To Help Something Better Grow

All Angles

When the University trustees gave President Graham practically personal power to fill Hunk Anderson's vacant coaching job over in Raleigh, they expressed a significant vote of confidence in Mr. Graham.

This is the same viewpoint. Of course, there are the lesser obviabilities: perhaps the trustees were passing the buck, or else just giving Mr. Graham enough rope on which to hang himself.

The "state college" athletic council didn't get a chance to stand up as any sort of authoritative body; but possibly, they, in their authority, chose to support the trustees and Mr. Graham. Such support would naturally preclude a "show down" conflict.

Incident to the proceedings was the recognition of the new physical education departments here and at Raleigh. Henceforth, athletic instructors at each school will be regular faculty members. The new "departments," say the University planners, will fit clearly apparent hierarchical requirements of the University.—J.M.S.

Flood

Sunday night the Playmakers gave for a third time their successful operetta with all contributions received going for flood relief. The preceding night the Carolina theatre sponsored a benefit performance with all proceeds sent to the stricken area. Students all over the campus have contributed clothes and money through the Red Cross.

It would be so easy for students, occupied with college activities, to overlook the tragic conditions prevalent in the Mississippi valley today. But not so in Chapel Hill. Reminded perhaps by their own never-ending torrents, students and townspeople have rallied to the pleas of the flood workers and done their bit. Their response to these efforts is gratifying.—G.B.

Heirs Apparent

Determined interest in the Glee Club ranks became apparent this week when the 35-strong organization came out with plans for a February 20 dance, a couple of big radio broadcasts, and an elaborate spring quarter tour.

As tentative as part of the advance program appears at present, the active effort of President Weaver, Business Manager Steward, and their fellows to pay off the debt remaining from the old Glee Club's European tour and to really establish themselves as a first rate outfit is significant.

Maybe these boys are the heirs-apparents of the 1926-8 gang who brought Carolina her national and even international recognition with the way they tore up "Me and My Little Banjo."—J.M.S.

Elizabeth Brock Keeler

Home address: Hendersonville, N. C.
Local address: Spencer Hall.
Came to this campus indirectly from the tropical climes of Mississippi. Went to Clarksdale, Miss. high school, and later to Mississippi State College for women. Was a member of the Theatre Guild, Lantern-Torch, and the college honorary society. A Chi O. pledge, she works for an A. B. in English. Was queen of the fall fashion show.

Patty Elizabeth Penn

Home address: Clayton, N. C.
Local address: Pi Beta Phi house.
Learned her A. B. C.'s at the Clayton high school. In her youth she was lured to dramatics and glee clubs, and she has kept to these activities through her days at Stratford college, and her at Chapel Hill.
Member of the senior class, English major and Playmaker, Patty did not vote in the Landon fiasco.

Virginia Hodges

Home address: Shreveport, La.
Local address: Chi Omega house
Went to Bird high school and Centenary college in Shreveport. In Centenary she went out for dramatics and had a post on the college paper. Entered U. N. C. this fall as a graduate in Library Science. Is a member of Chi Omega from the Centenary chapter. She is tall, of voting age, and a brunette.

Different

Money Authority Bernstein was telling his economics class the other day just how very difficult it is to determine accurate price indices.

"People don't buy the same things now they used to," explained Mr. Bernstein.

"Long ago they bought hay and oats; today, they buy gasoline. Long ago they bought that; today they buy this. Did you know that the modern woman spends about $40 a year just on cosmetics—paint, powder and lipstick—alone!"

"Who do you suppose bought all that stuff long time ago?" challenged Berny.

"THE INDIANS," sang someone. The class was dismissed.

Personification

"You can't expect me to compete with Mae West," declared Dean Carroll violently. He was telling the Education Committee that the teachers were not to blame if the students ran off to the movies.

"But, Mr. Carroll," interrupted someone, "Mae West isn't so hot nowadays. You shouldn't have singled her out as your competitor."

"Oh, I was just using her as a figure," came Mr. Carroll.

Prejudiced

Deke Tom Hines, bred-in-the-blood Southerner, didn't like Phi Delta Pledge Harvey Dewey when he first met him during rushing season this fall. He thought Harvey's grandfather, Admiral Dewey of Manilla bay fame, was a Yankee general in the Civil War.

Cheerful Giver

Reidsville students confirm the story that the man who used to live next door to the present Baptist church (before he died) gave $2,000 when they were building the church provided they wouldn't use a bell. Might wake him up on Sundays . . . The church is there today, majestic spire and all, but no bell.

No encouragement

An old Winston-Salem town law prohibits the blowing of Saxaphones after 10:30 at night.

Misegeneration

It took Economics Teacher Anderson all morning, recently, to dig out from his amused pupils the fact that he was wearing one black shoe on one foot, and a glistening tan "Sunday" on the other.

MUDDY BLUES

Won't you come along with me
Di, di, de-di-de.
Down the Mississippi
Di-de-di-de-di-di.
That's where the water runs on your floor
Not from the pipes but through the windows and door.
Cairo town . . .
Is the town . . .
Where all the people drown
Tell me how can I lose
Those muddy floody boues.
Won't you come along with me
Di, di, de-di-de.
Up the Mississippi
Di-de-di-de-di-di.
That's where they cut all the timber down
Listen to the sawmill, hear that mournful sound.
Rain come down . . .
On the groun'
And wash that bare land 'round'
Tell me how can I lose
Those timber-stripping blues.

USE THE PEN WITH TELEVISION INK SUPPLY

The Parker Vacumatic Won't Run Dry in Classes or Exams

For It Lets You SEE Days Ahead If It Needs Refilling and Holds 102% More Ink Than Old-Style

Millions of moderns are now replacing their old "blind barrel" pens with this revolutionary Parker Vacumatic because this sacless marvel ends writing "the hard way." When held to the light, it lets you see the ENTIRE ink supply, hence won't run dry at some crucial moment.

And because it has fewer parts—it holds 102% More Ink. Its Scratch-Proof Point of Platinum-Solled Gold eliminates "pen drag." Its lustrous laminated Pearl and Jet design is a wholly new and exclusive style.

This Pen is carried by more college students than any other two makes COMBINED. It won the recent Pen Beauty Contest by a vote of 2 to 1—was awarded by the All-America Board of Football to the 90 outstanding players of 1936. Try the Parker Vacumatic at any good store selling pens. Identify the genuine by this smart ARROW Clip,—this holds this Pen low and SAFE in the pocket. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

To Make Your Pen a Self-Cleaner—write with Parker Quink, the new quick-drying ink that dissolves deposits left by pen-clogging inks. 15c, 25c and up.

The Grist Mill

The balloting for the queen of Student-Faculty day is taking on the proportions of a major political battle it seems. Yesterday morning, when the circulation manager brought the usual office copies of the DAILY TAR HEEL up to the office, it was found that the ballot on the back page had been torn out of every copy.

Looks like some group is making sure that they get a ballot for each of their members. Or are they? But then it must be a group. What could any one person want with so many ballots?

We went over to see our old friend Tom Battle yesterday. Tom was in one of his confiding moods, and, while he set the table for dinner at Mrs. Patterson's, he told us that a friend of his had given him a gallon of whiskey last night.

Tom said that he had to pinch himself a little, but he made the gallon last for a week.

In one of those last minutes conferences in class before a French quiz, Tim Elliott, ex-Durham radio announcer and now a student in the University, (Continued on last page)
