ROOSEVELT PROMISES BALANCED BUDGET

Bonneville Dam, Ore., Sept. 28.—President Roosevelt today promised the nation a balanced budget for the fiscal year 1938. He was speaking atop the great dam built here with federal funds.

The reference to the budget was incidental in his speech devoted principally to the advantages of economic planning.

"Under our laws," Mr. Roosevelt said, "the president submits to the congress an annual budget—a budget which, by the way, we expect to have definitely balanced by the next fiscal year."

He concluded the address by declaring that America was wiser to spend its income on such projects as the dam than some other nations on armaments.

Members privately evidenced doubt that the committee will report favorably upon the proposal.

Other resolutions offered included one asking for uniform marriage and divorce laws.

Reserve officers whose terms would end in 1938 were ordered to remain in service another year.

General mobilization, however, has not been called.

Council Approves Expenditures For Hammer's Booklet

Two Pamphlets On Student Government Here Compiled By Former Campus Leader

Appropriations for printing two pamphlets on student government at the University, compiled by Phil Hammer, '36, were approved by the student council last night. As its one-third share on the expenses of the booklets, the council allocated $100. The other $200 will come from administrative sources.

The first of Hammer's two pamphlets is a contemporary study of student government on the campus and the way it is conducted. The other pamphlet, a study of the history of student government and activities. Much space is given to the history of the development of student self-government.

Hammer, who was editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL and a campus leader while here, is personal assistant to Senator Robert LaFollette. He worked all summer compiling the two forthcoming pamphlets.

Other routine budget appropriations came up for discussion at the council session.

SCHNELL SPEAKS OF INTRAMURALS

Director Explains New Athletic Program

"Our major extra-curricular activity is the intramural program," said Dean F. F. Bradshaw, in introducing Herman Schnell who gave a talk before the freshmen yesterday.

Mr. Schnell, in outlining the program for the coming year, said that the system "gives every student on the campus a chance to participate in some form of competitive sport."

In touch football, basketball, and soft ball, leagues will be organized and definite schedules made up. "Any student who does not participate in one of the major, varsity or freshman sports is eligible to take part in the intramural program," Mr. Schnell continued.

Town Boys

He further explained that "town boys can play on any dormitory team, but once they sign up for one they cannot change. They have until October 15 to make their choice."

"Any boys who are not interested in going out for the intramural teams will have a chance to become assistant managers—or can help out in the intramural program."

Rev. Prout was the only man in his graduating class who completed his senior year, Alumni Secretary Maryon Saunders said. Several other students, released by the close of the Civil war, came back to Chapel Hill for commencement and were awarded their degrees.

Council Fails To Take Action At Meeting Today

Alibis Established

No new developments have cleared the mystery of the Spencer hall robbery last Sunday afternoon, it was reported yesterday by Miss Nancy Nesbit, who, as president of the woman's council, is in charge of the investigation.

The exact procedure which will be used to investigate the robbery is, as yet, undetermined. Although the woman's council met yesterday afternoon, the subject of main discussion was the Spencer hall dance Friday night. No action on the robbery was taken.

Alibis

By this time every coed has been able to establish an acceptable alibi. Monday night it was revealed that the council had several suspects in mind, but these have been absolved, it was said yesterday.

Those in charge of the investigation feel that, although each Spencer resident seems to have presented an airtight account of her whereabouts during the dinner hour last Sunday, there is a strong possibility that the robbery was committed by some one living in the dormitory.

As there were many visitors in Spencer hall Sunday afternoon, it cannot be determined positively that the authors of the crime were residents.

Lie Detector

Last year when a similar robbery occurred in Spencer hall, all residents were quizzed under
