Pirates Play Gratis Show For Refugees

Comic Opera Company To Give Benefit At 8:30 P. M.

As a special benefit for the flood relief there will be a third performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Pirates of Penzance," tonight at 8:30 in Memorial hall, it was announced last night by Harry Davis, in charge of the production.

There will be no admission charge for this Sunday evening performance, but an offering will be taken during the intermission. It is hoped by the producers that a liberal contribution will be received for the Flood Relief fund.

Cooperation

The directors and cast say that they are whole heartedly behind this third performance because of their desire to help relieve the wide-spread distress in the flood states.

The orchestra for the performance will again be under the direction of Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the music department. The performances of Mr. John E. Toms, Mary Haynsworth, Bedford Thurman, Beverly Hamer, Bruce Culbreth, Bob Nachtmann in the principal roles, and the choruses have received the applause of large audiences at the last two performances.

Players Will Give Five New Dramas As Experimentals

Playmakers to Give Works of Hamer, Feldman, Spearman, Beaty, and Holland

As the Playmakers' first contribution to experimental drama this quarter, five plays will be presented to the campus at the Playmaker theater Tuesday night at 7:30.

The first play, directed by Lubin Leggett will be "Funeral Flowers for the Bride," a play of mountain people by Beverley Hamer of South Carolina, and includes in the cast Walter Spearman, Janie Britt, Evelyn Snider, and Don Watters. "The Steep Road" by Joseph Feldman, directed by Frank Durham follows with Bedford Thurman, Harold Liskin, Lammy Alderman, Gerald Hochman, Manuel Korn, John Graff, and Sam Hirsch in the cast.

Kate May Rutherford, Edgar Hinton, Janie Britt, Howard Richardson, and Pat Bynum will be seen in Walter Spearman's "Abide with Me," a comedy of rural South Carolina directed by Marion Hartshorn, while "Mrs. Juliet," by David Beaty, will have in the cast Beverly Hamer, Jessie Langdale, Juanita Smith, and Ernest Vanderburgh. On the bill will be a play from the legend of Old Lynnhaven, "Rosemary's for Remembrance," by Sally Willis Holland of Wilmington, Va., directed by the author.

Stage manager for the production will be Frank Durham assisted by Paul Quinn, Thomas MacIntosh, Walter Preston, Joseph Feldman, and Eugene Langston. The plays are under the general supervision of Samuel Selden.

Final Elections for Queenship and Ladies-in-Waiting to Close Wednesday

Tomorrow morning the Y. M. C. A. lobby will blossom forth with pictures of the 10 coed winners of the nominating vote for the queen of Student-Faculty day.

Final elections for the queen and her two ladies-in-waiting will close Wednesday morning, and the results will be announced in Thursday's issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL.

Louis Shaffner, chairman of the Student-Faculty day committee, has placed individual ballots in all the dormitories and fraternity houses as well as in the Y. M. C. A. Heavy voting is expected as a result of the combined DAILY TAR HEEL and individual ballots.

Rehearsals

Nancy Schallert, who has written the coronation script, plans to start rehearsals for the royal pageant as soon as the winners of the elections are announced.

Voting for the king and court jester is over, and the names of the two victors will be made public as soon as the queen is elected.

The new style blank ballots which appear on the back page of today's DAILY TAR HEEL carry the names of the 10 winning girls. Voters will check only one name, and then leave the ballot in dorm stores, in fraternity houses or in the box at the "Y."

Fields Forms Orchestra Just To Play Saxophone

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, national honorary service fraternity climaxes its winter rushing tomorrow night with a party for its rushees.

The affair will begin at 8 in 215 Graham Memorial. All brothers and pledges must be present to assist in carrying out the program.

Bradshaw To Speak

Dean Francis Bradshaw will speak on "Education and Human Relations" at the sophomore "Y" cabinet meeting at 7:15 tomorrow night in the browsing room of the "Y."

The meeting will be over in time for the basketball game.

Bandleader Twirled Baton at High School; Attended St. John's Law School

Legal training at St. John's Law school may not seem the logical prerequisite for a successful career as an orchestra leader. Nevertheless such was the fact in the case of Shep Fields, who will appear in Chapel Hill February 12 and 13 to play for the mid-winter dances sponsored by the German club. His school days were abruptly terminated upon the death of his father and the burden of supporting the family was thrust upon the shoulders of this 17-year-old boy.

Board Passes Responsibility To Committee

'Doc' Newton Suggested For Head Coach At State

By RALPH MILLER

The executive committee of the board of trustees of the University gave President Frank P. Graham virtual control of the athletic situation in the Greater University yesterday immediately after a meeting of the board in the House chambers in Raleigh.

President Graham recommended that the board of trustees elect William "Doc" Newton of Davidson as coach of football at State college, but the board refused to vote favorably on the University head's suggestion. The board expressed themselves as being of the opinion that they had no authority to elect coaches.

One Week

On a motion by Walter Murphy the board voted to put the entire problem in the hands of the executive committee. The board adjourned, and the committee immediately decided to give the State athletic council one week in which to make a recommendation for a new coach which is acceptable to Graham and to Dean John W. Harrelson of State.

If after a week the athletic council has not found a man who is acceptable to the president and the dean, Graham is then empowered to appoint a coach of his own choosing.

Incorporation

In the meeting of the board the executive committee reported that last week they had voted to incorporate the athletics at State and at Chapel Hill into the physical education department, and "Coach Bob" Fetzer received the appointment to head the Chapel Hill department.

James Gray and Carl Harris requested that the athletic council of each school be given complete control of athletics at the respective schools, but this request was refused by the board.

The executive committee, in placing the responsibility for choosing the coach on the shoulders of President Graham, gave him an indication of their confidence in his ability, but at the same time refused to side with him in his belief that the board should be required to pick the athletic officials of the Greater University.

'Y' Men Will Hear Meyer Give Address

Sociologist to Talk on Discriminations against Negro

Dr. Harold D. Meyer, of the University sociology department, will speak to the Junior-Senior "Y" cabinet at their regular meeting tomorrow night at 7:15 in the reading room of the Y. M. C. A.

The present discussion of interracial problems will be continued by Dr. Meyer. His subject will be, "Current Discriminations against the Negro in Law and Custom." This will be the second topic taken up by the cabinet as a background for the forthcoming Human Relations Institutes to be held here in March and April.

Mitchell's Novel Proves Popular On N. C. Campus

"American Doctor's Odyssey" Is Non-Fiction Book Most Often Requested at Library

"Gone with the Wind," Margaret Mitchell's novel of the Civil War period, is the most popular book on the campus, according to library circulation figures given by Dexter Freeman of the University library.

The non-fiction book most often requested is "An American Doctor's Odyssey," which the library has not yet bought.

According to the latest figures James Hilton's books have a large circulation, and Lloyd Douglas is rather popular. "Anthony Adverse" is still widely circulated. Thomas Wolfe's popularity is very constant while Gertrude Stein's books are taken out quite often, but quickly returned. Thorne Smith's popularity seems to be waning.

Mystery stories are leading campus favorites. Biographies, and books in the special collection are often taken out. Poetry has a rather constant circulation, with Edna St. Vincent Millay and Archibald MacLeish leading.
