Patterson Sets Tentative Dates For Grail Dances

Series Of Three Fall Dances Likely To Begin Week-End Of South Carolina Game

Three significant dates for the fall dances sponsored annually by the Order of the Grail will probably be chosen in the next few days, Joe Patterson indicated last night.

Exchequer Patterson expects the dance series to open next Saturday night, the initial event thus following the South Carolina football game here. Another may follow on the Duke week-end and two the week-end of the Tulane game. Fall Germans are expected to fill the week-end of the Fordham game.

Freshmen will probably not be admitted to the initial Grail dance next week-end due to the period-of-silence that rules over fraternity men and freshmen rushees.

Accident

In danger of losing his sight as the result of an explosion of a chemical pipe-line, last April, he has been recuperating during the summer and has fully recovered his sight.

During 1932-33 and 34, he played a roving guard position on the Tar Heel eleven and captained the 1934 outfit under Coach Carl Snavely. Though bothered by a bad knee that year, Barclay played 441 out of a possible 540 minutes of actual competition. His roving tendencies enabled him to score often on pass interceptions and fumble recoveries.

Henry at Columbia, South Carolina, and if all goes well, will have the one-under-their-belt confidence which, combined with their weight and ability, will make them plenty dangerous in their second appearance.

Coach Don McAllister has taken a bunch of proven brilliant sophomores from last year's South Carolina team and has brought them through a practice session which will make them doubly potent as juniors. Ticket reservations indicate that it will be one of the biggest first-game crowds Kenan stadium has ever accommodated.

Since Carolina's introduction of this new combination to intercollegiate football, it has become quite popular in many sections of the country. One of the more recent appearances in a somewhat similar uniform was the Chicago Bears in their game against the All-Stars in Chicago.

Missed the 13th

Crashing into print with a record of 12 consistent points in as many attempts after touchdowns, Tom Burnette shared punting honors with Little last year and has been assigned the same duties this year.

This trio averaged 45-minutes per game last year and this experience puts them heads, if not shoulders, above the number two outfit.

Choice Seats Go To Alumni

Applications for Tickets Already In Mail

With all of the games but one of the University of North Carolina's football team scheduled for state gridirons, the athletic association has taken steps to see that the alumni of the University get first choice of tickets.

The ticket applications for the old grads and the young grads and the semi-old grads and the semi-young grads have been put in the mails already and applications will be filled in the order of receipt. Only the game with New York university, to be held in Yankee stadium, will be played outside of the Old North State.

During the summer, unsolicited orders for tickets have poured into the athletic association office.

Tickets will be sent to the alumni fifteen days before the game.
