Dorsey Opens Mid-Winters With Tea Dance And Prom

Maestro Gives Midnight Dixie Broadcast From Bynum

Two Affairs Today

Making his second bow before Carolina dancers, Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra opened the German club's annual mid-winter dance set yesterday afternoon with a tea dance and last night with the Junior prom.

A high spot in last night's festivities was the radio broadcast made at midnight from Bynum gym over the Dixie network of the Columbia Broadcasting system and lasting for half an hour.

Junior Figure

Preceding the intermission to the prom, the Junior figure was led by Sigma Chi's Connor Feinster with Shirley Teed. Beta John McDevitt with Rosanne Howard, and Bill James, D. K. E., with Mary Shaw Rosser, were first and second assistants.

The set will continue with another tea dance this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the German club ball tonight from 9 until 12 o'clock. Tonight's figure will be led by John Satterfield, Zeta Psi, with Caroline Page. Jimmy Carr, S. A. E., with Rosalie Waters; and Sigma Chi's Clarence Courtney with Alice Eidson will be first and second assistants.

Dorsey and his band are substituting for Shep Fields, who was engaged for the set but was unable to appear due to radio engagements in New York City.

Dorsey made his first appearance at Carolina in the fall of 1935 when he furnished music for the Thanksgiving dance, also sponsored by the German club.

Helen Jepson To Sing Here

Entertainment Series To Feature Star

The student entertainment series will present Helen Jepson, the tall and youthful blonde soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, Monday, March 1.

In the past five years Miss Jepson has made her operatic debut as Nedda in "Pagliacci" with the Philadelphia Opera, was starred by Paul Whiteman on his radio program, and climaxed her career by being the first woman engaged by the Metropolitan, directly through her singing on a radio program. Martini was the first man to be engaged in like manner.

Miss Jepson made her Metropolitan debut January 24, 1935, opposite Lawrence Tibbett in the leading soprano role of the world premiere of "In the Pasha's Garden."

Glee Club Tickets

Tickets for the glee club concert and dance have been placed on sale at Gibson's ice cream parlor, the Co-op cleaners, the University cleaners, Pritchard-Drug Co., the director's office in Graham Memorial, and the "Y."

Blonde Diva

Helen Jepson, to sing on the student entertainment series, has won fame as one of the leading sopranos of the Golden Horseshoe, and last year was swamped by applause after singing "Minnie the Mocher," with Noble Sissle's band.

James Farley Accepts CPU Bid To Speak

Talmadge, Senator Nye To Address Campus During March

Word was received yesterday that Postmaster General James J. Farley had accepted the invitation extended him by the Carolina Political Union to speak here March 9.

According to Frank McGlenn, president of the union, leading Democrats from all over the state are expected to be present for the address. Memorial hall has tentatively been set as the locale, but Kenan stadium will be resorted to in case of a very large attendance.

Talmadge

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's ex-governor, has also accepted the C. P. U.'s invitation to speak here and will appear during the month of March. Senator Ger-

Local Mail Carrier Finds Dogs Just Bit Too Rough

Health Department Responsible for Safeguarding Strowd on Beat

Indians once threatened the pony express mail, the stage coach contended with Indians, and the airmail is slowed by fog, but Frederick E. Strowd, local mail carrier, is heckled by dogs.

Recently Civil Service Employee Strowd was making his usual uneventful tour down the Vance street beat. The uneventfulness of his daily mail delivering was broken by a fox terrier, undaunted by the uniform of a United States postal man.

Mr. Strowd looked at the fox terrier, and the fox terrier looked at Mr. Strowd. Then the dog bit him on the leg, tearing the United States uniform. The post man went on his way—the mail must go through—and the dog disappeared.

A few days later Mr. Strowd was making his usual uneventful tour down Vance street. The uneventfulness of his daily tour

UNC's Standing In Scholarships Considered Low

Awards Drop from 120 to 94; Applications Now Number 400 to 500

The number of available tuition scholarships at the University has dropped in recent years from 120 to 94, a recent survey reveals.

Approximately 400 to 500 applications for scholarships are received each year by self-help officials.

The decrease in the number of available financial awards is due, University officials say, to the depreciation of endowment funds during the depression.

Seventy of the 94 awards are endowed scholarships valued at $75, awarded and controlled by the University.

The remaining 24 are special scholarships assigned at the discretion of the donors. Of these 21 are worth $75 each and 3 are valued at $250 apiece.

The University, according to Dean House, is in need of (1) more handsome scholarships, awards carrying a larger stipend; and (2) more scholarships.

As compared with Carolina's 94 scholarships, Wake Forest college offers 150 scholarships carrying stipends at $100 to $149.

Financial Backing Sought By New Dramatic Group

"Cap and Bells" Club Awaits Directors' Decision; Ivey Wants Student Opinion

Members of the newly formed "Cap and Bells" club appeared before the directors of Graham Memorial in their meeting yesterday to request $500 as financial backing for their organization.

The club is a reincarnation of the former "Carolina Wig and Masque," and has as its purpose the cultivation of song and "gag" writing for light musical presentations.

The directors deferred action

Former Student Will Act In Hollywood Production

Strudwick to Appear with Garbo; Will Play in "Gone With the Wind"

Shepperd Strudwick, former University student, has been awarded parts in two major Hollywood productions to be released this year, it was announced yesterday.

The former Playmaker will be seen first playing with Greta Garbo in her new picture "Maria Walewska," and later in the year will play the part of Ashley in David Selznick's production of "Gone with the Wind."

Last month it was announced that Strudwick had completed his road tour with Ina Claire in "End of Summer," and had gone to Hollywood for screen tests.

Activities

While a student at the University, Strudwick was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Golden Fleece, D. K. E., and the Carolina Playmakers. He was a member of six Playmaker tours. Graduating in 1929, he went to New York to try his luck on

Playmakers Start Work On New Bill Of Original Plays

Major Program Will Be Presented Toward End of February

Rehearsals are in progress for the new bill of plays to be presented as a major bill at the Playmakers theater toward the end of the month.

Of the four plays to be shown, three were written this year in the playwriting classes of the dramatic arts department, and represent a selection of the best plays of the year. The fourth was written by John W. Parker, of the community drama department.

Directed by John Walker, the first play will be "Fire of the Lord," by Frank Durham, followed by "Sleep on, Lemuel," written and directed by John W. Parker. "Funeral Flowers for the Bride," written by Beverley Hamer and directed by Lubin Leggett, follows; and the bill is brought to a close with "Leavin's," a play written by Janie Britt and directed by Josephine Niggli.

Duke Attempts Belated Rally In Second Half Of Game

Mullis, Ruth Star

By E. KARLIN

Providing the necessary scoring punch to squelch all of the Duke quintet's late scoring drives, the White Phantoms overwhelmed the Blue Devils 41-35 in the Tin Can last night, registering their tenth consecutive win of the current season.

The Carolina quintet jumped into the lead after two minutes of play and it was never headed thereafter. The score at half-time stood 26-12 in the Phantoms' favor.

Mullis With 14

Pete Mullis captured high scoring honors for the evening with timely long shots which netted him six field goals and two fouls for a total of 14. Captain Earl Ruth was second highest with 12 points, while Cheek led the Blue Devils attack with 11 points.

After two minutes of play, Ruth converted a foul, but the count was tied after another minute of play when Podger also converted a free throw. This was the closest Blue Devil quintet came throughout the remainder of the half. The Phantoms scored eight more points before Edwards made good a creep shot for Duke's first field goal.

20-8

Cheek followed this by converting a free throw and the score stood 9-4. Mullis scored on a set shot and Podger threw

Faculty May Alter Hours

Eight O'clock Classes To Be Considered

Dean A. W. Hobbs said last night that at the next general meeting of the faculty he will recommend that the faculty consider changes in school hours.

Under the dean's supervision, a list of the opening hours of classes at various universities of the country has been printed and distributed to faculty members.

A possible change to 8 a. m. classes will be considered.

Following is a portion of the information distributed yesterday:

"In view of the forthcoming discussion of Dean Hobbs' motion for a change in the University schedule, the following figures, gathered last year, may be of interest.

"First class begins at 8 a. m. at Catholic university of America, U. of Michigan, Northwestern U., State U. of Iowa, U. of Texas, Indiana U., Clark U., U. of Illinois, Brown U., Calif. Institute of Technology, U. of Chicago, U. of Nebraska, Ohio State U., Cornell U.

"Only a few classes begin at 8 a. m., at U. of Pennsylvania.

"Classes begin at 7:10 a. m. at Yale U., U. of Missouri, U. of California.

"Classes begin at 8:38 a. m. at Washington U.

"Classes begin at 9 a. m. at Harvard U. (permitted as early as 7:45), Columbia U., Massachusetts Institute of Technology."
