JAPS SET UP CUSTOMS OFFICE IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Sept. 27.—Japan has moved a step nearer complete domination of the area around Shanghai by establishing customs houses in the district, American business men in the city revealed today.

The move, they say, will finally throttle foreign commerce in the settlement to make way for a Japanese controlled metropolis along the waterfront.

Meanwhile conflicting reports were issued by the opposing armies. The Chinese said they have broken the Japanese attack in the northwest, and recaptured three villages. The Japanese claim more victories in the sector.

The region around Nanking was bombed but an attack on the city itself failed.

FARLEY DISCREDITS THIRD PARTY RUMOR

Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 27.—There will be no strong third party in the 1940 national election, Postmaster General James A. Farley said here today.

"The liberals and progressives who supported Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936 will find that the 1940 Democratic presidential nominee will run on a platform that will include their objectives and therefore will have the same appeal as the 1932 and 1936 Democratic platforms," he declared.

He added that he had not discussed the third term question with President Roosevelt.

REPUBLICANS PREPARE FOR NEXT CAMPAIGN

Washington, Sept. 27.—John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, held a meeting today with 15 young Republican leaders who came to the capital in advance of a larger meeting later this fall.

The party's preparations for state campaigns are said to be well under way. When his conferences are over, Hamilton declares he will be ready to move into the states.

Hitler's Dress Rehearsal

By Stuart Rabb

On a hilltop in North Germany, two men are standing. The tall, thin man wears a mustache like that of Groucho Marx. But no one ever tells him that his mustache resembles Groucho Marx's. Groucho Marx would not like the idea either. The thin man's companion has a lantern jaw which he wears thrust forward. Both men are dressed in military uniforms. The lantern-jawed soldier has a white horsehair plume in his black shako.

They are watching, these two, through field glasses the plain that stretches out on all sides. Down there thousands of soldiers are marching, other thousands riding in tanks, and over them, as far as the horizon, fly squadrons of war planes. Far to the east, beyond vision, comes another army. Now on the east-

Ambassador Dodd Contrasts Democracy In United States With That Of Other Nations

CPU Speaker Addresses 1500 In Memorial Hall

Praises Jefferson

By RANSOM AUSTIN

William E. Dodd, United States ambassador to Germany, in an address before 1,500 people in Memorial hall, declared last night that "public officials should not ignore historical facts."

"People who left Europe in the 16th and 17th centuries were the people who wanted democracy," the ambassador said.

American People

In contrasting democracy between the United States and other nations, Dodd said the American people are the most democratic in the world.

Thomas Jefferson, the ambassador said, is one of the great democratic leaders that is not represented by a monument in the nation's capital, and several societies had rather "spend money on the upkeep of the Japanese cherry trees than give money for this purpose."

FRAZIER SPEAKS TO "Y" CABINET

Junior-Senior Council Told Of Peace

The Junior-Senior cabinet was addressed last night by Dr. Frazier of the political science department.

Frazier spoke upon peaceful change, and its importance upon the international front. He cited the words of Secretary of State Hull—for whom he expressed the highest of opinions—in which the diplomat stated the principle of state viability; that is, the state finding living room for itself.

Frazier emphasized that he was not attempting to justify the foreign policies of certain dictators, but merely offering the formula from which the

BERRYHILL TALKS BEFORE ASSEMBLY

University Physician Explains Use Of Infirmary

"I feel that I know quite a lot about you already," said Dr. W. R. Berryhill, the University physician, in the introductory statement of his talk in freshman chapel yesterday morning.

Dr. Berryhill's subject was, "How to Use the Infirmary." He mentioned briefly the facilities that the infirmary offers, and said, "There is a nurse in the building all through the night, and a doctor is either there or some place where she can get in touch with him immediately. Whenever you feel that you need medical aid of any sort, do not fail to report to the infirmary immediately."

Little Things

Dr. Berryhill added, "The little things that you often ignore can develop and have serious results." Be sure to guard against this by seeing one of the three University physicians."

His statement to the effect that "the class of '41 is one of the most intelligent freshman groups seen here in several

Williams received his doctor of philosophy degree here and taught freshman English for several years. Many times he was scored for leading class discussions that were pro-communist in nature rather than devoting class time to the study of grammar.

Plans For Caravan To New York Game At Ohio Field Given

Ivey Announces Offer From Picadilly Hotel

400 May Make Trip

Although the expected University delegation to the N. Y. U. game will be in New York at a time when high hotel rates will prevail as a result of the world series, Pete Ivey yesterday gave the student body hope for the lightening of the expense burden.

"We have an attractive offer from the highly recommended Picadilly hotel on 45th street just off Times Square," said the Graham Memorial director. "U. N. C. students can get a single room with bath for $2.50, a double room for $4 and 3 in one room for $5."

The offer was made by the manager of the hotel, Edward Wallnau, a native North Carolinian, who offered to make the hotel student headquarters in New York. According to Ivey, he has given the students permission to make themselves as much at home as possible, including the making of that much-talked-of bonfire.

With 400 students expected to make the trek to New York, Ivey has also decided to do something about the transportation problem. For this purpose he has announced that Graham Memorial will inaugurate its Transportation service.

World Series Will Move Tilt From Yankee Stadium

October 9th Date

Not at the Yankee stadium, not at Greensboro, but at Ohio field in New York, will the Carolina-New York game be played on October 9. So said Walter Skidmore, freshman grid coach and varsity basketball mentor, on his return from New York yesterday, where he scouted N. Y. U. and completed arrangements for the game.

With Skidmore's statement, a number of noble rumors bit the dust. Yesterday, not a few of the students were buzzing about that the game might be played at Greensboro or Raleigh.

Out Of Question

But the game in North Carolina on October 9 was out of the question, since Duke and Tennessee have the stage in Durham that day.

The Carolina-Violet tilt was
