Ash Wednesday, the Student-Faculty Day committee decided at its meeting yesterday afternoon to hold the annual fete on the ninth of the month.

The DAILY TAR HEEL will run blank ballots for a week starting January 18 for the purpose of nominating the queen of the festivities. Boxes for collecting the ballots will be set up in each of the dormitories, fraternities, and in the Y. M. C. A. and Swain hall. The nomination will last a week, and then the pictures of the ten having the most votes will be published in the campus daily, subject to a final electing vote.

The girl receiving the highest number of votes in this final election, which will run from February 1-3, will be queen of Student-Faculty Day, and the two runners-up will be her ladies-in-waiting.

The king of Student-Faculty Day, who will be a member of the faculty, and also the court jester, will be elected by popular vote on the same ballots that will nominate the queen.

Nick Read, chairman of the (Continued on last page)

Union Directors To Petition For Additional Fees

Board Also Approves Junior President's Plan Informal Dances in Building

The board of directors of Graham Memorial voted Wednesday night to petition the University administration to levy a fee of 50 cents per student on all summer session students for the support of the Student Union building.

The resulting revenue from this fee would provide about $800 for the maintenance of Graham Memorial during the summer.

Junior Class President Reuben Graham's plan for informal dances to be held in Graham Memorial was approved as was Frank McGlenn's request for advertisement posters for political union speakers.

The board also voted in favor of student-faculty teas and issued a requisition for 50 chairs for Graham Memorial.

The auditor made his semi-annual report and a budget was prepared for operation until July 1.