Joint Phi, Di Session Meets To Criticize Daily Tar Heel

Education Policy, Lack Of National News Under Fire

Standard Opposed

By RUTH CROWELL

The Phi assembly, the Di senate, and representatives of the DAILY TAR HEEL staff sat in council last night to praise and find fault with the campus daily newspaper and to make suggestions for its improvement.

The main objections raised against the DAILY TAR HEEL were the education policy, lack of adequate state, national and international news, poor handling of the sports page, "free advertising" given the Carolina cop association through correspondence, "Sand and Salve," and "Happy Birthday" columns.

Standard

Representative Drew Martin commented, "The editorial and business policies do not come up to the standard of University publications, education is car-

Comer Talks To 'Y' Group About Negro

Negro Is Held Back By White Race, Says "Y" Secretary

Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. told the Junior-Senior "Y" cabinet Monday night that the white race today is suffering a superiority complex in regard to our present interracial problems. "The modern Negro today," he explained, "does not want to be kept, as if a slave. We have tried to throw him off, but like the cat, he always comes back. The question is, why do we worry so much about race discrimination? It is certainly not any worse than the low standards of our economic conditions."

Background

Mr. Comer was substituting for Dr. H. D. Meyer of the Uni-

Opera Star Sings "Minnie The Moocher" At Benefit

Helen Jepson in Sister Act With Lily Pons and Gladys Swarthout

By BOB PERKINS

With the addition of a Negro orchestra and a bubble dance, the Metropolitan opera could change into a successful night club, for they have singers capable of putting the show over, as was proven at a recent stage relief benefit.

Marc Connelly was master of ceremonies that night on the stage of the New Amsterdam theater where he introduced Noble Sissle and his band. Sissle gave two numbers, and then Mr. Connelly interrupted to announce, "Mr. Sissle's vocalists," Misses Lily Pons, Gladys Swarthout (of last year campus fame), and Helen Jepson (to make history in Memorial hall March 1).

Bull's Head Sign Is Found Missing

The disappearance of another campus figure, equalling that of the now-famous photograph of Miss Hazel Beacham last year, was made known to the campus at large yesterday. This time, it is the Sign of the Bull's Head that is missing.

Upon arriving at the Bull's Head book shop yesterday morning, Miss Nellie Roberson and her extension library assistants found their shop without its sign. Mr. Horner in the English department had constructed the benign visage of the bull ten years ago and it had been used ever since, both in the old "Y" shop and after its removal into the ground floor of the University library.

According to Miss Roberson, unless the old sign is returned, the shop will have to resort to a printed letter sign instead of the traditional Bull's Head.

Hobbs Says Early Classes Would Allow Hour Chapels

Classes Would Begin at 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, With Chapel Tuesday, Thursday

Dean A. W. Hobbs said yesterday that he is chiefly concerned with providing sufficient chapel hours in the recommendations of a change to 8 a. m. classes that he will make to the faculty at its next meeting.

Under the plan classes would begin at 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12 in the morning. Assemblies would be from 10 to 11 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Saturday Classes

Saturday noon classes would be eliminated by being moved up until 10 a. m.

The only classes at 10 a. m. would be Monday-Wednesday-Friday three-hour classes. Five and six hour classes would be impossible because of bi-weekly chapel at that hour.

Visitors

The dean believes that hour-long assembly periods each week would make possible desirable mass meetings of the student body, and insure sufficient time for talks by prominent visitors.

He said yesterday, however, that his recommendations would not be practical in case of restoration of the five-hour basis of classes, and that they should not be considered until Dr. W. M. Dey's pending plan is settled.

Dean Hobbs admits that many professors and students would object to earlier classes, but he feels that soon after such recommendations as his are adopted there will be general satisfaction.

Korff Speaks To Freshmen

"Hitler's Storm Troops" Talk Subject

"Hitler's Storm Troops" formed the subject for a talk by Professor Nicholas Korff in freshman assembly Monday morning in Memorial hall.

"In order to clearly understand the storm troops," said Professor Korff, "it is first necessary to picture the atmosphere out of which they were created. First you must imagine a Germany 10 times as tragic as the South after the Civil War. No jobs for millions, many political parties, civil war as the continuation of World War, 200,000 dead from starvation and the grim spectre of despair over all."

Freedom

Case Against Business Men Is Dismissed

Judge Phipps Releases Three Merchants From Charges

The three Chapel Hill business men accused of violating the state lottery laws were dismissed yesterday morning in recorder's court on grounds of incomplete evidence.

E. Carrington Smith of the Carolina theater, J. L. Sutton of the Sutton Drug company, and the Pritchard Drug company were alleged to have broken the lottery laws through schemes of cash refunds to lucky customers.

Joe Heard, one of the operators in the movie house took the stand and testified that there was no need for anyone to buy a ticket to have a chance to win the Friday night cash prize. The two drug stores stated that the winner of their daily refund contests did not have to be a patron.

Henry A. Whitfield, Chapel Hill attorney, represented the three defendants, and held that since there was no entry fee in any of the refund plans, and participants did not have to pay anything in order to have a chance to win, the lottery laws had not been broken.
