

Budget Vote Up Tomorrow Before Seniors

Bond Sends Post Card To Each Member Of Class

All seniors received post cards this morning from President Niles Bond informing them of the senior class meeting to be held tomorrow morning at chapel period in Memorial hall.

Bond stated, "Until the budget is approved, no definite plans can be made for the Junior-Senior dances, Senior week or any other projects."

The purpose of the meeting is to approve the class budget. Unless a quorum of 250 is present at the meeting to pass on the budget, no class expenditures this year are legal.

The senior class executive committee is the first to try post-al cards to assemble half its class for a budget approval. Last fall the junior class officers used an orchestra to attract the necessary number of juniors to the meeting. The sophomores had two unsuccessful attempts before a quorum attended a budget meeting in November.

Class meetings for budget approval were ordered by the student council last fall, with the announced intention of forcing students to be aware of the expenditures of their class.

Catholics to Worship in Old M. E. Church

Senior Frank McGlenn yesterday announced that the 100 Catholic students that form the worship group in Graham Memorial each Sunday have secured the old Methodist church on Franklin street for weekly services.

The old church building will be cleaned and prepared for occupancy by at least the spring quarter.

"Y" Cooperating

McGlenn has been active during his years on the campus in gaining a permanent home for the Catholic group. The Y. M. C. A. is actively cooperating with his efforts.

Before it met in Graham Memorial, the group used Gerrard hall. Father Morrissey of Durham leads its services.

The old Methodist building, which is adjacent to the new Methodist church, has served several years as a welfare station. It seats approximately 175 people.

Students Request Instructors Names On Class Schedule

Committee on Education Pre- sents Dean Hobbs with Formal Petition for Consideration

The student Committee on Education yesterday presented a formal request to Dean Hobbs suggesting that the faculty Committee on Instruction consider the possibility of printing on the class schedules the name of each professor next to the course section he teaches.

"The class schedules," the petition says in part, "do not carry the names of instructors teaching each course section. When a student enrolls for a course taught by more than one professor, he has no way to find out the teachers of the various sections and cannot make a selection of an instructor. Although the value of a course depends largely upon the professor who provides the stimulation, students may enroll only for courses, not instructors. . . ."

"As a group of representative students, we wish to suggest . . . that the name of each professor be printed next to the course he teaches on the University class schedule."

Combined Committees Discuss Grade Plan Here at Length

Favor Oral Exams

The faculty Committee on Instruction and the student Committee on Education discussed for three hours yesterday the implications of the recent survey of faculty opinion on the grading system and considered the pros and cons of a "High," "Pass," "Fail" system.

After Student Nancy Schallert presented the results of the survey, showing that one-third of the faculty answerers favored the substitution of a "High," "Pass," "Fail" standard for the present system, Dean D. D. Carroll said, "That certainly would be a lot simpler."

Stimulus

Dean Carroll openly remarked: "I prefer the High, Pass, Fail system myself." The great variety of grading, he said, makes for injustice.

"If you cut out the present system," asked Pi Phi's Julia Folsom, "how are you going to replace the stimulus the grade gives?"

Grumman Commends Town For Help In Flood Relief

Red Cross Head Announces Con- tribution of $608.26; Clothes Being Collected

"It is only fair to say that Chapel Hill is responding admirably to the need for flood relief funds," said Russell M. Grumman, president of the local Red Cross chapter, yesterday.

Tabulations up to 2 p. m. yesterday showed that the people of Chapel Hill have given $608.26 to be sent to the stricken areas. Yesterday's contributions amounted to $293.26.

Generous Response

W. E. Thompson, treasurer of the local unit, said that the Red Cross is still receiving contributions and will continue to do so as long as the emergency and necessity for relief of suffering lasts. Mr. Thompson complimented the citizens of Chapel

Hill on their generous response to the need for funds.

The local president expressed himself as being very much pleased with the collections. "Especially since there has been no concerted drive, and all the support has been entirely voluntary," said Mr. Grumman.

Janitors Contribute

Various groups have been meeting for the purpose of collecting money for the relief of flood victims. A group of Negro janitors yesterday held a meeting and took up a collection which they turned over to the Red Cross to be used in the inundated regions.

Mrs. Otto Stuhlman, secretary of the local Red Cross, has been put in charge of the collection center for clothes at the Durham Dairy Products store. (Continued on page three)

Phi Deplores Paper Policy On Education

Daily Tar Heel Editorial Page Is Denounced By Assembly

By RUTH CROWELL

The editorial policy of the DAILY TAR HEEL was the victim of an attack by the Phi assembly last night and was denounced with only three dissenting votes.

The representatives voted 25-3 that the DAILY TAR HEEL should devote less space on its editorial page to the educational policy and more space to topics of general interest to the students.

Representative Wiley Smith trounced the second page of the campus daily, saying, "It is bunk and hokey. I read it once, but never again. I think the reason so much tripe on education is run is just that students don't like to work."

"Space Filler"

Representative Harry McMullan made a plea for a newspaper instead of a space-filler. S. B. Bradley argued in favor of the education policy stating that he thinks it represents campus opinion and is a thought-stimulating factor. Representative Jack Fairley summed up the discussion saying, "I strongly suggest that the second page be" (Continued on page three)

Freshman Heads Will Decide Date For Class Party

Winter and Spring Quarter So- cial Events to Be Discussed At Meeting Tonight

At the bi-monthly meeting of the freshman executive committee to be held tonight, plans for the freshman smoker will be presented. The smoker was originally set for January 29, but has been postponed indefinitely because of a basketball game that is being played on that date. The new date will be decided on tonight.

According to Baxter Taylor, president of the freshman class, the meeting is to be the most important of the quarter as plans for the social functions of the class for the next two quarters will be discussed. It is necessary for all members to be present.

The self-help committee will make a report on its investigations. The committee has been working with Mr. Edwin Lanier.

ASU Coed Petitions Will Be Presented To Trustee Board

Final Plans to Be Made at Meet- ing in Graham Memorial Tonight

With the majority of the campus having signed the American Student Union petitions asking for the admission of Chapel Hill girls to the freshman and sophomore classes, the union will meet tonight to make final plans for presenting these petitions to the board of trustees Saturday.

No estimate has been made yet as to the number of signatures secured but a final tabulation will be made when all petitions are turned in.

N. C. Republican Leader Jonas Will Also Give Speech

Senator Rush D. Holt, of West Virginia, and Charles A. Jonas, Republican national committee-man from North Carolina, have accepted invitations to speak in Chapel Hill, it was announced Monday night by Frank McGlenn at the executive committee meeting of the Carolina Political union.

Senator Holt is a native of Weston, West Virginia, and is the youngest member in the United States Senate. He is remembered as the young man who was voted into office and was forced to wait several months to become of age before he could become active in the office.

Former Internationalist

Although he believes in President Roosevelt and the New Deal, he disagrees with the party leader on many vital questions and would vote accordingly.

Once he was an ardent internationalist, but events of the last decade have convinced him that the United States should adopt a hands-off, self-contained policy in foreign affairs.

"I will follow my conscience rather than my Senate leader," he says. "I have never compromised and I don't intend to start now."

Jonas

Committeeman Jonas hails from Lincolnton, North Carolina, and has served both in the United States House of Representatives and the North Carolina General Assembly, being the Republican leader in the legislature for several terms. He visited Chapel Hill last fall with Colonel Frank Knox and will speak here on "The Future of the Republican Party in America."

Tattooed Chests To Add Bizarre Effect To Play

Victorian Night Gowns, And Multicolored Costumes To Be Used

In addition to the usual pirate hats with skulls and crossbones, jewelry, and cutlasses, a number of the more masculine of the Playmakers appearing in the "Pirates of Penzance" production will have mermaids tattooed on their chests, according to latest reports from the costume department. Among them will be broadchested Bertram Halperin.

Night-gowns according to the taste of England's Victoria, full tail police uniforms, brilliant colored satin and velvet pirate costumes, and silk brocade dresses of every color available are being assembled and made by Mrs. Ora Mae Davis of the department.

Other reports from the basement of Bynum gym say that the stage crew of the Playmakers with the assistance of the Art department have completed the two sets, designed by Dr. Russell Smith, head of the art department. The sets consist of a rocky coast in England and a deserted chapel. The first scene includes a ship in the background.

In designing the sets Dr. Smith is said to have followed the ideas used in the stage designs of the Victorian era.
