RUSSIAN MAY BE LEADING CHINESE

Shanghai, Sept. 30.—Japanese officials here charged today that the head of Russia's Far Eastern army, Marshal Vassily Galents-Bluecher, is chief strategist of the Chinese forces.

Twice daily, they said, the Marshal calls the Soviet embassy in Nanking by telephone from his headquarters in Siberia to receive reports and give advice on troop movements.

Russian munitions and supplies are being hauled regularly into western China, the Japanese declared.

At the same time, the Soviet ambassador, Dmitri Bogomoloff, was flying to Moscow for a conference with his superiors.

Negroes And The Cotton Crop

By Stuart Rabb

Standing idle today in the unpaved streets that wind through "The Bottom" are scores of Negroes. The good people who live in the East Carolina community of Dunn call their slum section "The Bottom." Two months ago there would have been nothing unusual in this display of idleness. But today begins October and the cotton fields around Dunn are still white. If the fiber isn't picked in two weeks, the weather may spoil it beyond the worth of picking.

Cotton is not being picked around Dunn because the Negro pickers are striking. They are striking for minimum wages of one dollar per hundred pounds. Farmers say they can't pay such wages.

Now if the Negroes had planned

HARKINS WINS PRESIDENCY IN LAW ELECTIONS

Misses Reid, Johnson, Shumake Elected Co-Treasurers

Any members of the law school's first year class who are delinquent in the paying of the dues will find that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male," as that body elected yesterday as co-treasurers Misses Margaret Reid, Margaret Johnson, and Elizabeth Shumake.

Male students who managed to squeeze through the female landslide were H. S. Harkins, president; J. G. Johnson, vice president, and L. Williams, secretary.

Which makes it an even three couples for an impromptu party—or something.

Committee Named To Have Charge Of Senior Week

President Joe Patterson Plans To Make Innovation In Traditional Campus Affair

Joe Patterson, president of the senior class, yesterday announced that he had appointed a committee for the purpose of drawing up a new plan for Carolina Senior Week: Bob du Four, chairman, Nick Read, Stuart Rabb, Bill Jordan and Lytt Gardner.

Each year, at the University of Tennessee, the senior class presents what they call the "Hillside Pageant." According to Patterson, "The entire class assembles at dusk, some late spring day, on the side of a hill near the campus. Each member carries a torch, and after a few brief talks by important alumni and campus leaders, the group forms a huge letter 'T' high up on the slope. On the crest of the hill behind them a lone bugler, silhouetted against the sky, blows taps."

Ceremony

"Nearly ten thousand people witness the ceremony each year," said Patterson. Last spring Bob du Four was sent to Knoxville to scout the "Hillside Pageant" and it is something along that same order that Patterson hopes his committee will decide upon.

Cole Says University Party To Organize; Murnick Denies

Date Not Yet Set

A charge made yesterday by Student Party Chairman Bill Cole that the University party would participate in the nearing freshman class elections was vehemently denied last night by Joe Murnick, head of the University party.

Cole said, "The Student party will take part in freshman elections under its own name. We would suggest that the University, which will no doubt participate as it has in the past, also use its own name. To use anything else is misrepresentation and hypocrisy."

No Intentions

Murnick said, "The University party never has participated in freshman elections and has no intention of taking part in this one."

Cole said, "Let's have no University party controlled 'John Doe' party in these elections. Let's bring the whole thing out in the open."

Murnick said, "The University party is connected in no way with any political line-up for the freshman elections. If any University party members are organizing, they are doing so without party support."

Decrease In Skin Diseases Revealed In Inspection Here

Health Department Holds Investigation Among Children In High School

A marked decrease in the number of cases of contagious skin diseases was revealed by the Chapel Hill health department's first inspection of grammar school children. The purpose of this inspection is to prevent the spread of such diseases among the schools.

Dr. William P. Richardson, district health officer, stated, "The carrying out of this program during the past two years has made children, teachers, and parents more alert, and has cut down greatly the incidence of these conditions."

The inspection of children in the first, third, and sixth grades was completed this week. Not only are physical defects checked on but an effort is made to stimulate the pupil's interest in his own well being. Points checked on are the state of nutrition, vision, hearing, teeth, tonsils, skin, and heart. All children found with these defects are referred to their family physician or dentist and follow up visits are made to the home.
