

Writers Ball Plan Outlined By Chairman

Joint Staff Meetings Totally Approve Dance Scheme

Meeting yesterday afternoon the combined staffs of the four campus publications heard dance committee chairman Fletcher W. Ferguson outline the plans and expenses for the first annual Publications ball to be held in the Carolina Inn February 19.

Plans for the ball met with unanimous approval and many novel and entertaining ideas were offered. Committeeman Ralph Miller promised to have his date attired in ultra-surrealistic dress and she will probably carry a bowl of tropical fish and a jar of cookies to add color and flavor to her costume.

Appropriation

A proposed bill for an appropriation to help defray necessary expenses for the affair will be presented again to the Publications Union board.

The necessary deposit for reservation of the Carolina Inn ballroom has been made and bids from dance orchestras are being received.

Bids for the affair will be printed in a few days and it is hoped that the subscriptions from the various staff members will be paid shortly, according to Ferguson.

History Courses Section Teachers To Be Published

Newsome's Announcement Follows Action of Language Departments Last Quarter

Dr. A. R. Newsome, head of the history department, announced yesterday that in the future the names of the professors teaching course sections in his department will be made public.

The names of each history instructor will be placed in the next catalogue beside the courses he teaches.

Dr. Newsome also expressed himself as favoring the plan to insert the names of his history professors on the master Class Schedule, issued one week before registration at the beginning of each new quarter.

Dr. C. R. Pegg, secretary on freshman social science, a subsidiary of the history department, also commented favorably yesterday on listing professors' names beside their courses on the master schedule, and expressed himself willing to cooperate with his department in so doing.

This announcement made by the head of the history department follows action taken last quarter by the department of sophomore English, the French, German, Spanish and Italian departments in posting publicly the names of their instructors with the courses offered.

Faculty Meet

Dr. W. M. Dey's recommendations for a return to the original five-hour classes will be discussed again at a faculty meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Other business of the session, an announcement by Dean R. B. House yesterday stated, will be consideration of nominees for honorary degrees.

Shep Fields Finds Rhythm In Chocolate Soda Bubbles

"There's nothing new under the sun" has seen a good many years of wear and tear but that was before the advent of "Rippling Rhythm," the new tonal effect which distinguishes the music of Shep Fields and his orchestra which will be brought to Chapel Hill by the German club February 12 and 13.

It took Shep Fields and a chocolate soda to prove that one old saw has outlived its usefulness. He conceived this unique style while lazily blowing air bubbles into a half finished soda. Shep was "day dreaming" about the music world in general when he became amused and then interested in the sounds resulting from his air bubbles.

It was then that he seriously started to work out his now familiar "Rippling Rhythm" tones through the strange combination of string instruments together with the actual blowing of bubbles into a bowl of water before the microphone.

Through his creation of the catchy "Rippling Rhythm" style, the popular dance music field has been given its first innovation in many years.

Comic Opera To Be Given

"Pirates of Penzance" To Run Next Week

The combined efforts of the three fine arts departments of the University will be seen next Friday and Saturday in Memorial hall with the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Pirates of Penzance."

John E. Toms, voice instructor of the music department, will sing the leading tenor role and is in charge of the musical direction. Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the music department, will direct the orchestra.

Davis Directs

The department of dramatic art is staging the production under the direction of Harry Davis. The scenery has been designed by Russell Smith, head of the art department, and painted by his classes, with the assistance of the Carolina Playmaker stage staff.

The cast of 45 members is composed of students in the dramatic arts, music, and the student body at large.

In the "Pirates of Penzance," Gilbert is said by critics to have written some of his most brilliant satire on British respectability and the exaggerated moral sense of the Victorian era. It was Sullivan's intention in writing the score to hold up for good natural laughter the Verdian style of Italian grand opera.

Student-Faculty Chairman Names Pageant Leader

Miss Shallert Is Placed in Complete Charge of Coronation Ceremony

Louis Schaffner, chairman of the Student-Faculty Day committee, announced yesterday that Nancy Shallert had been placed in charge of the entire coronation ceremony of the king and queen.

Miss Shallert will work in conjunction with Professor Koch's Playmakers. She is to write the script for the event, as well as supervise the acting and costumes.

Booker Declines

At a meeting of the Student-Faculty committee yesterday, Dr. J. M. Booker, of the English department, told the group that due to pressure of his work, he would be unable to undertake to supply the coronation script, and suggested that the aid of the Playmakers be enlisted.

The announcement of Miss Shallert's selection came after

Senior Class To Try Again

Bond Asks Support for Budget Approval

Next Thursday, the members of the senior class will try to pass their class budget. Unsuccessful on two former attempts, President Niles Bond will call the third meeting during chapel period in Memorial hall next week.

Cards have been mailed to all members of the class urging them to come to the aid of their class. "Plans for Junior-Seniors are being seriously hindered by the failure of the senior class to pass its budget," said Senior Class President Bond yesterday in making the announcement of the meeting.

The three lower classes in the University have already successfully approved current budgets, and the seniors are the sole remaining class without official approval of their expenses.

Next Mag Issue Deals With Life On UNC Campus

Nell Booker Draws Modernistic Cover Representing Varied Campus Activities

Carolina campus life will be paraded in the current issue of the Carolina Magazine scheduled to appear next week, the editors disclosed last night.

Convalescent Editor Jim Daniels has given his associates, Lane Barksdale and Ralph Miller, reign in turning out the present issue of the publication.

Says Associate Editor Miller of the latest campus number: "The stories and articles will deal with those phases of college life that are most pertinent to Carolina students. Although the scenes of some of the stories are not laid at Carolina, it will readily be recognized that their subject matter has a direct bearing on undergraduate life."

Stuart Rabb has contributed an article on the Publications Union board entitled "We Tycoons." Morton Feldman has written a story of love and frustration, "Drive," for the issue.

In answer to the protests against the level of writing published in the magazine, the editors are printing a story entitled "You Asked for It," which they offer as a typical example of the copy turned in to the offices of the magazine.

"The cover by Nell Booker is a new high in effectiveness and art," said Lane Barksdale yesterday. It is a modernistic drawing representing a conglomeration of Carolina campus life.

Security Director

Frank Bane, executive director of the Social Securities board in Washington, will be the principal speaker next Tuesday night at the state conference for social service in Raleigh.

Ivey Engages Campus Band

McPherson Will Open New Swing Sessions

Next Monday night will see the inauguration of Graham Memorial's new series of popular swing sessions, with Sam McPherson's newly-formed "Buccaneers" in the leading role, Pete Ivey announced yesterday.

The programs, which are to be played every evening from 7:15 to 7:45, Mondays through Fridays, will be made up of requests which can be left at the office in Graham Memorial at any time, Ivey said.

Ivey also revealed that present plans call for the engaging of a different orchestra each week.

Coed Dance Bid

Coeds may obtain tickets for tomorrow night's coed ball in the Woman's association room of Graham Memorial, Spencer hall, and the Chi Omega and Pi Phi houses today and tomorrow from 10:30 to 11 o'clock in the morning and from 2 to 6 p. m., according to an announcement by the chairman of the dance committee.

Dimpled Darlings Choose Their Ideal Campus Beau

Johnson Most Attractive, Ivey Sweetest of Local Swains Spencerites Say

By KITTY DE CARLO

As the result of a survey taken at Spencer hall it was found that the Carolina coed's ideal man is a brunet with brown eyes, is not a football player, is primarily interested in his studies, is sincere, well-mannered, well-dressed, considerate, intelligent and possesses a sense of humor.

These characteristics received the highest number of votes. One coed insists on virility in a man, while another wants one who is cosmopolitan. The worst quality he can have is conceit, with bad manners and vulgarity running second and third.

Snooping Agent Uncovers Plots In Jester Fight

Poe Supports Ellis, Ellis Supports Poe in Campus Political Mix-up

By UNITED WE PRESS

Party lines with blocs and counter-blocs are being sharply drawn in the electoral battle for Student-Faculty Day jester, it was reported yesterday by a DAILY TAR HEEL political spy.

Constituents of Albert Ellis, ex-president of the Interdormitory council and campus behind-the-throne-man, are rallying to his support, casting ballots by blocs in an effort to elect him jester, the report said.

Meanwhile, Ellis, who claims he is "the victim of a malicious conspiracy," has organized a counter-bloc which is supporting Charlie Poe, ex-editor of the Carolina Magazine and law school big-wig, for the same office of jester.

George Riddle and John Moore, self-appointed campaign managers for Ellis, have grouped Old East, Old West, and Steele dormitory men into a party, which they say, is solid behind their candidate.

Riddle and Moore could not be reached for statements yesterday, but it is understood that they have guaranteed to Ellis the bloc vote of the three dormitories.

When asked about his candidacy, Ellis laconically said, "I am 100 per cent for Charlie Poe," and that was all he said. Poe, when interviewed, tossed the candidacy apple back to its first lap and said, "I am 200 per cent for Ellis."

It is understood that fraternities of the University party are organizing, but it is doubtful where they throw their 300 per cent support.

A. S. U. Executives

The executive committee of American Student union will meet Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Graham Memorial to discuss changes in the organization of the group.

University Request Is Lower Than 1929 Appropriation

Enrollment Larger

Against the advice of his physician, Dr. Leonard Fields, President Frank P. Graham pulled himself out of a sick bed to go to Raleigh to make a personal plea for appropriations requested for the consolidated University of North Carolina.

Dr. Graham has been confined to his home for the last two weeks with a severe attack of influenza and he was still running a slight temperature when he left home last night. The University hearing, originally set for Tuesday, had been postponed until last night when the last of the appropriation requests were scheduled for consideration by the appropriations committee of the legislature.

Less Than '29

Speaking for the three units of the University at Chapel Hill, Raleigh, and Greensboro, Dr. Graham stressed the fact that with nearly a thousand more students now than then, the consolidated University asks $200,000 less than was actually received from the state in the peak prosperity year of 1928-29.

The total amount requested

Duke To Present Preview Showing Of French Movie

"Golgotha" Will Open Monday for Three Shows Prior to New York Premiere

A preview showing of the French motion picture, "Golgotha," to secure audience reaction prior to its New York premiere will be given next week at Duke.

The film according to Harold M. Manser, representative of a New York motion picture distributor, was produced in France about a year ago, and has been playing continuously in Paris for more than 10 months. It is scheduled for presentation twice a day at the 55th Street theater in New York beginning next month.

Three Shows

Three shows will be given at Duke according to the schedule. The first will be Monday night at 8:30. The other showings will be on Tuesday.

Several critics, prominent in the theatrical world who have seen private showings in New York have given it a higher rating than "King of Kings," Cecil B. DeMille's production of a decade ago.

"Golgotha" depicts the last days of the earthly life of Christ. Music by the 120 piece Paris Symphony orchestra furnishes a background for the picture.

Those who have seen private showings of the English version say that the picture is true to history and done with a reverent manner.

High School Parents

Grade parents of the Chapel Hill high school will meet this afternoon at 3:30 in the high school library to hear talks by O. K. Cornwell, Harry F. Comer, and Miss Josephine Sharkey.
