Campus Sees Comic Opera Staged Here

"Pirates of Penzance" Will Appear Again Tonight, 8:30

Under the musical direction of Dr. Glen Haydon and John Toms and the stage management and direction of Harry Davis of the Playmaker staff, the first performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "Pirates of Penzance," played before a student audience in Memorial hall last night.

Tonight the second performance will be given in Memorial hall at 8:30.

Culbreth Stars

Bruce Culbreth as "the very pattern of a modern Major General" was the hit of the evening, judging from comments after the performance.

Other principals in the cast are John Toms, as Frederic; Bedford Thurman, pirate king; Beverly Hamer, Ruth; Mary Haynsworth, Mabel; Bob Nachtmann, captain of police; Kenneth Pollack; Mary Lillian Speck; Romagna Mackie; Prada Ann Toms.

Chorus

The chorus, always considered one of the most important factors in a Gilbert-Sullivan performance, includes Louis Jordan, John Paul Nickell, Charles Pennington, Frank Turner, Howard Richardson, Charles Templeton, Harold Augenblick, DeWitt Barnett, Bertram Halperin, Neville Ross, Sanford Reece, Glenn Starnes, James Little, Robert Stewart, and Cleve Macgowan.

Coed Tea For Faculty

As a preliminary to Student-Faculty Day the Woman's association will entertain at a tea in honor of the University faculty Sunday afternoon, February 7, from 4 to 6 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

Bagby Puzzled By Antics Of John Hinson's Squirrel

Pet Nests and Keeps Regular Hours in Home of Book Exchange Clerk

By VOIT GILMORE

Dr. English Bagby revealed yesterday that he is unable to psycho-analyze the antics of a Chapel Hill squirrel which makes its nest in the home of John Hinson and keeps regular business hours.

Hinson, a Book Exchange clerk, stands by the story that every night between 8 and 8:30 his un-named pet comes to the window, scratches, and runs in when the door is opened.

After several minutes of playing with the family, Sir Squirrel literally says "good night" and ascends the wardrobe to his nest atop it.

Next morning it gets a breakfast of nuts from Hinson then goes out to play all day.

"It's the darndest story I ever heard," says Psychologist Bagby. But Hinson has several

Final Election On Queenship Starts Today

Complete Royal Family To Be Announced Next Week

The race is on for the honor of being queen of the Student-Faculty Day ceremonies. The 10 coed winners of the all-campus nominating vote vie today and Monday for the post of queen and her two ladies-in-waiting.

A blank ballot is printed on the back page of this issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL to aid faculty and student voters in their choices for rulers of the annual good-will festival.

The king and court jester were elected by popular balloting last week, but the Student-Faculty committee has kept their names secret. The results will be released next week when the campus has chosen its queen.

Pictures of the winners in the nominating election of last week will be posted in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., accompanied by a short biographical sketch of each girl.

Randy Berg, chairman of the faculty invitation committee, urges all individuals and fraternity groups to submit their lists of faculty luncheon guests to the Y. M. C. A. office as soon as possible.

close-up indoor photos of his pet, which pretty well prove his tale.

Nurse

It all began, he said, when he found the animal just a baby and fallen from its nest last fall. Several weeks of eye-dropper feeding firmly attached the animal to his god-father.

Hinson says it will play with him and any other "friends of the family," but shies from strangers.

One sad episode in Sir Squirrel's life came not long ago when the Hinson family was away and it couldn't get in. After desperate scratching, it tried the chimney and got caught in the pipe that led to the Heatrola. Late that night Hinson heard him and unloosed the piping.

Sir Squirrel was just sooty-black and a bit upset over the accident, but has told the Hinson family that he will keep his side of the bargain if they'll start staying home at night.

AKG To Seek Aid In Joining AAUW Rank

Final Student - Faculty Plans Arranged At Meeting

Alpha Kappa Gammians decided at a meeting yesterday to draw up a complete report of obstacles standing in the way of the University's women graduates being recognized by the American Association of University Women and to present the report to the administration, asking for their help in meeting the standards of A. A. U. W.

Suggestions were made by the members of the fraternity as to overcoming conditions present in the women's set-up and these ideas will be incorporated in the report for the approval of the administration. It was also decided that the report be presented to the board of trustees.

Carnival Plans

Final plans were made for the fortune-telling booths for the Student-Faculty Day carnival. A.K.G. is in charge of securing palmists and crystal gazers to prognosticate the future of the revelers.

The fraternity voted to hold a benefit bridge party the afternoon of February 8 in the lounge of Graham Memorial at 3:30. Prizes and refreshments will be given the card players.

Further plans were developed for May Day, and the idea of incorporating a Homecoming day for alumnae with the spring festival was considered. Two former Alpha Kappa Gamma members were present for the meeting, Gretchen Gores and Ellen Deppe of Asheville.

Ex-Coed Visiting Campus Friends

"Carolina Looks Like Heaven," Says Ellen Deppe

"Carolina looks like heaven!" That's the way it looks to Ellen Frances Deppe, prominent coed leader of last year, who is visiting the campus this week.

"We need more bicycles—and more men," is Deppe's suggestion for Carolina.

"My only serious opinion about the campus," Deppe says, "is that it is in danger of over-organization."

Studies Drama

President of Alpha Kappa Gamma and poetry editor for the Buccaneer and Magazine last year, Deppe has been studying drama in New York this fall. This spring she will return to continue her drama studies. She said that although there are lots of things to see in New York, the people here are nicer.

Deppe likes the Magazine and Buccaneer this year although she does not understand the latest Magazine cover.

When asked how long she intended to stay here, Deppe replied, "Until this article is printed."

Hines Resigns

Dean D. D. Carroll, of the school of commerce, announced Thursday that Sam Hines has given up his post of assistant of statistics here at the University to take a position as assistant to the head of the Bureau of Statistics of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Paul H. Livingstone will take Hines' former position here, Carroll said.

Graduate Women Leaders Discuss Fellowship Plans

Trustee Resolution States Grad- uate Appointments Open To Men Only

At a recent meeting of a group of graduate women leaders, a discussion was held concerning the distribution of fellowships and assistantships among graduate students, and plans were made to present a resume of the situation to the administration.

Mary Kapp said, "The situation is inequitable. Only three fellowships in the graduate school are open to women."

Statistics from the office of Dean W. W. Pierson, head of the graduate school, showed that 24 per cent of the women graduates hold appointments, while 42 per cent of the men are favored.

Brought out in the discussion was the fact that there exists a trustee resolution establishing teaching fellowships for men only. The reason for this, according to the women graduates, is that teaching fellows instruct only in the first and second year classes where there are no women students.

The group announced its intention of taking steps to ameliorate the inequality between men and women in the receiving of graduate appointments.

Prominent Men Expected To Attend Chemical Meet

Many Leaders Announce Inten- tions of Taking Part In Convention

By GORDON BURNS

Reading like a veritable "Who's Who in Chemistry," the list of prominent scientists in the world of chemistry, who will probably attend the American Chemical society's convention here in April, is slowly but surely rising.

One of the more prominent names is that of Professor James Kendall from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, who is a world-known chemical educator and is the author of several text books used extensively both here and in England.

Dr. Martson T. Bogart will represent Columbia university at the convention. He is an authority on organic compounds. Dr. Roger Adams from the University of Illinois who is expected to attend the convention, is an authority on Chaulmoogra oil, the

Local Red Cross Staff Announces Relief Donations

Carolina Theater Will Show "Fury" Tonight; Proceeds to be Used in Flood Relief

The treasurer of the local Red Cross unit announced yesterday that flood relief contributions in Chapel Hill had reached $1,260 at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Contributions of money and clothing are still going in to the various groups that have undertaken the collection.

E. Carrington Smith announced yesterday that the Carolina theater will hold a special midnight showing of "Fury" starring Spencer Tracy and Sylvia Sydney tonight. The entire proceeds from the movie will be turned over to the Red Cross to be used for flood relief.

Fate of State Coach Will Be Decided At Meeting

Status Is Disputed

The fate of Heartley "Hunk" Anderson, as coach of the N. C. State football team, will be decided today by the trustees of the Greater University, meeting in the governor's office at Raleigh.

The athletic controversy rose last December when President Frank Graham nullified the contract extended to Anderson by the Raleigh athletic council. Since that time Anderson's status has been disputed.

At State college members of the athletic council contend that it is their privilege to employ whomsoever they see fit as coach of the State athletic squads. Instrumental in carrying the fight to the trustees was David Clark, member of the council.

Athletic Control

Dr. Graham, however, as president of the Greater University, argues that it is his prerogative of office to control athletics in Raleigh as well as Chapel Hill.

Anderson, who has coached at State for the past three years, has been accused of soliciting football material. Observers believe that it was for this reason that Graham refused to permit the engineering school's authorities to re-employ Anderson.

It is believed that the trustees' decision on the status of the former Notre Dame coach will decide also several other features of the Greater University. Argument has centered between "home rule" and the centralization of authority.

"Home Rule"

Officers of State and the Women's College believe that administration of those two units should be left up to local administrators. The consolidation (Continued on last page)

Paper Makes Grade Survey

Campus Opinion on UNC System Sought

Three hundred students equally representing each class will this weekend receive DAILY TAR HEEL educational survey blanks, which are designed to test campus opinions on the quarter system and the present grading plan.

The questionnaire reads as follows:

"Do you prefer 8 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. classes?"

"Do you prefer the semester system rather than the present quarter system?"

"Do you prefer a 'Good-Pass-Fail' system of grades rather than the present 'A-B-C-D-E-F' system?"

"Do you prefer five-hour classes to the present three-hour classes?"

The DAILY TAR HEEL survey is being made to parallel similar questionnaires recently sent members of the faculty.

Piano Concert

Harold S. Cone, graduate student in music, will appear in a piano concert of Schumann's works Wednesday night at 8:30 in Hill Music hall.
