PRESIDENT CALLS SPECIAL SESSION

Washington, Oct. 13.—President Roosevelt today ordered a special session of congress November 15 in order to enact, by Christmas, the remainder of his legislative program which was sidetracked in the last session.

Hope was expressed by administrative officials that congress would speedily approve of the following five points mentioned in the President's "fire-side" chat last night.

The first measure mentioned was the crop production control to "build an all-weather farm program so that in the long run prices will be more stable."

Second was the wage and hour standards to "make millions of our lowest-paid workers actual buyers of billions of dollars of industrial and farm products."

The other bills mentioned were the regional planning to conserve natural resources, government reorganization of "twentieth century machinery," and stronger anti-trust laws for "a low price policy which encourages the widest possible consumption."

This is the first special session called since the bank holiday of 1933.

Due to the size of the program planned by the President, some question was raised as to what the reaction of the congress will be, and if they would be in a better mood to follow his leadership than last summer.

In this battle alone, 3,000 Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded, and all along the lines of fire from land, sea, and air the Chinese seemed to be holding their ground.
