Student View On Education Aired In Poll

Answers Show Favor For New System Of Grading

Preference for a "Good-Pass-Fail" system of grades, for five-hour classes rather than the present three-hour classes, and for 8:30 a. m. classes instead of the proposed 8 a. m. classes, was indicated by 157 representative students who answered a DAILY TAR HEEL poll on educational policies conducted during the past two weeks.

Questionnaires were distributed under the direction of Voit Gilmore, to male and coed graduate and undergraduate students in every class. The opinion of approximately every 18th student is represented in the poll.

On Grades

Eighty-five students that replied favor a "Good-Pass-Fail" grade system rather than the present "A-B-C-D-E-F" system. Sixty-four do not. Eight that answered were undecided.

The greatest single preference shown by the group was for continuation of the present quarter system. Only 12 per cent, or 18 of the 157, favor the semester plan.

One hundred and twenty-one of the group reported having gone to school under systems of both five- and three-hour classes.

8 A. M. Classes

Twenty-four of the group would like 8 a. m. classes. One hundred and twenty-eight would not.

Several students answering the questionnaire expressed in decision on certain preferences. "We're doing okay now," said one freshman. A sophomore asked for a comparative system of grading rather than the present one.

The newspaper poll was prompted by a suggestion of Dean D. D. Carroll in a recent meeting of the Student-Faculty Committee on Education that a poll of student opinion on such matters of educational policy be taken to parallel the recent one made among faculty members.
